On the Fence.

Biggest Free Trade.
200,000,000 Ounces.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 21.

OF THE WICKERSHAM report you might say that the commission came out of a solemn conference and straddled the fence. You get the impression that gentlemen chosen for political purposes don't quite dare say what they think.

They affirm that prohibition doesn't work, and there isn't adequate observance or enforcement. They suggest spending more money on prohibition, and confirm what has often been said here, that those now young will be old before prohibition comes out of the Constitution, since nothing less than a revolution could take it out.

Further, no legal sanction of light wines and beer is recommended.

The best that wets can hope for is increasing bootleg production, the law falling into deeper contempt.

PHILADELPHIA'S liberty bell, silent for 100 years, will issue 13 cracked sounds, one in honor of each original state, on Washington's birthday. If Washington at the sound could rise, like Napoleon's old soldier when he heard the cannon growl, he would be interested in the 48 United States of 1931.

He would wonder at our calm submission to organized crime, in the gutter and higher up, but would be proud of the country's size and power.

AT THE ADVERTISING Club of Los Angeles luncheon yesterday several railroad presidents, including Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, and Paul Shoup, of the Southern Pacific, talked about railroads and what they and the public need.

J. L. Haugh, vice president of the Union Pacific, reminded the large gathering that this nation is the largest area in the world enjoying free trade. California ships her products from 1,800 to 3,500 miles in different directions, no tariff anywhere.

IF THE RUSSIAN experiment goes through to success, perhaps with some "capitalistic and military leader" taking the job away from the Bolshevists, as Napoleon took it from the French revolution, Russia and Siberia combined might have a free trade area bigger than the United States.

REGARDLESS OF AREA it will take long for any country to have as big a business as ours. There is no excuse for bad conditions and idleness here, except the excuse of foolish ignorance. Killing the value of silver has ruined hundreds of millions of our customers. Allowing unlimited stock gambling has taken the minds of millions from their real business.

And our stupid emigration laws shut out the populations on which our success and prosperity are built. But all that foolishness will be overcome.

THE UNITED STATES offers to lend China 200,000,000 ounces of silver for 50 years, according to news from Peiping.

Governments change rapidly in China and 50 years hence China's rulers may have forgotten about the loan.

However, we have the silver and it doesn't matter much whether we have it, or China has it.

LENT AT PRESENT prices, if we got it back at 1981 prices plus interest, we should probably make a net profit of 100 per cent above interest.

The world will not be stupid enough to leave silver at its present price, thus making it impossible for 800,000,000 users of silver money to buy goods in the markets of gold standard nations.

EVEN IN SUNNY Los Angeles, some men like to express their opinions violently.

So-called "Reds," otherwise men and women who think we haven't a perfect system of government, determined to hold a parade, and the police said "You mustn't." Tear gas was used, and police automobiles bumped, at not too high speed into the parading crowd. The police won the fight, but several had bleeding noses, faces bruised, knuckles skinned.

MORE THAN two million people live in Los Angeles and the substantial cities that are direct continuations of Los Angeles. This season 675,053 automobiles have come from other states bringing 1,864,000 people.

Draw your conclusions about the future of this place.

You could have bought the whole thing not long ago for a few thousand dollars.

THE FATHER of Eugene Meyer, head of the Federal Reserve, said:

"I sold my land in Los Angeles, invested it in my business with Lazard Freres, and I made money. But I should have made ten times as much if I had simply kept the land."

Get good land, keep it, and it will keep you.

That applies to land well chosen, anywhere in the United States, from the Florida palms to the 800-year-old fir trees that grow near Seattle and make a giant oak look like ragweed.

WAR DOESN'T pay, crime doesn't pay. Miss Lucille Walters, 19-year-old blonde lady, out here, admits many robberies. She wore a red wig, blackened her eyebrows, and collected about $2,000. Said she:

"All I have got to show for it is a hat, dress and a pair of shoes worth $12."

She lost a good deal at poker.

MERCURY 5-10 TONIGHT

Fair, cold weather with the mercury dropping to between 5 and 10 degrees tonight, was predicted today by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. Today the low point was 17 at the weather bureau at 8 a. m.

Tomorrow the thermometer will rise, but later in the week the forecaster sees another frigid spell. The first severe cold in the Klondike this year, 26 below zero, was expected to reach here by Saturday night or Sunday.

Half an inch of snow covered slippery highways today, causing much skidding and slowing down traffic.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 21.—Northwestern Pennsylvania highways today are in the worst condition of the winter, with several inches of snow here and six to eight inches along drifted stretches. A blustry storm prevails. Every available snow plow was ordered out at midnight. Highways north of here to Meadville and Erie are badly drifted. At Franklin the Allegheny River is completely frozen over.

Taxes in England Close Astor Home

TAPLOW BUCKS, England, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Viscount Astor, whose wife is the famous woman member of Parliament, disclosed that he had decided to close Cliveden, his beautiful estate near here, temporarily, because of heavy taxation. He announced his decision at the annual meeting of the tenants on the estate.

7 Dead, 1 Injured Under Avalanche

MUNICH, Germany, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Seven of eight Bavarian constables who were buried in an avalanche near here yesterday were found dead under the snow today. The eighth was still alive but severely injured.

DE VOE TRIAL SPECTATORS STAMPEDE

Policeman Fires at Fleeing Prisoner, Causing Panic In Court; Case Near End

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Pandemonium struck the packed throngs attending the trial of Daisy DeVoe today when Policeman Gearhart fired three shots at an escaping prisoner.

Gearhart then chased the prisoner through the crowded corridors and captured him near the door of the district attorney's office.

The De Voe trial is on the eighth floor of the hall of justice and the prisoner was said to have escaped from custody on the seventh floor mounting the intervening steps.

NO ONE HURT

No casualties were reported in the crowd.

Judge William C. Doran, presiding at the trial of Miss De Voe, charged with grand theft of the money of Clara Bow, film star, announced he would give the case to the jury late today as final arguments were resumed in the case.

Court was adjourned late yesterday after Prosecutor David H. Clark, in giving the final argument for the state, branded Miss De Voe a perjurer and blackmailer and charged that she had betrayed the trust placed in her by the screen's red-headed "It" girl.

DEFENDS GIRL

Nathan Freedman, Miss De Voe's attorney, summed up the case for the defense today.

Rex Bell, movie cowboy friend of Miss Bow, and Alfred Mathes, the fiance of Miss De Voe, gave the final testimony.

Miss Bow was not in court, her physicians reporting that a severe cold was keeping her at home.

COLLEGE BURNS, LOSS MILLION

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The main building of the Polish National Alliance College here—including the school's fine museum—was a mass of smouldering ashes today, and faculty members estimated the loss in last night's fire at close to $1,000,000.

Many valuable relics, including letters exchanged by George Washington with distinguished Poles who aided him in the American Revolution, were prey of the flames.

College officials said today the Polish government once had offered the school $50,000 for these letters.

No one was injured. The 500 or more students, who were in the chapel when the fire broke out, were not informed the building was ablaze until they had filed out in perfect order.

Nancy Miller's Prince Sued By Women Held Captive

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Two new faces in the gallery of women whose life courses have crossed that of the former Maharajah of Indore were revealed in a suit for $70,000 damages filed here against him today.

Charges that she and her daughter were imprisoned 11 years in the former potentate's palace at Indore are made in the action by the plaintiff, Mrs. Sowkaibai Pandarinath Rajpurkar, widely known Indian operatic singer.

It is the singer's charge that Sir Tukoji Rao Holkar, who married the American girl, Miss Nancy Miller of Seattle, three years ago, and whose previous love affair with the beautiful Mumtaz Begum, Mohammedan dancer, cost him his throne, not only wrongfully restrained her and her daughter but seized her furniture, jewelry and other property in Bombay.

GOV. PINCHOT TO BATTLE FOR PLANS

Confers With Coyne, Harris And Mansfield on Fight Looming in Legislature

By E. W. PRENDERGAST,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today met three senators from Allegheny County and two from nearby counties to discuss the strategies of a war that promises to be hectic and dangerous to the Pinchot policies.

Senators Frank J. Harris, James J. Coyne and William D. Mansfield, of Allegheny County, G. T. Weingartner, of Lawrence, and C. J. Buckman, of Bucks, broke through the stream of visitors that deluged the executive offices.

SILENT ON PLANS

Nearly two hours later they emerged, silent as to their plans. They wouldn't mention how they would meet the onslaught of the Philadelphia unit, which, it was learned, will be led by three country senators, Baldwin, of Potter County; Scott, of Center County, and Earnest, of Dauphin County, while the Philadelphia war board silently guides them from behind the scenes.

Allied with the Philadelphia group are: Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., and Herman P. Brandt, of Allegheny County.

The move to have leaders from other than Philadelphia augured the war to come and indicated the eastern group's sensitiveness to the Pinchot cry of "the state against the Philadelphia gang."

The action of the Philadelphia group in squeezing out Pinchot men from chairmanships, and

British Vote Defeats MacDonald

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The MacDonald government was defeated today in the House of Commons by 282 to 249 on an amendment to the education bill.

The defeat by 33 votes came unexpectedly.

Prime Minister MacDonald said no vital principle was involved. Thus the government will not be obliged to resign.

Thompson Better; Will 'Step on Gas'

J. V. Thompson, former millionaire coal magnate of Uniontown, was reported recovering today in the Eye and Ear Hospital, where yesterday he underwent an operation for the removal of cataracts impairing his sight. Dr. Stanley Smith performed the operation.

Commenting on his future plans, Thompson said:

"When I have fully recovered from this operation I am going to 'step on the gas.'"

QUIZ SLEUTHS ON NUMBERS

Behind closed doors Dominick Cequegrani, 45, of Graphic street, today is said to have reiterated his charges that he was hired to sell lottery numbers by Precinct Detectives Robert Burke and James Noon.

Police Supt. Walsh, Public Safety Director Clark and the police inspectors constituted the board of inquiry which heard the accuser following the regular meeting of the police trial board.

The two detectives were present to hear the charges and they, too, were questioned by their superiors.

Noon and Burke arrested Cequegrani yesterday in East Liberty on a charge of selling numbers. When he was arraigned in East End Police Court Cequegrani charged that the detectives and a man named Smith had hired him, and had arrested him because they thought he was cheating them in the payoff.

The two detectives were suspended by Director Clark following the charges.

Derailed Trolley Ties Up Traffic

Downtown traffic was jammed for 10 minutes today when the rear trucks of a Crosstown-Bedford car jumped the tracks at Sixth street and Penn avenue. A piece of iron, which apparently had dropped from the car, was blamed.

The trucks were dragged along Sixth street towards Liberty for 50 feet, but nobody was hurt.

Dry Law All They Said It Was, and Gallons More

Mr. Wickersham is a man who must always have the last 100,000 words in an argument.

His fugitive commission is as badly divided as a salted mackerel.

Its report found that prohibition was a noble endeavor. It's all of that. And a few gallons more.

Some members are for enforcement, some for revision, some for repeal and some of the members are just some of the members.

All commissions are like the man who was chased by the grizzly.

WICKERSHAM 'WASTE' SCORED

20-Month Study at Cost Of Half-Million Held to Be Nullified by 'Verdict'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Charges that President Hoover forced a dry verdict in spite of preponderant evidence to the contrary, and that the 20 months' work of the commission represented a half-million dollar waste flew about the capital today as controversy raged over the Wickersham prohibition report submitted to Congress yesterday.

Now definitely assigned the leadership of the dry cause, which he espoused unqualifiedly in his letter transmitting the report, President Hoover remained silent while confusion reigned.

Chairman George W. Wickersham, however, felt compelled by the insistence of the reports to issue a formal denial that the President had "brought pressure" to bear upon the commission he heads.

HOOVER DRY

Meanwhile, with Senators and Congressmen avidly studying the full text of the report, these developments marked today's sessions of both houses:

A thinly veiled charge that President Hoover prevented the Wickersham commission from "saying something worth while" was made by Senator Hawes (Dem.), of Missouri, who declared the report pleased neither wets nor drys, and that it represented a waste of $500,000. He branded the individual opinion of Wickersham as "the weakest, the most evasive, illogical and difficult to understand" of the 11 filed.

A resolution was introduced by Senator Tydings (Dem.), of Maryland, calling for a senatorial investigation to determine the meaning of the commission's findings. It set forth that the membership of Congress is "puzzled" by the paradoxes of the report, and it also contained reference to White House "pressure."

A resolution was sponsored in

Hughes Disqualifies Self At Dry Test Hearing

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The decision of Federal Judge Clark, of New Jersey, declaring the Eighteenth Amendment unconstitutional, was ridiculed by Solicitor General Thacher in opening oral arguments in the government's appeal in the Supreme Court this afternoon.

The tiny courtroom was crowded at the opening and members of the court listened closely.

Chief Justice Hughes surprised the spectators by disqualifying himself at the outset to participate in the case.

In 1920, the Chief Justice signed a brief in support of the constitutionality of the prohibition laws in the famous test case of that year, as "a friend of the court" and he, therefore, felt that he could not with propriety sit in judgment upon the present case involving to some extent the same questions.

The Chief Justice's disqualification reduces the number of judges who will pass upon Judge Clark's decision to eight.

Thacher maintained that the point on which Judge Clark's decision was based—that the prohibition amendment should have been submitted for ratification to state constitutional conventions instead of legislatures—had been decided in the national prohibition cases in 1920.

Seldon Bacon and Julius Henry Cohen, of New York, both appearing voluntarily, were to occupy two hours of the court's time with their argument upholding Judge Clark's contention.

ADMINISTRATION CHIEFS FORCE DELAY ON RED CROSS FUND

LEADERS SET HEARINGS IN HOUSE

Testimony on Need of Federal Aid Planned; Filibuster In Senate Delays Bill

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Further delay in enacting the proposed $25,000,000 federal relief fund was foreseen today when administration leaders decided to hold hearings in the House, after it receives the legislation from the Senate, to learn whether government aid is necessary for the nation's destitute.

The Interior Department appropriation bill carrying the relief fund was tied up temporarily in the Senate by a filibuster against an Indian appropriation. Two Senators—Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma and King (Dem.) of Utah—fought the bill because it carried an item appropriating $51,000 of the tribal funds of the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache tribes. The senators charged the appropriation would bankrupt the tribal funds.

TO PROLONG MEETING

The President's spokesmen declared they would hold the Senate in session continuously from noon today until the bill is passed. They regarded the clash over the Indian funds as a part of a general maneuver designed to force a special session of the new Congress.

The Red Cross appropriation meanwhile languished because of the Indian row. That particular fact did not annoy administration leaders as they hope to block congressional action until the middle of February, to give the Red Cross time to complete its drive for $10,000,000.

The proposed House hearings would be another move for delay. Under present plans John Barton Payne and other Red Cross officials would be called to describe the progress in raising subscription funds, and to give their opinions as to the necessity for governmental aid. Administration leaders expressed a desire to hear the Red Cross officials even though the latter have been under fire ever since they appeared before a Senate committee two weeks ago. It was Payne himself who told the Senate the Red Cross needed no more funds, only to make a public appeal two days later for $10,000,000.

HASTY CHECK

The move to delay the appropriation by holding hearings was decided after a hasty check of the House revealed that body would overwhelmingly approve the fund if given an opportunity to vote on it. The President's friends meanwhile hoped to arrange a compromise ultimately by which the appropriation would be advanced to the Red Cross either as a "loan" or on the basis of being "matched" by popular subscriptions.

The Indian fund and Red Cross controversies meanwhile tied up the interior bill. This left the administration with but six weeks in which to pass 11 major appropriation bills in order to avoid a special session of the new Congress.

Coolidge on Radio To Aid Red Cross

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Calvin Coolidge will speak over the radio tomorrow night in behalf of the American Red Cross in his official capacity as chairman of the special drive committee named by President Hoover.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, vice chairman of the committee, also will be heard during the program, as will John Barton Payne, permanent chairman of the Red Cross.

13.3 Per Cent Held Non-Intoxicating

STOCKTON, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—San Joaquin County prohibition enforcement officers have adopted a ruling by District Attorney Guard C. Darrah holding that beverages containing a maximum of 13.3 per cent alcohol by volume are "non-intoxicating in fact."

The ruling henceforth will govern the enforcement of liquor laws in this county, officers said today. The opinion, written at the request of Sheriff Harvey M. O'Dell, said United States courts had set 13.3 by volume as the maximum amount of alcohol a beverage could contain and be non-intoxicating in fact.

BILLION DOLLAR BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Appropriations totaling $1,052,568,140 for the independent offices of the government was recommended by the House Appropriations Committee today. The committee cut $2,790,050 under the presidential budget recommendation, but increased last year's figures.

Funds for the Veterans' Administration, which now includes Civil and Spanish War pensions and World War compensation, comprise a total of $866,012,732, as compared with $757,714,000 last year.

The Federal Farm Board is given $100,000,000 for next year bringing the total voted by Congress for the board's revolving fund to $500,000,000.

Huge Building Bill Reported to House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The administration's $100,000,000 proposal to increase its public buildings program outside of the District of Columbia to $415,000,000 was approved today by the House Buildings Committee.

The committee also approved the Kelly bill to authorize $45,000,000 for the purchase or construction of buildings for postoffice stations, branches and garages in connection with existing federal buildings.

Steamer Beached In Thames Crash

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The Finnish steamer Sirius was beached and submerged in the lower reaches of the Thames during the night after a collision with another Finnish steamer, the Otava. Passengers and crew were saved after a narrow escape.

The Sirius is a sister to the Oberon and the Arcturus, which collided in the Cattegat, December 19 with a loss of 40 lives.

Widow, Marrying, Forfeits $100,000

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—It has cost Mrs. Clarence E. Batton $100,000 to marry again. The will of her first husband, a city attorney, left her his estate with the stipulation that it should go to Yale University if she remarried. She is the bride of Judge Arthur W. Chambers.

pronounced dead. Shortly afterwards Andy Alletse died in the same hospital. The other two were arrested. Police say the men had been drinking "canned heat."

Found unconscious in a tool shed in the rear of the home of Mrs. Lena Kufmer, 1015 Spring Garden avenue, yesterday afternoon a man known only as "Tom" was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. A half-pint bottle of moonshine was in his pocket, deputy coroners said.

Acute alcoholism was given as the cause of the death of Ellwood Gibson, 32, a Negro, of 1850 Bedford avenue, the coroner's office reported.

DOPE SUSPECTS TRACED HERE

City detectives today are investigating possible activities here of two men and a woman arrested in Akron yesterday, where they were held on a narcotic charge by the United States commissioner there.

They are John Franklin, alias Jack French; his wife, Dorothy, 33, and Fred A. Burke, 37.

In Burke's car, at the time of his arrest, Akron police say they found a quantity of dope. In French's pocket a lease for offices in a downtown office building and a badge of the city detective bureau were found.

In the apartment occupied by the trio police found an elaborate telephone and telegraphic system.

Schmeling to Get $5,000 for Air Talk

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—It looks as if Max Schmeling will begin to garner dollars as soon as he arrives from Germany next week. The New York American says he will receive $5,000 for a 15-minute radiocast.

300 Miners Strike Over Wage Cut

VET MARCHERS DEMAND CASH

Maryland, D. C. Legionnaires Parade to Capitol to Back Fight for Money

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon today reported to the House Ways and Means Committee enactment of the Garner bill to pay cash on veterans' compensation certificates would seriously affect national finance and "our general economic situation."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Several hundred American legionnaires marched to the Capitol today in a demonstration urging legislation to authorize the cashing of the World War veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

They were from Baltimore, Frederick and other towns in Maryland and from local posts. They marched up Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol grounds, where they broke ranks and walked to the south steps of the Capitol in front of the chamber of the House of Representatives.

There they were addressed by Representatives Patman of Texas, Rankin of Mississippi and Connery of Massachusetts, Democrats. All three have been urging legislation to authorize cashing of the certificates.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—On orders of Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander, James F. Barton, adjutant of the American Legion, has called a special meeting of the organization's national executive committee at national headquarters here January 25.

Barton explained the committee will discuss what action, if any, it will take on bills now before Congress dealing with payment, in whole or in part, or loans on adjusted compensation certificates. The last Legion convention tabled a motion in favor of the payment plan.

3 Stations Win P. R. R. Banners

The Pennsylvania Railroad has awarded banners to the three freight stations in the central region at which freight was handled best during 1930, according to the judges. Alliance, O., won for the larger stations group; Olean, N. Y., for the middle group, and West Brownsville, Pa., for smaller stations. West Brownsville was the only station with a perfect score. H. W. B. Fugate is the agent there.

Declares 22 to 30 Best Marrying Age

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Any age between 22 and 30 is the best for marriage, Dr. Hornell Hart, of Bryn Mawr College, told the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education.

Persons married before the 20-year mark are 10 times more liable to land in the divorce court than not, he said, adding that trial marriages fail because they are tentative and secret.

PAIR 'MAKE UP,' BLAME IN-LAWS

Into the Desertion and Non-Support Court came a 16-year-old bride, Mrs. Clara Geghardt, of 915 Sandusky street—where her 19-year-old husband, Jerry, was to be arraigned today.

Assistant District Attorney Barney Cohen, representing Mrs. Gebhardt, conferred with the young couple to learn the source of dissension.

Husband and wife agreed all their troubles were of the "in-law" variety. At Attorney Cohen's suggestion they decided to begin over again without benefit of "in-laws."

The hearing was called off. As Attorney Cohen ushered the reconciled couple out he presented them with $10 bill to aid them in their new venture.

Drought Saves Pair In Auto Accident

BRAZIL, Ind., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—James Gasaway and Chester Walker today were looking back thankfully to last summer's drought. Riding in their automobile, they failed to see the end of the road. The machine climbed a railroad grade crossing and plunged into the city reservoir, nearly dry from the drought. They were pinned under some mud at the bottom, but neither was badly hurt.

Early Trial Urged For Lingle Suspect

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—As several witnesses to the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle looked on, unknown to him, Leo V. Brothers entered a mute plea of "not guilty" on his arraignment here today.

The case was assigned to Judge John Prystalski for trial. Special Prosecutor Charles F. Rathbun announced he would demand an immediate trial.

General Edwards Fights for Life

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—A gallant fight for life was being waged by Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, "daddy" and wartime commander of the 26th (Yankee) Division, at Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital, where he was reported today to be slightly weaker.

Philadelphia Ward Leader Kills Self

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Suffering from despondency brought on by ill health, Edward A. Dessin, 61, Republican committeeman from the Forty-second Ward, shot and killed himself in his home here early today, police said.

Fails to Kill Wife, Commits Suicide

BARNESBORO, Pa., Jan. 21.—Stephen Nagle, 33, ended his life with a shotgun after he had fired at his wife and missed. Mrs. Nagle, with her small child, escaped from the house. Nagle is thought to have been mentally deranged.

BIRTH CONTROL LAW URGED

Margaret Sanger, exponent of birth control, is concerned over the fact that President Hoover's Child Welfare Conference did not include discussions on birth control. Expounding her beliefs last night in the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Association, she said:

"Ten million children are mentally and physically handicapped because their parents could not obtain the proper information on birth control.

"The wealthy class can afford expert medical advice. Poor people must go to clinics where they can get treatment only.

"I advocate a federal law to permit the medical profession to give necessary information to the poorer classes."

Mrs. Sanger today at a luncheon in Kaufmann's met members of the Allegheny County Birth Control League and welfare workers.

Judge Crater's Wife Again Delays Quiz

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The long-heralded appearance of Mrs. Stella Crater before District Attorney Crain was under postponement again today. Mrs. Crater was scheduled to appear yesterday and tell anything she might know about the disappearance of her husband, Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, on August 6, but she was too ill with a cold to leave home. She promised to appear tomorrow or Friday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Elihu Root, former secretary of state and co-author with Sir Cecil Hurst of the League of Nations court compromise protocol by which President Hoover seeks membership on the court for the United States, pleaded his cause before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today.

In a clear, strong voice, Root traced the history of the attempt to make the World Court acceptable with the Senate and subsequent negotiations concerning the Senate's reservations.

He explained that the chief obstacle was the latter half of the fifth reservation dealing with advisory opinions.

ARRIVES EARLY

Root arrived more than a half hour ahead of time, accompanied by his secretary, trained nurse and several attendants.

The doors of the hearing room were then opened and the room was quickly filled with women attending the conference on causes and cure for war. Scores were unabel to gain admittance and a half dozen Capitol policemen were assigned to keep order.

Root occupied a seat at the opposite end of the long table from Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. This arrangement was decided by Borah, who had feared "otherwise the hearing might result in a conversation between Mr. Root and myself."

WEARS HEAVY COAT

Root kept on a heavy beaver fur lined coat. He showed physical signs of his age, he will be 86 on February 15th, but he was alert and when asked by newspapermen if he had a prepared statement he replied:

"I gave it to Senator Borah as I do not want to use this occasion to propagandize my views."

He told of the difficulties in giving the signatory powers a proper conception of the meaning of the last half of the Senate's fifth reservation.

Under this reservation the court could not give an advisory opinion on a matter in which the United States had or claimed an interest without its consent.

He said the Geneva conference, which first considered the Senate's reservation, expressed "confidence the United States entertains no purpose to diminish the value of advisory opinions."

NEGOTIATIONS REOPENED

Root said the negotiations were reopened so that the reservations might be accepted by the signatory powers in a manner that would not "interfere with the orderly conduct" of business of the council and assembly of the League of Nations. He said:

"That is the object of this protocol."

Several times he accentuated his testimony by pounding the table with his fist.

He said the signatories had accepted promptly the fourth reservation giving the United States the right to withdraw at any time. He declared:

"We have more than 400 treaties reserving this right. It is a common practice by nations to guard against the uncertainties of the future."

32 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reported the following new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 10; diphtheria, 2; measles, 2; whooping cough, 6; mumps, 3; pneumonia, 9, and erysipelas, 1.

Mix Will Desert Circus, Return to Films

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Tom Mix said here last night that he had decided to take his sombrero and cowboy pony back to filmland and discard his present role of circus actor, accepted in 1929 only to involve him recently in such legal battles as the present $325,000 breach of contract suit.

Mix displayed telegrams from the Fox and Columbia concerns offering him movie contracts, and said he will return to the screen within two months, more probably with Fox, his former employer.

Legal actions have been a source of great expense and considerable grievance to him, Mix said in connection in the decision in the case at Natchez, Miss., of a $50,000 suit brought by Col. Zack T. Miller, owner of the 101 Ranch shows and plaintiff in the Erie suit. Both actions involved the charge that Mix agreed to appear for Miller, but instead signed with the Ringling interests. In the Natchez suit, Miller contended that Mix's denial of an agreement constituted libel.

Mrs. Clive Stokes Mix, the cowboy's former wife, testified here yesterday that Tom told her he had agreed to join the 101 shows at a salary of $12,000 weekly and said he would realize an additional $10,000 by exhibiting his horse, Tony, Mrs. Mix said.

"Tom is going to tell a lot of lies when he gets on the stand if he's like he used to be, but he doesn't mean any harm by telling them. Even at that he's still a pretty good fellow."

KAY FRANCIS AND HER SECRET

KAY FRANCIS AND KENNETH M'KENNA, HER FILM LOVER AND REAL LIFE HUSBAND
Miss Francis and her very own Kenneth, film players both, who announced that they were secretly married at Santa Catalina Island. They "sailed for Mexico," friends thought when they left in McKenna's yacht. This is a new and hitherto unpublished picture of them.

Nation's Crisis No Time For Politics, Coolidge Says

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 21.

The country is not in good condition. Considering our reserve powers it is not as bad as some of those assert who are loudest in proposing fantastic plans to save it. But it is bad enough. That condition always invites bickerings and recriminations. We all claim the fault rests on the other fellows. Such quarreling only makes matters worse. It is useless to stop now to try to assess blame. What is needed is tranquility, moderation and constructive action.

Calvin Coolidge

When the Congress convened there was much hope that the public statement of several party leaders would prove a statesmanlike basis for such needed co-operation on the part of official Washington. That result is not being secured and the country is suffering. The President cannot abdicate. If there is any co-operation it must be in helping him in his executive capacity to give the country relief and in speedily passing the appropriation bills. No other program can benefit the people. It is no time for politics on the part of any public officials. The country wants action without facetious opposition. A quiet, candid conference disinterestedly seeking the public welfare would be worth more than many pages of rhetoric.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

AUTHOR BURNED IN AUTO FIRE

MONTEREY, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Gouverneur Morris, author, was in a hospital here today suffering from burns on his right arm.

The writer got out of his automobile last Friday near Los Banos to make minor repairs. A live coal from his cigaret dropped into the gasoline tank, causing it to flare up.

Morris, believing the burn inconsequential, continued the trip with Mrs. Morris, but his arm became worse. Physicians said he would be out of the hospital soon.

Millionaire, Girl Held for Murder

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A portland millionaire and his former secretary faced definite by a joint indictment for first degree murder today.

Circuit Judge W. A. Ekwall yesterday denied a defense motion to quash the indictment against Nelson C. Bowles and Irma G. Loucks, accused of fatally stabbing Bowles' wife, Mrs. Leone Bowles, 38, who was found dead last November in Miss Loucks' apartment.

NYE WITNESSES LEAVE HERE

Pittsburghers who have received subpenas in the Nye campaign funds investigation which deals with expenses of Senator James J. Davis will be in Washington tomorrow for the hearing. The taking of testimony before the Senate committee will be continued Friday.

Howard W. Bennett, representing Attorney Leander Trautman, who is ill at his home, will take the records of the Recount Board to Washington tonight. Mr. Trautman has been in communication with Washington and made arrangements for the substitute.

Attorney Ralph H. Frank goes to Washington tonight. Francis S. Guthrie will go tomorrow. Dr. F. H. Frederick leaves tonight and will testify tomorrow. The committee is giving two days for this phase of the investigation, whereas one day was originally to have covered it.

Earthquakes Shake Java, Six Killed

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Six persons were killed today and considerable damage resulted in severe earthquake shocks in Central Java, a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam stated.

Quality of Eggs Not Altogether Matter of Age

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Eggs, after all, are much like persons.

They may be good in their old age or bad in youth, or vice versa.

This was brought out at a fact-finding conference of the United States Egg Society. No questions were barred and a lot of them were asked. One was:

"How old is an egg?"

The answer was that it is as old as the air-space inside the shell. The older the egg, it was explained, the greater the space.

ALMA RUBENS CRITICALLY ILL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Seriously ill from advanced pneumonia, Alma Rubens, star of motion pictures, today was reported by her physicians as nearing a crisis in her condition.

Miss Rubens has been unconscious for more than 36 hours, it was announced by three attending doctors and the screen star's mother, Mrs. Theresa Rubens.

A heavy cold developed into pneumonia three days ago and Miss Rubens' condition became so serious she could not be removed from the home of friends to a hospital.

Girl Shot to Death, Ex-Pugilist Held

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Miss Mildred Meyer, 24, whose home is near New Albany, Ind., was shot to death as she stood on the front porch of an apartment house here early this morning. George W. (Newt) McCasland, ex-pugilist, who police said was with Miss Meyer, was arrested and charged with murder.

Freight Conductor Killed Under Train

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 21. Falling from a train of cars at Portage late last night, Samuel Wampler, 48, Altoona freight conductor, was killed under the wheels of the train. A widow and one daughter survive.

BAIRNSFATHER DROPS DENIAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Testimony regarding a week-end visit to Bruce Bairnsfather, British cartoonist, by Constance Collier, actress, was recorded today in Mrs. Cecilia Bairnsfather's suit for divorce.

At the outset of the hearing counsel for the cartoonist withdrew a previous denial of unfaithfulness. Decision in the case was reserved by Supreme Court Justice Clennon.

Mrs. Anna MacDowd, superintendent of the apartment house where Bairnsfather resided, said last May, while Mrs. Bairnsfather was in England, she admitted Miss Collier to the suite by a side door late one Saturday night and "at the actress did not leave until Monday.

Diplomat's $250,000 Settles Wife's Suit

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—A $250,000 settlement today ended three years of litigation between Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross and her diplomat husband, Capt. Christian Gross, of Chicago.

Supreme Court Justice Schmuck approved an agreement whereby Gross, attache in the American Legation at Berne, Switzerland, turns over a quarter million dollars to Mrs. Gross, daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines.

WIFE SHOOTS CO-ED

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Asbury Endacott, wife of a Tulsa architect and former city water commissioner, fired two shots into the body of Miss Charlsie Caudell, 28, early today, wounding her critically.

The shooting occurred just off the campus of the University of Tulsa, where Miss Caudell is a special student.

Miss Caudell had just parked her car when Mrs. Endacott said she approached the automobile and reproached the girl for "breaking up her home."

Miss Caudell served as secretary to Endacott when he was water commissioner during the administration of Mayor Dan Patton.

Would Fine Carriers For Strap-Hanging

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—It would be criminal to permit strap-hanging under the terms of a bill introduced in the Illinois legislature by Representative Albert J. Mancin, of Chicago. Common carriers failing to provide seats for all paying passengers would be subject to fines ranging from $25 to $100.

Islanders Honor Their First Portia

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Senorita Josefina Perdoma is the first Portia of the islands. They were so proud when she passed the bar examinations that a barrister's gown was bought by popular subscriptions.

Weather Conditions.

A ridge of relatively high pressure stretches over the central valleys; highest pressure over Eastern Texas. It is causing cold weather everywhere from the central plains eastward, with below-zero temperatures over the upper lake region, and frost and freezing temperatures in the Gulf states. A disturbance moving in from the Far Northwest, now centered over Eastern Saskatchewan is causing relatively mild weather over the North-west in the Klondike section of Alaska, the lowest temperature of the season is reported this morning, 28 degrees below zero.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are frozen over at Pittsburgh is 10.1 feet. Dams Nos. 2, 6, 8, Dam No. 4 is 9.0. Dam No. 7 and Dam No. 13, 6.0. The rivers will change but little.

ONE-LIGHT AUTO FIGHT PUSHED

Automobiles driven at night with only one head light, or with poorly adjusted lights, are a menace and result in many serious accidents, the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council declared in letters to the State Highway Department, Safety Director James M. Clark, and to Council.

Sent at the request of the board of directors of the Council, the letters expressed regret that Traffic Magistrate William J. Soost released a large number of offending drivers arrested in the recent campaign against one-headlight automobile operators.

Apple-Pie Drug Smuggler Escapes

The apple-pie drug smuggler has escaped again. Three years ago Mrs. Annie Schreiner, 65, took an apple pie to the county jail where her son, William, was awaiting trial on a drug charge. Warden O'Neil opened the pie and found morphine. A deputy marshal seeking the woman yesterday hurried to Page street where she was reported living. But the woman had fled.

26 HELD AFTER FOOD RIOT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Twenty-six persons, arrested and held in the city jail overnight following a raid staged by 300 men and women on a grocery store, sought their release today.

Two of the prisoners were booked on serious charges. Floyd Phillips was charged with inciting a riot, and John Simmons was booked for assaulting a policeman.

The crowd descended upon the grocery store and plundered the shelves of food yesterday, crying:

"We want food and we are going to get it."

Police squads dispersed the crowd with tear gas and clubs, taking three patrol wagon loads of prisoners.

5,000 Unemployed Riot in Budapest

BUDAPEST, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Several persons were injured and a score arrested today when 5,000 unemployed marched from the suburbs to the Budapest civic center, shouting, "Give us jobs! Give us bread!" Police who blocked their path were stoned.

Pope Pius Blesses Lambs At Virgin Martyr's Fete

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Two white lambs, adorned with pink ribbons and laid in flower-filled baskets, were solemnly presented this forenoon to Pope Pius XI.

This quaint custom, which dates back for centuries, is observed every year on the feast day of St. Agnes, Roman virgin and martyr, whose body lies in a famous church just outside the old walls of the imperial city. The lambs are raised on the meadows adjacent to that church and their color symbolizes her innocence.

The Pope pronounced the ritual benediction over this unique offering. Then he turned the two animals over to the Benedictine nuns, whose convent is adjacent to the church of St. Cecelia in Trastevere. The sisters have the perennial charge of caring for them until Easter, which, this year, falls on April 5. On Wednesday in Holy Week—April 1—the lambs are shorn, and their wool is woven into the pallia, or mantles, which the Pope bestows on all patriarchas and archbishops, and several of the more important bishops and mitred abbots.

Before being brought to the Vatican, the lambs were blessed in the course of a commemorative mass at St. Agnes', attended by a large gathering of faithful in which all classes of the Roman population were represented.

Lion Grounds Movie Plane, Rhinoceros Wrecks It

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—A motion picture crew filming wild animals in Africa by swooping down from above in an airplane and photographing them within a few feet probably lost its opportunity today to "shoot" the best hair-raising thriller in a decade.

According to reports from Arusha, Africa, a lion jumped at the low-flying plane of the filming expedition of Eddy von Gontard and Ernst Udet, badly damaging the wing with its claws. The crippled machine landed safely some distance away, however, and was charged by a rhinoceros.

The animal practically wrecked the plane and injured the crew, but the latter were saved from death by a second plane.

French Count Weds Widow, $100,000,000 Silk Heiress

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Mrs. Laura Kayser Bayer, who was left an estimated fortune of $100,000,000 and a priceless art collection by her husband, the late Edwin S. Bayer, New York silk king, was married today to Count Antoine Sala, former French diplomat.

The wedding took place at 11 a. m. in the French Church of Notre Dame, in the heart of the fashionable West End. There were 30 prominent guests, including the French ambassador.

The church was decorated with palms and hyacinths. The bride wore a morning gown of light beige. The religious ceremony was performed by Father Perrot, followed by the civil ceremony in the vestry of the church.

Count Sala is the son of Count Maurice Sala and Minnie Sandford, an American and first cousin of President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University. The elder Sala served as counsellor to the French embassy in Washington in the eighties. His son also was attached to the embassy at Washington for a time, but retired from diplomatic service 15 years ago. Since then he has been connected with the American branch of a London art firm here.

He is a close friend of the Prince of Wales. In 1914 he was wounded in battle.

Mrs. Bayer is the daughter of Julius Kayser, wealthy glove and hosiery manufacturer, who died in 1920. Bayer was Kayser's partner and later president of that firm. He died in 1929. Mrs. Bayer is the mother of Sybil Bayer Brown, who eloped with a $25-a-week clerk in 1928.

Mrs. Bayer is a cousin of Jules Bache, multimillionaire banker.

Praise, Scorn Greet Wickersham Report

Associated Press

Comm[illegible] ...ued to find ...uals on the Wickersham report.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE, Emporia, Kan.—To Wickersham means to scratch and around honesty, earnestly and nowhere.

SENATOR SHEPPARD (Dem.), Tex., author of the Eighteenth Amendment—I am delighted with the sober and sane dry recommendations coming from the commission.

REPRESENTATIVE BLACK (Dem.), New York—It is quite evident the White House under guidance of the Anti-Saloon League directed the conclusions.

MRS. ELLA BOOLE, president of W. C. T. U., Chicago—We are gratified that the report declares our faith in prohibition as the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic.

SENATOR BLAINE (Rep.), Wisconsin—The first 100 pages demonstrate conclusively that prohibition is a failure.

REPRESENTATIVE LA GUARDIA (Rep.), New York—The noble experiment still is a failure after 10 years.

F. SCOTT McBRIDE, national superintendent of Anti-Saloon League—It is a good report for us and what we had a right to expect.

ANDREW J. VOLSTEAD, author the Volstead act—Most of the recommendations made by the commission have my cordial approval.

BISHOP NICHOLSON, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, president of the Anti-Saloon League of America, Detroit—It emphasized the need of larger appropriations and more efficient forces of law enforcement. All that I stand for is be[illegible] ...with the prohibition law of the party and I do my own and part to bring to the day ...ideal.

WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON, Mayor of Chicago—More hasty note delay, any action. Great Britain is getting rich selling the Americans rotten booze a three times its worth.

SENATOR JONES, Republican of Washington, Prohibitionist—I like the definite, clear cut stand the President takes. There is no question about his position.

CHAIRMAN SIMEON D. FESS of the Republican National Committee, Prohibition advocate—The report in the main is sound and satisfactory.

CLARENCE DARROW, Lawyer and Prohibition Foe—The report doesn't mean a thing. We are just where we were before.

BISHOP JAMES CANNON, SR., of the Board of Temperance of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Martin, Tex.—The core of the report, that federal appropriations should be substantially increased, is eminently sound.

DR. HOMER W. TOPE, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League—The report shows commendable research. It states the problems authoritatively. I am glad that repeal, modification and government operation of liquor traffic is opposed by the commission.

SAMUEL O. WYNNE, supervisor of industrial alcohol permits in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey—I do not desire to make any comment on the report until I have fully read it. In my own judgment, however, the prohibition law has not been given an adequate test.

MICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, president of Columbia University, New York—My comment was expressed in the [illegible] speech, 2,000 years ago, by the Roman poet Horace, in a legend line, which may be translated, "The mountains are in labor and a ridiculous mouse is born to make us laugh."

BAINBRIDGE COLBY, former secretary of state, New York—My opinion, I think was expressed by Mr. Hoover, when he said pure sins and no decision more embroils the day.

THE REV. JAMES K. SHIELDS, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey—I do not think that the report as a whole is a very strong document. They appear to have taken a middle ground.

JOHN HAYNES HOLMES, pastor of the Community Church, New York—The report sounds very satisfactory to me as a dry.

ERNEST H. CHERRINGTON, secretary of the World Alliance Against Alcoholism—Division of public opinion regarding some of the commission's recommendations is inevitable.

SAMUEL UNTERMYER, New York attorney—The reports make a good cross-word puzzle. They are a cross between a straddle and a wiggle and leave us right where we were before—between the devil and the deep sea.

SENATOR BORAH (Rep.), of Idaho, Prohibitionist—The report will soon take its place in the dust on the upper shelf and the great debate will go forward on repeal or no repeal.

SENATOR WALSH, (Dem.), of Massachusetts, anti-Prohibitionist—Mr. Hoover takes his stand

HOOVER 'CLUB' SEEN IN DRY VERDICT

Wickersham Board Pressure Charged to Make Report Contrary to Evidence

the House by Representative Laguardia (Rep.), of New York, calling for a sweeping congressional investigation into the whole structure of prohibition, in order to get at the "shocking" evidence of graft and corruption which Commissioner William S. Kenyon, in his statement, said had been laid before the commission.

The commission's critics in Congress professed utter bewilderment as to how it was possible for the members to sign a report recommending against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, while at the same time, and over their own signatures, appending to the report individual statements recommending repeal and revision of the amendment.

SCORES SECRET SESSIONS

Senator Hawes, in his statement, asserted:

"Open hearings would have forced a definite expression.

"We have wasted $500,000 to secure conclusive and convincing 'wet' facts, admitting a breakdown in law enforcement, only to have these facts diverted into a final conclusion recommending that nothing can be done.

"One forms the impression that a majority of the commission desired to say something worth while and some one stopped them from this expression."

Meanwhile, those members of the commission remaining in Washington and holding forth at the elaborate headquarters in the Tower Building, were chafing under the criticism that poured in from all directions.

Inquirers at the commission offices met ruffled tempers. Chairman Wickersham and Dean Roscoe Pound were particularly incensed at the widespread charges that President Hoover had exerted his influence to soften the tone of the report, and to make it conform more to his own dry position.

President Hoover was congratulated on the stand he took in his message to Congress, transmitting the Wickersham report, by Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National Committee, who called at the White House and conveyed his approval in person.

Senator Fess subscribed to the generally accepted theory that Mr. Hoover by his message has forecast the party course with regard to prohibition in 1932.

DRY IN 1932

On all sides it was accepted that President Hoover has elected to make his stand on 1932 on the driest side of the political river. In his communication to Congress, transmitting the Wickersham report, he went further than he has ever gone before in espousing the prohibition end of the controversy.

Incidentally, the opponents of prohibition were accusing Mr. Hoover today of sharp practice in this phase of his message of transmittal to Congress.

In his message Mr. Hoover said:

"The commission, by a large majority, does not favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view."

His critics were quick to point out today that Mr. Hoover might as easily have said, and with equal truth and justice:

"The commission, by a large majority (seven to four) favors repeal or revision of the Eighteenth Amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic."

There were unmistakable evidences today that the report of the commission, as finally issued, varied somewhat from that which most of the commissioners had in mind when they wrote their individual opinions.

These individual opinions were written after the conclusion of the main body of the report. The members signed the report, wrote their opinions and scattered to their respective homes some days ago.

REVISION URGED

In a number of the individual statements there are direct references to the fact that the main body of the report recommended the revision of the Eighteenth Amendment without qualification, yet the report contained no such definite recommendation.

Meanwhile, it was agreed that a final and supreme effort is to be made by President Hoover to enforce prohibition in the next two years, in order to make a showing that will convince the doubters that it is possible to obtain some degree of adequate enforcement, despite the majority opinion of the Wickersham committee that there is no adequate enforcement now, that there never has been, and that probably there never will be. Into this effort the Hoover administration will throw all its resources, and all the money that Congress will provide.

$19,251 Reported By Y. W. Workers

With additional $18.259 subscribed today, the total of the Y. W. C. A. drive for a budget fund swelled to $49,251, it was announced today at a report meeting held in the Central Branch. The drive opened last Thursday.

Minor Auto Accident Kills Wartime Flier

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—James S. Glasson, wartime aviator, is dead as the result of a bruise on a knee when he slid forward against the seat of an automobile as the driver applied the brakes suddenly.

Gov. Pinchot Silent On Dry Law Report

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—Gov. Pinchot today declined to comment on the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission report.

He said he expected to make an announcement later concerning the conference of the governors of seven states called for Friday at Albany by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

France Disappointed In U. S. Dry Report

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Reading of the Wickersham report on prohibition here has strengthened Frenchmen in their belief that prohibition has not been completely successful in the United States.

There was disappointment here that the report did not reinstate light wines, big wine interests having hoped they would be given back their American market.

N. Y. Bills Demand Repeal of Dry Law

ALBANY, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—After careful study of the Wickersham report, Democrat leaders of the New York Legislature today introduced two resolutions calling upon Congress to take immediate steps to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law. The proposals, sponsored by Senator Bernard Downing and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, Democratic leaders, at the request of Republican leaders, were referred to committee.

"Calcium—The Staff of Life"

This Book Given Away FREE by Adah Alberty. Come in and Get One or Write for It! It tells you how the disfunctions of the LIVER, SPLEEN and PANCREAS are the causes of human ills and the functions of CALCIUM, which is absolutely essential to health, long life.

DICKY ROBBINS
4 years—weighs 52 lbs.
Raised on Alberty's Food.

Recently President Hoover Said:

"6,000,000 Children Are Improperly Nourished"

Many School Children Are Seriously Undernourished

—and as a result they become anemic, have poor appetite, are subject to colds and disease. Alberty's Food is a perfectly balanced food and contains calcium and other essential elements for body building. It gives zest to the appetite and resistance to the body.

To The Public:

We have investigated and tested the merits of Alberty's Food. We endorse and recommend it. During the past few weeks, to our personal knowledge, undernourished persons have secured remarkably beneficial results.

DONAHOE'S

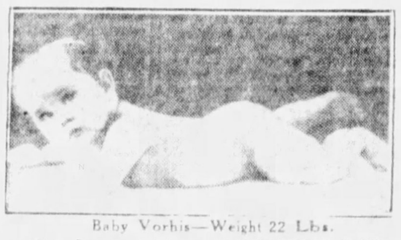
The Aged Alberty's Food yields nourishment for the aged—the frailest stomach will digest it—the feeblest intestines will assimilate it.

Expectant Mothers
Alberty's Food supplies all the elements for both mother and child. It allays vomiting and builds up strength and vitality.

Nursing Mothers
Alberty's Food increases both the quality and quantity of the mother's milk and improves the mother's health.

$100.00 CASH will be paid by Mrs. Alberty, if Alberty's Food fails to do as represented for babies. Every baby who has never gained an ounce in its life will absolutely gain within 48 hours with the use of Alberty's Food as directed.

Baby Vorhis—6 Months Old—
Weight 6 Lbs., 13 Oz.
Baby was very poor. Doctor said he must have ALBERTY'S FOOD or he would die. IT DID THE WORK, as you see.



Baby Vorhis—Weight 22 Lbs.
After five months' use of ALBERTY'S FOOD—a perfect baby, the joy of his mother.

No More Experimenting on BABY!

The puzzling, heart-breaking Infant feeding problem has been solved.
A wonderful change will take place within 24 hours.
Alberty's Food takes the place of mother's milk and agrees with all babies from the hour of birth. For mixed feeding—breast and bottle, it is unexcelled.

122 BILLS GIVEN STATE HOUSE FOR ACTION

Musmanno Measure Would Oust Industrial Police For 'Property Guards'

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21. — Bills ranging from one requiring pedestrians to walk on the highway facing traffic, permitting the distribution of cigars and pencils by candidates to others doing away with the electric chair, permitting Sunday amusements or repeal of the state dry laws were dumped into the House yesterday by members o the first day measures could be introduced.

Before the session quit for the week ,there were 122 pieces of proposed legislation offere' by the 208 members.

The usual freak bills made their appearance. One member would require signs along highways where cattle cross the roads. Another would require the display of the national colors at polling places on election day.

INDUSTRIAL POLICE BILL

Committees of the House can begin functioning next week after Speaker Goodnough refers the measures introduced today. It is probable that the first bills may be reported out next Tuesday in the event any committee holds a meeting.

Several bills of wide interest in Western Pennsylvania were offered by members of the Allegheny delegation in the House.

Representative M. A. Musmanno sponsored legislation designed to abolish the present system of industrial police and substitute "property guards." He put in also a bill providing for Sunday amusements after 2 o'clock. The measure would not permit fishing or hunting on Sunday.

Creation of a department of public utilities to take over virtually all powers of the Public Service Commission except holding hearings and giving decisions was proposed in a bill of Representative Hagmire, of Aspinwall. His bill gives the governor authority to remove public service commissioners.

BALDRIDGE ACTIVE

Representative C. C. Baldridge, of Swissvale, is the author of a bill repealing the state tax on marine insurance underwriting profits, another to abolish the proceeds of the 2 per cent tax on foreign fire insurance premiums going to firemen's relief association; one to compel buses to be equipped with shatter-proof glass; one to discontinue the tax on direct inheritance; another to appropriate $60,000 to Braddock General Hospital, and one appropriating $50,000 to the Ladies of the G. A. R. Home at Hawkins Station.

An appropriation of $4,000,000 to the Welfare Department for relief of unemployed was proposed in a bill offered by Representative Matthew A. Dunn, of the Twelfth District. He also offered a measure proposing a constitutional amendment to permit state system for assistance of unemployed.

Representative Storer, of the Twelfth District, presented a bill which would increase the fees of constables.

County Scouts Host To National Head

Mr. West

James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will be guest of honor at the annual meeting of Allegheny County Council of the Scouts in Kaufmann's, at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. Officers of the council will be elected at this meeting. Chester H. Lehman is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Harmar D. Denny, Jr., will preside.

2 Brothers Share In $40,000 Estate

Disposition of an estate valued at $40,000 was made by John McRoberts, Fox Chapel district, O'Hara Township. Samuel and Joseph McRoberts, brothers, were named beneficiaries. Joseph McRoberts was named executor.

Alger G. Hieber, 5644 Northumberland street, left his entire estate of $10,000 to his wife, Belle, who was named executor.

Daytime Star Stirs Gazers In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The curiosity of thousand of residents here was excited by the appearance to the Southwest of what appeared to be a brilliant white star shining in a sunlit sky and easily visible to the unaided eye.

The phenomenon caused some apprehension, coming as it did on the heels of the recent disastrous earthquake. Crowds stood on the street corners and at times the movement of traffic was impossible. There was no attempt to explain the nature of the star.

Cortes' Old Palace Cracked by Quakes

CUERNAVACA, Moreles, Mexico, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Many cracks have appeared in the old palace of Hernan Cortes, conqueror of Mexico, as a consequence of earthquakes last week.

QUIZ IDENTIFIES CENSUS TAKERS

Confusion of government census enumerators with house-to-house business canvassers, with the resultant refusal of information by residents, has prompted James E. Routley, census supervisor, to announce that the federal census taker can be recognized by the questionnaire which he carries.

These bear the heading "United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census," and the general title "Special Census of Unemployment, 1931," and are carried in a large portfolio. If the answers given are placed on any other kind of blank, it is not a government enumerator who as asking the questions, Routley said.

He also pointed out that the questions must be answered. Those who refuse to comply are subject to a fine or imprisonment, or both.

PINCHOT MEETS ALLEGHENY LEADERS

... committees with the ... act ... to endanger to the ... vital ... policies. Pinchot ... public utility coal and ... regulation ... and the ... of a $10,000,000 ... road ... and unemployment. This ... was the sign that all ... shadow boxing is over. The ... Pinchot ... fenting ... has been ... dropped ... and from now on both ... sides ... peace is impossible.

COYNE VICTORIOUS

While some Pinchot followers ... particularly resented the leap of ... Senator Armstrong, Jr., a youth ... to Harrisburg for the first time ... to chairmanship of the Insurance ... Committee, they grinned ... at the maneuvering of Senator ... Coyne, who placed Dennis J. Mulvihill, Pittsburgh attorney and ... former newspaperman, as assistant ... secretary of the Senate. ... While Armstrong and Max G. ... Leslie, former senator, deadlocked ... over their respective candidates, Coyne submitted Mulvihill's ... bill and won.

The state committee, which hands out 100 Senate jobs, will present its list Monday night.

Gov. Pinchot, Mrs. Pinchot and friends last night attended the ... annual ball sponsored by the 104th Cavalry and attended by 3,000. The executive party remained only a short while. Few of the political leaders attended. Instead there were a number of conferences in hotel rooms, followed by some looking in on the ball, or visiting the state farm show.

Sharp maneuvering already was begun before the adjournment of the law-makers yesterday. Clinton A. Sowers and Louis Schwartz, Philadelphia members of the House, submitted a bill for the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong act, the state enforcement measure for liquor violations.

Its sponsors said if they got on the floor they would receive a majority vote. Others dismissed it as an annoying gesture, predicting its death in committee.

PINCHOT NAMES PITT MAN

Dr. Charles Reitell, of the University of Pittsburgh, has been named by Gov. Pinchot as director of the Greater Pennsylvania Commission, a newly created body to make a survey and suggest betterment in many different fields, according to a dispatch from Harrisburg.

Dr. Reitell

The scope of the commission will include the Lake Erie and Ohio River ship canal project and soft coal situation in this part of the state, general economic improvement of the rural districts, recreational betterment, including auto tourist camps and the ports of Philadelphia and Erie.

Dr. Reitell today said he would soon announce appointment of committees, which will include leading men throughout the state. He will be given a leave of absence from the university, he said.

The new commission will seek to nurture industries and encourage other manufacturers to locate plants in this state. It is patterned after the New England council and a similar organization in California.

Entire Pinchot Cabinet Confirmed

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—With the cabinet confirmed by the Senate, Gov. Pinchot today appointed Duncan MacCallum, of Leechburg, as personnel secretary, succeeding A. Nevin Detrich, and Dr. Edward Logan, of Upper Darby, as budget secretary, succeeding Arthur Townsend.

The Senate late yesterday by unanimous vote confirmed 14 appointments to the new cabinet. They include James F. Malone, Pittsburgh, as secretary of property and supplies.

A delegation of more than 100 from Allegheny County was here to watch the former president of Pittsburgh Council take his oath of office. The Allegheny delegation was the only large one at the ceremony inducting the new cabinet members.

Naming of Malone's deputy is expected to be settled soon. At present the post is held by Walter G. Scott, Pittsburgh, who joined the department in the former Pinchot administration as purchasing agent, but was promoted to the deputyship under Gov. Fisher.

ALLEGHENY FARES WELL

George W. Woodruff, former attorney general, was not among the new officials whose nominations Pinchot sent to the Senate for approval. Woodruff has been named special counsel on utilities and conservation. It is expected the Governor will hold that Senate confirmation is not needed because there is no law creating the office and consequently none requiring Senate approval.

Although the Senate slate committee thus far has filled only half the salaried jobs of this session, Allegheny County has already landed seven berths on the Senate payroll. Dennis J. Mulvihill, Plaza Building, Pittsburgh, was named assistant chief clerk, succeeding William A. Hillgrove, former political associate of P. J. Sullivan. Hillgrove had held the place for years. This is the position for which Roy F. Walters, secretary to County Commissioner Armstrong, had been urged.

Four other new appointments were made from Allegheny. August Rupbecht, Carnegie, transcribing clerk; David MacLay, Pittsburgh, messenger; William Guffey, paster and folder, and Lana M. Dingledein, Versailles Township, clerk to committees.

OTHER APPOINTMENTS

George A. Reed, 620 Jefferson street, North Side, and Otto Godhes, Perrysville, were reappointed as committee clerks.

Other Senate appointments from western counties were: George L. Whipkey, Dawson, Fayette County, executive clerk; James A. Casey, Somerset, transcribing clerk; Bernard Steinfeld, New Brighton, assistant sergeant-at-arms; V. F. T. Kelly, Brum, Butler County, postmaster; Freeman Smith, Waynesburg, assistant messenger; Wesley Rice, superintendent of folding room, and James Hawkins, Waynesburg, clerk to committees.

When first bills are accepted in the Senate next week, Senator Frank J. Harris will introduce a code of election laws prepared by the Legislative Reference Bureau. It contains nothing that is not in the present law, but gathers all present election provisions into one statute. The plan is to incorporate proposed changes in law into this code so elections will be governed by a single act instead of dozens of them as at present.

Sinclair Lewis To Visit England

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Sinclair Lewis, American novelist and Nobel prize winner, will leave here next week for England, to remain there possibly a month or longer. Mrs. Lewis, the former Dorothy Thompson, newspaper woman, probably will return to the States without him. Mrs. Lewis said her husband was busy planning a new novel.

Clothing Sale Fraud Suspect Arrested

Alleged to have operated a fake clothing agency in the Hill district, Albert B. Franks, 38, Brownsville, was held for court at a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. Representing himself as agent for a firm, police say, Franks took orders for clothing, collected a deposit on each sale and failed to deliver.

There's a decided demand for Clothes of the finest quality

Last week we sold more fine clothes and reached a greater volume of sales than in any corresponding week in four years. Better clothes than ever before at better values achieved this tremendous volume.

Mildred McCoy Weds Playwright Gibney

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Mildred McCoy, star of the Belasco farce, "It's a Wise Child," and Sheridan Gibney, playwright, were married at the Little Church Around the Corner yesterday by the Rev. Randolph Ray, its rector.

While the Belasco farce was at the peak of its Broadway run Gibney brought a play to the producer. Gibney had in mind Miss McCoy for the lead. They met, she read the piece, liked it and liked him.

Rolling Rock Fire Kills Two Horses

PRINCES SHARE IN SHIP SPORTS

S. S. OROPESA, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales and Prince George, bound for South America, are just ordinary travelers aboard this commercial steamer.

The princes share in the daily round of ship life, dining with their fellow passengers in the salon and roaming the deck for exercise.

Both are continuing to show their keen interest in sports, with the Prince of Wales consenting to act as patron and Prince George as vice patron of a committee formed to organize sports events.

The Oropesa is making good progress in its voyage from the Spanish coast to Bermuda. The weather has been chilly most of the time, but with occasional spells of warm sunshine.

GERMAN CHARGE GIVEN LEAGUE

GENEVA, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Charges of "menaces, acts of terrorism and bloody violence" were laid before the council of the League of Nations today by Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, in a formal protest at Polish treatment of German minorities in Upper Silesia.

German-Polish relations growing out of the minorities question are regarded in Geneva as one of the greatest threats to the peace of post-war Europe. It has been feared for weeks that the debate begun today will set off international antagonisms of far-reaching consequences.

Herr Curtius charged that not only had Germans been mistreated, but that other racial minorities, particularly Ukrainians, had suffered during the November election period.

REPORT NAVAL TRUCE ENDED

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The French-Italian naval construction truce, agreed upon last year after the two countries had failed to adhere to the principal sections of the London naval treaty, was said in authoritative circles today to have come to an end.

Rome dispatches stated that from now on Italy was prepared, independent of its normal construction program, to build gun for gun with France. Work is to be started on the suspended 1930 program of 22 submarines and seven other units with keels to be laid in a few months.

Gerard Sees German Threat of Socialism

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—World-wide Bolshevism may result if the economic strain on Germany is not lessened, in the opinion of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany.

He said, in a talk here last night, that if Germany adopted the economics of Bolshevism, France and then England would be forced to follow and the United States would have difficulty in avoiding the same step.

Italy's Population Gain, Sets Record

ROME, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—The largest annual increase ever recorded was shown in population figures of Italy for the year 1930. There was a gain of 515,000 persons, or 12.3 per 1,000. The previous high record was a gain of 406,000 in 1928.

Actress Asks Probe Of Rothschild Riches

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Vera McCord, actress, yesterday moved in Supreme Court through counsel for examination into the wealth of Maurice Rothschild, of Chicago, in connection with her $250,000 breach of promise suit.

Miss McCord charged that Rothschild promised to marry her in 1923, and that after having her give a party to announce their engagement, failed to attend, and that he since had failed to keep his alleged promise.

Dance Hall Thrown Open to Jobless

Pittsburgh's unemployed must be worried about more than matters as food, clothes and shelter but they never feel left out about amusement. A Bloomfield owner of the Alpine ballroom invites the needy ex-boss who are employed to attend entertainment, free, on the dance night, Saturday without charge. The Hunger Hop will be initiated. It will be the first of a series of free dances.

Penn. Mother Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, feverish or upset.

The experience of Mrs. Al. Smith, 2042 N. Sidney St., Pittsburgh, Pa., is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my girls ever since they were just tiny babies. Whenever they're off their feed or constipated or restless I give them a little. It has the most comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Effect splendid combination proves I know best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid, appetite increased, digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All druggists have it.

rainbow, both come under the head of wildcat banking.

The Wickersham Glee Club worked 18 long dry months on this scenario.

It's a beautiful theory. But while the theorists are looking for the pearls the bootleggers are eating the oysters.

Among the most interesting details connected with the scrambled career of journalism is posing for pictures with Primo Carnera.

Primo landed on most of America last week, wearing the vests supplied by three large leather factories on each foot.

His shoes are actually number sixteens. And it would sweat a rabbit to run around one of his footprints.

They say Primo was the most popular man on the trip. But to date our government weather bureau doesn't know whether that was a storm at sea or Primo dancing on the boat.

He's got the highest smile we ever saw. Reading from top to bottom, in the group picture, Primo was the nearest one to the ceiling.

There's always plenty of agitation about prize fighters making millions while college professors get paid off in chicken feathers.

A man can study all his life and wind up with a dead dime.

While a big chunk of laughing hamburger gets a hundred thousand for waltzing out of step.

But that's human nature. There's nothing stopping a college professor from taking a full publick swing at Gene Tunney or Carnera.

But there's something stopping him after he takes it.

When Lindbergh flies the Atlantic nobody points out that college professors are still riding around in hosses-and-buggies.

A burglar doesn't rob a bank because a college professor only gets $11 a month.

Well, think the professors would get sore over being compared to the worst kind of people.

The answer to it all is that college students are graduating in huddles. We like to see athletes do their stuff and ticket speculators never sprained their ankles rushing up to look at a beetle under a microscope.

No matter how long and loud the professors holler about football the checker players will never lease the Yale Bowl for October and November.

We concede that it is the finest kind of injustice to subsidize muscles and tax brains. But they've been doing it ever since Cain put the bite on Abel. And they will be doing it until the last man on earth claims the title by forfeit.

SAFETY DISPLAY AT TUNNELS

A traffic safety display will be unveiled by the Better Traffic Committee's education section Monday morning on the island at the south end of the Liberty Tubes. Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the education section, announced yesterday.

Permission to place a display on the county's land was recently granted by the County Commissioners and Norman F. Brown, county director of public works.

A delegation of traffic committee members will be present to unveil the display and inspect it.

AUTO SHOW

THE way to buy a car is to shop for it—like you shop for a dress in a department store.

Here's your chance—at the Auto Show. It's a "department store" for automobiles. You can pick and choose from the biggest selection Pittsburgh has had for years.

You'll see the greatest improvements . . . the most beautiful models . . . the most luxurious color combinations—all the latest creations of the leading manufacturers.

And you'll feel like waltzing from one exhibit to the other when you hear Don Bestor's William Penn Hotel Orchestra. They'll play hours every afternoon and evening. There's indoor golf, too.

The Auto Show is open every day including Saturday, from 1 P.M. to 11 P.M., at Motor Square Garden, Baum Boulevard at Beatty Street, East Liberty.

Last night a New Ford Sedan was given away to W. D. Clark, Jr., 426 Maryland Ave., Oakmont.

Two more cars will be given away—a Willys Six Sedan Thursday evening and an Oldsmobile Sedan Saturday evening.

The COLONIAL TELLER

Published by THE COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY in the belief that the news of a great banking institution is of wide public interest.

VOL. 2 — 414-416 WOOD STREET - 317 FOURTH AVENUE - 314-318 DIAMOND STREET — NO. 1

Optimistic Outlook for 1931 Is Described by Colonial's President

J. C. Chaplin, on Radio, Says Depression Lacks Worst Features Of Others.

A prediction that 1931 will be a good year and that business conditions are already beginning to improve was made by J. C. Chaplin, President of The Colonial Trust Company, in a radio address on business conditions broadcast from KDKA.

Mr. Chaplin said:

"For years—since the post-war depression—we have been moving fast; money mad. Speculation was rife—there seemed to be no end to the upward trend; yet an end had to come; the fall was fast, and there was no parachute to ease the downward course. Yet we were warned—the Federal reserve board warned us. They were drastic in their insistence that speculation cease, but they were not drastic enough. At that time they were criticized, but they were right. 'What went up must come down.' It is an age-old adage, yet we have seen the truth of it. We have our health; we have our man power; we have a sound financial structure; we have our good old United States—the strongest nation on the globe; we will pass through this and prosperity will come again. Our mills will hum; our industries will prosper, for we cannot continue to sell this old United States short.

Values Far Below Real Worth.

"You cannot stop our man power, nor the brain and energy with which it is endowed. We have had inflation and then depression; adjustment and then again prosperity; and prosperity will come again. So let us forget the fear that has prevailed—let us quit our pessimism—let us realize that the values of today are as far below their intrinsic worth as they were far above their intrinsic worth in the fall of 1929, when, because we did not heed the warning, the crash came out of what then seemed to be a clear sky.

Other Periods Worse.

"I have been in the banking business many years. I have seen a number of these depressions—in 1907-08 when it was not only an industrial depression but a money panic as well; scrip was issued for such payrolls as we had. From time to time we have had other depressions—money panics—agricultural depressions—the Middle West with 'bleeding Kansas' and their farm-laden mortgages.

No Danger of Money Panic.

"Cotton—do you remember 'Buy a bale.' Do you remember the gold pool when all of the gold seemed to have left the United States? Do you remember that it was predicted that Europe would dump our securities on us, and they did, yet we absorbed them and we have become a creditor and not a debtor nation, and today we are the financial center of the world? We cannot have a money panic for the Federal reserve banking system is a bulwark of strength. We may have our weak spots, brought about by too much inflation, but that trouble will pass; indeed, is passing and the underlying conditions are sound.

"1931 Will Be Good Year."

"So, let us forget the past and look to the year ahead. Let us not forget that our forefathers pened out of the wilderness this great United States. What chance had they, and yet they had the indomitable will. Today we are the beneficiaries of their pioneering. We still have that same strong man power and the mental ability and force to carry on. So, therefore, let us look hopefully to 1931. It will be a good year, and, at its end, we will have forgotten 1930 and all the depressions."

SAVINGS CLUB SOON CLOSES

Time Short for Enrolling in Christmas Clubs.

The time for enrolling the Christmas Savings Club at The Colonial Trust Company is rapidly growing shorter. If you intend to have a Christmas Savings check to help you with next Christmas' shopping, you must act at once.

These Savings Clubs enable you to save money when you least miss it, and they give you money when you need it most. They enable you to do the things you would like to do at the Christmas season without going into debt.

All classes are still open, but the time for closing is close at hand. Act immediately.

Save $20 a Month And Receive $1,000

Small Regular Deposits Quickly Reach Large Totals.

Regular deposits of $19.20 a month will grow to $1,015.89 in four years, if deposited at The Colonial Trust Company at 4 per cent interest, compounded semi-annually.

Almost $80 of that total will be in the interest added by the bank.

A small booklet which describes how much money it is necessary to save each month or each week to achieve any given total in any length of time can be procured at The Colonial.

COLONIAL'S RADIO SIGNATURE

Many people have asked the name of the song which is used as the musical signature at the opening and closing of the radio broadcast by The Colonial Trust Company each Friday evening on KDKA.

The song was written by Percy Grainger, famous composer, and its title is "The Colonial Song."

DON ROSE.

C. F. NIEMANN.

Two directors of The Colonial Trust Company have been among the guest speakers on recent radio broadcasts of The Colonial from KDKA. These programs go out every Friday evening at 7:15 and include a program of beautiful music and a short talk.

Mr. Niemann, in his talk, described the functions of a bank director, and the manner in which The Colonial's board meets each day except Saturdays and holidays, assisting the bank's officers and adding an extra measure of safety to its operations. Mr. Niemann is president of the Parkersburg Iron and Steel Company.

Mr. Rose, who is a member of the law firm of Rose and Eichenauer, and general counsel for the Trust Department of The Colonial, described the important functions of the attorney and the trust company in the settlement of estates.

Cruises to Bermuda And West Indies Being Booked

The Personal Service Department of The Colonial Trust Company has to offer to its patrons at this time choice of many delightful winter cruises. Short tours to Bermuda; a fascinating 16-day cruise to the West Indies, Panama and Mexico; several interesting short trips to Havana; an attractive Italian voyage for the early spring; to say nothing of a visit to England in June when the English gardens are at their greatest beauty.

The Personal Service Department is equipped in every way to take care of your bookings and arrange your trip for you and also to extend its services to take care of many of your responsibilities for you while you are away.

The office of this department is found in the Trust Department of the Bank.

Urges Stockholders To Use Safe Deposit

A disinterested estimate of the importance of the safe deposit box is given in a notice which the American Telephone and Telegraph Company encloses when it sends its stock certificates to stockholders. This notice says:

"Your stock certificate is a valuable paper. It is important to put it away promptly and to keep it in a secure place so that it will not be lost, stolen or destroyed. More than 500 stock certificates of this company have been reported by stockholders as lost, stolen or destroyed during the past five years. * * * To secure new certificates of necessity causes stockholders considerable trouble, delay and some expense. A safe deposit box is the best place to keep this certificate."

Saving Money Has Become Fashionable

National Thrift Week is now being observed throughout the country.

This year it is of more than normal interest, because it comes after a year in which the American people have seen a vast object lesson in the value of savings as a safeguard in times of emergency. It comes, too, at a time when the habit of saving money systematically has been restored to its old-time place in the popularity of millions of people.

Thousands of people who had not saved money for years are now making regularly deposits in their savings accounts.

TRUSTS NOW POPULAR AS INVESTMENT

Safety Coupled With Large Dependable Income.

OVER 5% NET ASSURED

One of the results of the disturbances in the securities markets has been an increase in the popularity of Voluntary Trusts as a form of safe and profitable investment.

Money can be deposited with the Trust Department of The Colonial Trust Company under a Voluntary Trust agreement and this money will be invested in mortgages and will pay you in excess of 5 per cent net.

This form of investment is used by men and women in all walks of life, but it has proved particularly attractive to professional men who have a sum of money to invest but who do not feel they can take the time from their business to supervise its investment in the securities market.

Money invested in a Voluntary Trust will grow quickly, if the income is allowed to accumulate. If that is done, the interest is re-invested immediately and the utmost possible value is thus obtained from it. Safety of the principal is assured by the fact that the money is in forms of investment which are approved by law as safe for the investment of trust funds.

Representatives of the Trust Department of The Colonial Trust Company will be glad to explain the Voluntary Trust Agreement to any one who is interested in it.

Special Program Is Broadcast for Women

Radio Talk by Woman Attorney Each Monday.

Each Monday morning at 11:45 The Colonial presents to women a special radio program from the studio of KDKA.

Miss Ella Graubart, a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association, is the speaker.

Miss Graubart deals with many of the problems which are particularly troublesome to women. She also explains many of the trust functions which have become increasingly important in modern life, dealing with these functions from a woman's viewpoint.

The Colonial Trust Company will be glad to have you listen to this and the other Colonial radio broadcasts.

Right Type of Financing Important to Business

Banker Points Out That Permanent Financing Is Sometimes Used Where Temporary Loan Would Be Sufficient.

The owner of a business needing more money sometimes takes in a partner with cash, or issues new stock, when the real need of the business may be only a temporary loan.

The importance of knowing just how much help a bank can and will give to a business was pointed out by A. D. Robb, vice president of The Colonial Trust Company.

"Proper use of banking facilities is one of the chief aids to scientific management and business efficiency," said Mr. Robb. "It is just as important that you know fully what your bank can do for you as to know fully what any machine in your plant can do for you. The business man who knows clearly how to use his bank has a great advantage over those who do not, for he accomplishes with ease projects which cost his competitors unnecessary effort. This is especially serious in times like the present. The man who realizes the banking accommodations to which he is entitled, who knows when and to what extent he can rely on his bank for aid and advice, goes doubly armed into the battle of business.

"Few men make a large success in business without the aid of some bank."

Real Estate

The commercial body division of the Chevrolet Motor Company has taken a lease for a term of years for 10,000 square feet in the American-LaFrance Building, 5201 Liberty avenue. According to Porter & MacDowell, brokers, $35,000 was paid for the lease. The Chevrolet Motor Company has purchased the facilities of the Martin-Parry Corporation, Center avenue, and will assemble bodies for distribution in the Pittsburgh territory.

Smoky City Council No. 119, Junior Order United American Mechanics, has purchased the Pentalphia Club's headquarters Building in Arlington avenue, near Brownsville road, Sixteenth Ward, for $16,000. The building is three stories high, contains eight bowling alleys and a dance floor. It is of brick construction. The lot measures 90x188 feet. Extensive repairs are being planned by the purchaser.

A lot 60x160 feet improved with a dwelling in Shady avenue, Fourteenth Ward, has been deeded by Josephine V. Kane to Clement Martin for $10,000.

Louis Gurtner has sold to John Weissner an improved property in Birmingham avenue, Twenty-ninth Ward, for $9,500. The lot measures 25x150 feet. The purchaser will use the property for a residence.

Harry L. Kirkpatrick has sold to Thomas M. Wilson an improved property in Metropolitan avenue, Twenty-first Ward, for $7,250. Wilson will use the property as a home.

Applications for building permits follow:

Twenty-seventh Ward—E. J. Barbison, sun porch, 1101 Davis avenue, $700.

Eighth Ward—M. C. McMenagle, addition and alterations, 4742 Maripoe street, $7,000.

$31,015 Reported In Y. W. Campaign

The 1931 appeal of the Young Women's Christian Association for $140,000, its annual budget, has reached a total of $31,015, according to reports made yesterday. The team workers reported a total of $14,754 yesterday noon.

Mrs. John R. McCune, chairman of the initial gifts committee, reported additional subscriptions amounting to $8,900. The women's division through Mrs. Thomas Hannah, vice chairman, reported $5,338. The Center avenue group, likewise showing an increase, reported $247, and the business girls' division, $269.

Sore Throats and Coughs

Quickly Relieved by This Safe Prescription

Here's a doctor's prescription called Thoxine that is really throat insurance. Its success is due to its quick double action. With the very first swallow it soothes the sore throat and stops the coughing. It goes direct to the internal cause.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that while it relieves almost instantly it contains nothing harmful, and is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Singers and speakers find Thoxine very valuable. Put up ready for use in 35c, 60c and $1.00 bottles. Your money back if not satisfied. Sold by all druggists.

DRUG CLERK IS KONJOLA "FAN"

Young Lady Found New and Different Medicine Exactly What She Needed.

A medicine must have merit when seven million bottles of it have been used in two years. Well, that is the astounding record that Konjola has made.

MISS JESSIE WERREN

Konjola—all of its 32 ingredients working together—goes to the very source of ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Take, for instance, the happy surprise that Konjola gave Miss Jessie Werren, 140 Charles street, Pittsburgh. Think over her words and then ask your druggist about Konjola. He knows what this remarkable medicine has actually done, and is glad to recommend it. But right now read the statement of Miss Werren:

"So many people asked for Konjola in the drug store where I am employed, and so many of them told what it had done for them, that I decided to put it to the test. Whatever I ate disagreed with me. I had headaches and was losing weight. One bottle helped me so much that I am going right ahead. Already I am eating and sleeping fine, and my mother notices how much better I am looking already."

Konjola does work swiftly, but it is best to take from six to eight bottles.

Konjola is sold at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh; by all Dow Drug Stores and by all leading druggists everywhere.

Follow Pershing's Story and Win Cash!

$3,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES

For Readers of the Sun-Telegraph Who Follow Pershing's Own Story of the War

CAREFULLY READ THESE SIMPLE RULES

RULE 1—With the beginning of the publication of General Pershing's Own Story of the World War, Monday, January 12, 1931, the daily and Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph inaugurates a Pershing test in which $3,000.00 in cash prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the correct or most nearly correct answers to a set of ten questions pertaining to dates and episodes chronicled in the Pershing narrative. Contestants will also be asked to submit a letter of not more than 200 words to the question "What is the most important episodes chronicled in the Pershing memoirs published in the Sun-Telegraph and why?" This letter will be judged as a part of the Pershing test with the answers to the ten questions. The test questions will be published from time to time during the publication of the story in the Sun-Telegraph and contestants will be allowed ten days to prepare and submit their answers after the last chapter has been printed. The Pershing story will run approximately ten weeks. The exact date of the time limit for submitting answers will be announced later—contingent upon the closing date of the story.

RULE 2—The Pershing test is open to everyone except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families.

RULE 3—A total sum of $3,000.00 in cash will be awarded as prizes—$500.00 to each of six classes or groups as follows:

CLASS NO. 1—Grade School Children.
CLASS NO. 2—High School Pupils.
CLASS NO. 3—College Students.
CLASS NO. 4—School Teachers, Members of the Faculty of Schools and Colleges, Clergymen, and Members of Religious Orders.
CLASS NO. 5—Members of the American Legion and Other Organizations That Include World War Veterans.
CLASS NO. 6—All Other Readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

RULE 4—The prizes in each class will be awarded as follows:

FIRST PRIZE	$200.00
SECOND PRIZE	100.00
THIRD PRIZE	50.00
FOURTH PRIZE	25.00
FIFTH PRIZE	15.00
SIXTH TO TENTH PRIZES (INC.), $10.00 EACH	$ 50.00
ELEVENTH TO TWENTY-SECOND PRIZES (INC.), $5 EACH	60.00
TOTAL	$500.00
132 CASH PRIZES IN ALL, TOTALING	$3,000.00

In case of ties, contestants so tied will be awarded equal prizes.

RULE 5—The answers submitted in the Sun-Telegraph Pershing test will be examined by a special board of judges, none of whom will be employes of the Sun-Telegraph. The board of judges will make the awards and their judgment will be final. The sets of answers when submitted become the property of the Sun-Telegraph and will not be returned. All sets of answers submitted must be mailed first class postage prepaid and directed to the Pershing Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

RULE 6—You do not have to buy a daily or Sunday Sun-Telegraph to participate in this contest. There is free access to the files of the Sun-Telegraph at the public libraries or at the publication offices of this newspaper.

The first three test questions will appear in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph next Sunday

Norman Kerry Comes Back To Popularity on Talk Screen

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1931, by Publishers Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.

Now that everybody is a little less excited about the new art of the talkies, a number of the old favorites are working their way back into the limelight. Among them is Norman Kerry, who recently has won several important assignments.

His latest is the heavy in the Edmund Goulding production of "Between Two Worlds." Kerry leaves for the East, as soon as he can finish his "Bachelor Apartment" at R-K-O.

"Between Two Worlds" enlists the services of Nancy Carroll and Frederic March, who helped to make "Laughter" one of last year's most amusing pictures. Like D'Arrast, Goulding will work at the Paramount Long Island studio.

Norman Kerry

OLD FRIENDS

They tell it that a youth slipped backstage one evening at a certain town where Henry Miller and Ruth Chatterton were presenting one of their plays.

Discovering Miller, he stretched out his hand.

"Hello, Mr. Miller," he greeted cordially. "Don't you remember me? I'm William Blake."

"Blake ah how are you," fumbled Miller.

"Fine," said the youth, "you remember when you and Miss Chatterton were here last season, I played the man you borrowed the match from."

"Oh, yes, of course," beamed Miller.

Then going over to Miss Chatterton's dressing room, he rapped loudly.

"Ruth," he said, "hurry out. Bill's here."

LATEST GOSSIP

Rex, "King of Wild Horses," to whom Elinor Glyn once ascribed "It," has been given by Fox to Arthur Jones, a scenario writer. Like other monarchs, Rex has found that kingship is not what it used to be. After being traded from studio to studio, he finally came to Fox with prospects of a part in George O'Brien westerns. They never materialized, and Fox got tired of feeding the former favorite. Scenarist Jones has promised Rex a good home. . . . Adela Rogers Hyland goes into the Santa Monica Hospital on Monday for an appendicitis operation. . . . Arline Judge, late of "The Little Show," and Herbert Moulton, Radio pictures publicist, seem to be that way about each other. . . . Wesley Ruggles, director of "Cimmaron," is leaving for New York to attend the opening of the picture. . . . Agent Constance Bennett's agreement with Warner Brothers, it seems that she has 10 consecutive weeks each year in which she is free of Pathe's supervision. Warners have signed her for these 10 and, it is said, will pay her $300,000 for two pictures to be rushed through in this time. . . . A third Mankiewicz now writes for Paramount. She is Erno, sister of Herman and Joseph. Her first assignment is the adaptation of

Ruth Chatterton

"Stepdaughters of War." . . . Uncle Carl Laemmle sponsors an idea for a series of one-reelers to be called "Dangerous Jobs." They will portray flagpole painters, submarine divers and the like at work in their risky callings.

Show Boat Gets New Revue Friday

This Friday Show Boat will present another new floor show. It will be headed by Freddy Bernard. The Wainright Sisters, singers; Lafeyette and La Verne, here several weeks ago in the Penn; Ruth Mayon, last seen in "Sons O' Guns," and Lou Fink, dancer, also will appear.

'THE PERFECT ALIBI' IS VERY WELL PLAYED BY I. K. S. GROUP

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

WHEN young amateur actors chose a very ambitious production, as the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players did with "The Perfect Alibi," the result is rarely as satisfactory as it was last night when a full house despite the unforeseen blizzard saw a murder mystery solved by the process of pure reason.

George Seibel

The author of this play is A. A. Milne who does whimsical things like "Mr. Pim Passes By," but is not known as a rival of the late Conan Doyle.

"The Perfect Alibi" is as good as a detective story. The audience sees a bold crime committed, sees how the clever criminals plan everything perfectly to make it appear like suicide, and then how two young people even more clever catch the criminals.

You may doubt whether there are any people quite so clever, but that has nothing to do with the excellent work of the group trained by Louis Isaacs.

JUST AND UNJUST

The two murderous villains were played in cold blood by Samuel Moll and Bill Sloane. The two clever young people were Elihu Glass and Ruth Goldstock. Harry Ziff and Esther Grafman each had amusing character bits. Hyman Bennett and Walter Framer conducted the inquiry with acumen and humor. David C. Silverman had himself murdered very efficiently and John L. Taylor was the perfect butler. Eleanor H. Frank helped to round out the criminals with smooth assurance.

REAL ATMOSPHERE

The stage setting, a room in an English country house, the work of John L. Taylor, was very real in atmosphere, enhanced by good lighting effects. Altogether the production was a most creditable one, with hardly a slip in the parts, and some deft characterization by several players.

It showed what young people who love the drama can do in putting on a difficult three-act play, holding the audience in rapt attention for over two hours.

Query

I do not mourn the fact that you are gone
And I am done with you and all your ways,
Nor does it count that I must carry on
With only memories of other days.
There, for a while, the world ran strangely sweet,
I woke to face a gay, enchanted town,
I was a stranger to the drear defeat
That years soon deal the wise man and the clown.

No, I have little time to mourn for you—
But as I wake to face the dull routine
Of listless days—a dream steals back anew
When lanes were long, and springs were sweet and clean;

Small lot I care wherever you may be—
But, oh, the lad who loved you—where is he?
—Young Man of Manhattan.

Heheheh

Harry Hershfield's contrib concerns the Jewish fellow who was the victim of a stick-up man the other midnight. After the holdup, he picked himself up from the gutter and walked straight into the gun of another bandit.

"You are outta luck," said the luckless one. "Just now another guy took all my money and everything."

"Yeah!" replied the robber. "What did he look like?"

"He had brown eyes," answered the breathless victim, "and brown hair, a mustache, a dark blue suit, black shoes with spats on and he also carried a cane."

"Your memory for descriptions is too good," said he highwayman, as he shot him dead.

Uncommon Sense

The girl in the office next door observes that the best way to keep from being gossiped about—is to behave yourself.

Izzy Elinsonisms

Things were nice and peaceful with Clara Bow. Then Came De Voe! . . . Einstein was probably surprised to find a lotta people in Hollywood who said that they understood him. The yes-men, of course . . . A feller went to court the other morning just for the novelty of seeing a judge APPEAR!

Oop!

Then there's the one about the unimportant show producer whose hammy show was being tried out in the provinces. He wired the company manager, to give him more details than the mere gross of the business in the regular nightly message.

"Let me know," he telegraphed, "how the audience reacts to the play, what is said in the lobby and all the smoking-room comments."

The next morning he received this wire:

"Two hundred and nine dollars taken in last night. This tells more than all the words in the dictionary!"

Haw!

Haenigsen, one of the better satirists, cartoons the following text in the Evening World:

"This fellow was one of the most famous professional gossips the world has ever known . . . He knew the intimate details of the most guarded secrets of practically every member of his community. He earned a bountiful living prying into people's affairs and telling the world about it . . . Nothing was hidden from him. He knew all, saw all, told all. . . Who was crazy about whom, coming blessed events, who was headed for Reno and every bit of scandal before it happened . . . At the height of his career he went hopelessly cuckoo . . . Trying to find out who eloped with his wife!"

Another Version

Glorified by Ziegfeld, scandalized by George White and mortified by Earl Carroll.

Observation

They were discussing the stereotyped speech that the average vaudeville actor makes after his act. It usually is:

"You have made me so happee! God bless you, etc."

It was Norman Frescott, the ace of the mentalists, who had the most sincere speech of thanks. He cut itshort in this manner:

"I am awfully glad you liked me, really—but the next act is much better."

How to Be a Bore

Ask actors to play at benefits for you . . . If you want to be popular with the dramatic editor, ask him for passes to a Saturday performance, which is the one day of the week on which most shows expect to break even . . . At opening nights applaud the most obscure players, this makes a hit with the critics, who are very gullible and believe it to be a genuine reception . . . When in a cabaret and you're intoxicated, annoy the other fellow's girl, the hospitals aren't crowded enough . . . And if you're a producer, and a critic roasts your show, be sure to complain to the paper, which will spank the reviewer's wrists until they bruise.

The Retort Proper

At the Astor Hunting Room the other sundown Sime Silverman, the Variety publisher, was supping with the usual crowd of kibitzers. Sime had just returned from Florida.

"You look tired," said someone. "Why don't you go back there for a while?"

"S'too long a trip," said Sime. "You can fly there in eight hours," countered another, "and you don't have to be afraid of planes, either. You're as safe in them as a baby in a cradle."

"Yeh, yeh," snapped Sime, "for eagles, maybe."

Just for Records

". . . incidentally, Winchell denies that he coined the now very popular and now very expressionable word 'whoopee.' But it was Winchell who fashioned it into 'making whoopee,' and so added a new term to our slanguage" — The Pathfinder (Washington).

As a matter of fact, in 1927 we denied coining it, and when we did the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph thrust it upon us editorially in this wise:

". . . isn't it just like a smartalecky New Yorker to dodge the responsibility of something ugly like the word 'whoopee,' as Winchell has done? He denies he fathered the silly and senseless word."

Why columnists gray young.

ELMER HARRIS PLAY NEW ALVIN BOOKING

It is in a luxurious apartment on Park avenue, New York, that the rejuvenation of Gene Gibson, a cynical high-flying young man, is begun by a physical trainer in "Young Sinners," comedy that ran seven months on Broadway, which comes to the Shubert Alvin next week.

"Apron Strings," the comedy announced by George Sharp for his attraction in the Pitt next week, was done just a year ago in the Bijou Theater, New York. It tells the story of a young man who is so completely under the influence of his mother's teachings, that he scorns all the things that young men of today consider minor vices.

The first matinee of the new musical comedy, "America's Sweetheart," will be given in the Nixon this afternoon. Next week the Nixon will be dark. "Subway Express" is booked for the week of February 2.

MOORE ESTATE CASE DELAYED

Hearing of the claims of Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Lillian Russell, against the estate of her late stepfather, Alexander P. Moore, former ambassador to Spain, was set back to the first three days of next week when the case was called for audit today before Judge Trimble in Orphans Court.

Attorney Ira C. Houck asked that the case be postponed until February, explaining he had been retained as counsel for Mrs. Calvit only a few days ago, but Judge Trimble refused. Houck announced, as was expected, that Mrs. Calvit, who received only $1,000 from the $1,000,000 estate, would base her claim on a promise she contends Moore made to Miss Russell that he would provide for her in case of the stage beauty's death. Mrs. Calvit's claim is for half the estate.

The Union Trust Company, trustees, filed a partial report of the estate with Judge Trimble.

DATE ON SCHOOL BOND BIDS SET

Bids will be received February 17 by the Board of Education for the purchase of a $3,000,000 bond issue prepared yesterday at the meeting of the board. The proceeds will be used to finance the school district's building construction program.

Serial bonds will be issued, bearing 4½ per cent interest, with $100,000 of the issue maturing each year for 30 years. The bonds will be dated February 1, 1931.

R. Maurice Trimble was elected architect to draw plans for the proposed high school on West Liberty avenue. The board voted to call this school the William M. Davidson High School in honor of the late superintendent of schools. According to Dr. Ben G. Graham, successor to Dr. Davidson, this school will eventually become the most important in the city.

Prelate Reported Called Before Pope

ROME, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Authoritative circles here reported that the Pope has summoned Archbishop Monsemilio Lission, of Lima, Peru, to Vatican City to explain his alleged activity in favor of the former government of President Augusto B. Leguia.

At Vatican City it was said semi-officially no decision would be taken in the case of Archbishop Lission until he himself had reported to the Pope.

Children Left Bulk Of $29,000 Estate

Two grandchildren and four children shared in the $29,000 estate left by Mrs. Rebecca L. Williams, 5718 Darlington road. Rebecca R. Williams, a granddaughter, received $200; a grandson, Harry C. Williams, received $100, and the balance was distributed among four children, Jesse H., Edward R., Harry L. Williams and Mrs. Frances W. Slocum. Mrs. Slocum and Jesse Williams were named executors.

Husbands Guests Of Woman's Class

Members of the Westminster Bible Class of the West View United Presbyterian Church, will entertain their husbands in the church rooms Friday night.

Blood Will Tell

But after a BLOOD TEST What?

That's the question that should interest every sufferer. The Microscope tells a truthful story—the Laboratory tests are a matter of science—but what of THE TREATMENT? How soon can HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE be lowered to normal? Can the terrible pain of stomach ulcers be relieved? Will the treatment stop the rheumatic pains racking the muscles and will the nerve-breaking insomnia yield? Will unsightly skin ailments disappear under treatment? Can the working man and his family afford the treatments? All these questions find happy answers in the Health Service offered by us.

Symptoms of a Faulty Blood Stream that we are successfully correcting: Anemia, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Kidney and Stomach Trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Nervous Disorders, Psoriasis, Eczema, Acne, Skin and Chronic Diseases. Blood and Urine Tests Free. No Doctor Charge. Patients pay for the Serums only. Everybody pays the same price for the same serum.

What a talk for stars!

Maurice Chevalier, Evelyn Herbert, Frances Alda, Young Stribling, Frank LaForge.

They light the ether waves for armchair fans tonight.

There has been much talk about the French idol's appearance on KDKA at 8:30. Chevalier's magnetic personality, his famous smile, his comedy—will they be portrayed by radio enough to warrant that stupendous price of $300 a minute for 15 minutes' work? We shall see.

Now, one of the highest paid artists, Chevalier once worked for 72 cents a week as a carpenter's helper . . . and was fired.

But since then he has learned to hit the nail on the head.

Something novel in the Frances Alda-Frank LaForge sketch on WCAE at 7:30. Music and conversation are to be mixed as radio depicts a scene in Madame Alda's drawing room.

Awhile ago we spoke about the night and stars but we overlooked the "New Moon" selections which Evelyn Herbert brings us at 8:30 through WCAE. A coincidence, too, as we notice by the office calendar that we now have a natural new moon, only three days old. "Moonbeams" from "The Red Mill" and bits of "My Maryland" are to complete her schedule.

* * *

Young Stribling is sold on the idea that he can knockout Herr Max Schmeling. He has picked WCAE at 10:30 tonight to explain in detail.

AD SOBS . . . Ruth Etting singing "Ten Cents a Dance" a la Broadway. She gets her songs across with a pleasing easiness. We could not escape the infinite detail in her numbers, particularly the opening selection, "You're the One I Care For." Ruth is sympathetic without being mushy.

She has the gift of making trouble a bubble, as Al Jolson aptly put it years ago.

The Bubble Blowers were very peppy. A fast two-piano team that smacked of Rettenberg and Pratt.

Ann Ronel said it's lots of fun to hear her "Baby's Birthday Party" played and sung everywhere, but more fun we'll bet, to cash those royalty checks.

The big hit of the season has not reached Pittsburgh yet. It's the "King's Horses" now being played with much success by the old maestro, Ben Bernie—at WBBM.

Dr. James E. West, Chief Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, speaks over KQV tomorrow afternoon at 5:25.

Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and John Barton Payne talk over WCAE, KDKA and the combined NBC networks tomorrow night at 9 o'clock in a special Red Cross program.

QUESTION A DAY:

Will WMBJ lose its license?—A. W.

Answer—Not for us to say. The Radio Commission today ordered its license renewed for 90 days along with the others.

Four banjo players strumming southern airs are to accompany Bobby Jones to the microphone on WSB-WTAM at 8 tonight.

Kay Kyser is the same southern gentleman in his broadcasts from WHK at Cleveland. A broadcast direct from Paris is scheduled for WJAS on Thursday morning, January 29, at 10:45. Milton J. Cross is "humanizing" the Gypsy program by cutting the length of announcements. . . . Sisters of the Skillet, KDKA tomorrow afternoon at 2:45, is one of the air's best bets.

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The spell of romance continues to grow about the personalities who come down to the armchairs on air waves. Yet, in an age in which exploitation is securely enthroned in the land, the growth of radio romance should be more rapid and conspicuous.

It has a long way to travel before it approaches the romantic illusions that surround the starlit heavens of Hollywood and Broadway. Television, of course, will help, but we are impatient for present-day results.

The illusion of romance has been erected about four or five figures of the microphone—these and no more. It was responsible for the skyrocketing rise of Rudy Valee. It also created a vast public for such entertainers as Amos 'n' Andy, the Happiness Boys, the M. Gibbons.

With the imposing army of artists at its disposal it should have done more.

Without summoning such specialists of attention-calling as Dr. Ivy Lee and Prof. Edward L. Bernays, we have a notion that what broadcasting needs today is a good old-fashioned parade.

The parade has always been an impressive phenomenon of American life. Today, despite the general rise of sneering, of oh yeahing; it still serves, when it is done well, to thrill the American people. There has not been a good parade in town since Lindbergh returned from Paris.

The time is ripe. The time is ripe for radio to strut its stuff. The broadcasters are ready, public officials are ready, the spectators are ready. Fifth avenue is ready. All that is needed is a signal from David Sarnoff or M. H. Aylesworth or William S. Paley or any other outstanding leader of radio.

Those forming the parade would not have to go outside the studios for costumes, for music, for grand marshals, for all the paraphernalia of a dazzling procession. Embracing all the entertainers of radio, it would be the greatest parade in the history of the nation in numbers, in length and in the variety of its appeal. It would make the Dewey parade, the Charles E. Hughes parade, the woman suffrage parade seem as trifling as a village firemen's march.

The thought of such a procession fairly staggers the imagination. The jazz division alone would number tens of thousands of men. With such figures as Paul Whiteman, Senor Lopez, Guy of the Lombardos, Rudy Vallee, B. A. Rolfe, Ben Bernie, Ted Lewis, Leo Reisman as its marshals it could stop up the avenue with a massed interpretation of "Happy Days Are Here Again," which, in all likelihood, would be heard no Mars.

But there would be other imposing divisions—divisions of symphony conductors, symphony bands, brass bands, interpreters of Beethoven and Bach, interpreters of Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," interpreters of the "Peer Gynt Suite," interpreters of the "New World Symphony," interpreters of "Song of India," interpreters of the "William Tell Overture," interpreters of the "Song of the Volga Boatmen," interpreters of "On the Beach at Waikiki," interpreters of "Rhapsody in Blue," interpreters of "Body and Soul."

Palestine Crops Damaged by Gale

JERUSALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Palestine was swept by a severe gale, with rain and hail, which caused heavy losses in the orange groves and some damage to the Haifa harbor works. A government dredge with four lighters was driven ashore, and in the Sinai district a sand storm held up a train from Haifa to Kantara for 10 hours.

5,000 ATTEND MOTOR SHOW

Despite the blinding snowstorm which for half an hour raged over the city, more than 5,000 persons, about half of them women, attended the thirty-first automobile show under auspices of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association in Motor Square Garden last night. The attendance on Tuesday night last year was 3,900, officials said.

W. D. Clark, Jr., 18, 426 Maryland avenue, Oakmont, is possessor today of a new Ford sedan, presented to him at the Auto Show last night. His name was selected from thousands of entrants by Rose Hollander, 10, Churchill road, Wilkinsburg.

Two other cars will be given away this week, a new Willys Six sedan, at 9 p. m. tomorrow, and a new Oldsmobile sedan at the closing of the show, Saturday evening.

Music during the evening was furnished by Don Bestor and his William Penn Orchestra. During the early hours the orchestra broadcast a program over Station WCAE.

K. T. Keller, A. van Der Zee and W. M. Purves, officials of the Dodge Brothers Corporation, were visitors at the Automobile Show Monday. They were accompanied by F. H. Akers and C. W. Chapman, local representatives of the Dodge corporation.

GUARD SUSPECT FROM MOB

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Though believing a band of men who searched two Western Kentucky jails had dispersed, officers today did not relax their vigilance in guarding the Christian County Jail, where Sam McGee, Negro, was held for safekeeping after his indictment by the McCracken County grand jury for the slaying of Charles Clark, 18, in a holdup.

Jails at Mayfield and Paducah were searched by a crowd of men estimated to number between 100 and 150 last night. Officials permitted the search to assure the band the indicted man was not held in their institutions. Meanwhile Christian County officers were notified, and a heavy guard was posted here.

Clark was slain Saturday night at Paducah when he and his father-in-law, George Rock, resisted a holdup by two Negroes. One of the Negroes was slain and the other escaped. Rock was wounded slightly. McGee was arrested later. Fear of violence caused McCracken County officials to transfer him to a jail outside the county.

Bandits Get Cigars, Then Hold Up Groom

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The three holdup men who called yesterday on F. F. Ranger, a filling station attendant, have been puzzled by his warm greeting. To each of the three he said:

"Have a cigar; I just got married."

They accepted the smokes and then proceeded to take the $25 he had, as well as the rest of the "wedding cigars." Three detectives and a uniformed policeman had received cigars from Ranger a few minutes before.

Texan Rides Bull Bringing Gift To Walker

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Ralph Sanders, Texas cowboy, was waiting today for Mayor Walker to recover his health and return to City Hall so he could present him with a pair of steer's horns 52 inches long.

Sanders brought the horns here riding on a bull all the way from Brownsville, Tex. He made the trip of 2,700 miles in 254 days.

HUNT MILLIONS OF 'KING BEN'

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Search for the long-sought $1,000,000 cache of cash and jewels hidden away by the late "King" Benjamin Purnell was to begin today under the direction of House of David members.

The hiding place of the treasure was described to cult members yesterday by Ada Ross Schneider, auditor of the colony for 25 years, after suit was begun by H. T. Dewhirst, present leader of the cult.

The searchers will try to locate the secret vault before rival members of the House of Mary, whose territory, reigned over by Mary Purnell, wife of Benjamin, adjoins that of the House of David.

2 DIE IN HOLDUP OF CARD GAME

WALERIA, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Two men were killed in an attempt of two robbers to hold up three men who were playing cards here last night.

Carl Lord, 58, a player, opened fire on the robbers after one struck him. The robber fired twice, both bullets entering Lord's body. Lord killed the robber before he died.

Three hours later police of Long Beach, 20 miles away, arrested Ray K. Brown, 40, with a bullet wound in his chest. Brown said he had been shot by a holdup man.

"THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP"

Hospitals specify Kotex —so should you!

THE outstanding hospitals of America make it a point to specify Kotex for their women patients. They use Kotex absorbent for dozens of important surgical cases. No approval could be more important to you.

Kotex is preferred because it absorbs correctly—over a large surface, not just in one concentrated spot; because it deodorizes; because it is hygienically safe.

And you can wear Kotex on either side in perfect safety.

Kotex softness is not a mere deceptive surface softness that soon packs into chafing discomfort. It stays soft and comfortable for hours. And so easily disposed of!

THE DANGER LINE

Have You Reached Age 40?

People nearing the age of forty or having passed that mark, now take good care of their physical condition during the winter months by building up their systems to ward off colds, grippe and other winter ills.

Constipation, indigestion, sour, gassy stomach, pains in the back and around the heart, headaches, congested liver and weak kidneys indicate physical decay caused by various overindulgences, and lessen resistance to colds.

Health, the most precious gift in life, can be retained by using the rich juices brewed from the roots, barks, leaves, flowers, herbs and plants that mother nature has provided, and which are included in that old remedy called Bulgarian Herb 'Blood' Tea. Taken hot at bedtime this pure vegetable compound quickly breaks up colds by stimulating the circulation, heating the chilled blood and moving intestinal poisons out of the system. It is fine for constipation.

Keep strong and healthy during the winter months by using Bulgarian Herb Tea regularly from three times a week. Get a box today, the cost is small and your druggist will honestly recommend Bulgarian Herb Tea.

A Marriage Without Love Will Cause Resentment

She does not love him but she's engaged to him.

"Dear Elsie: I am coming to you with a problem that seems too great for me to solve alone. Several years ago I made a mistake. Like a lot of girls do. Well anyhow I left home. I was supposed to have gone on a vacation. I had my baby at home and my folks wanted me to adopt him but I just couldn't do that. I refused to give him up. So I had to board him out in a town where I was not known, for my parents' sake, while I worked to support him.

Doesn't Love Him

"I have worked right along to pay for his keep. At the time of my trouble I gave up all my friends except one, a man in the Navy. I'll call him Joe. He wrote to my home and wanted to know why I had given up my correspondence with him. So I answered him and told him that I thought I didn't have friends and that people wouldn't ever want to look at me again after the trouble I'd got myself into.

"Well, he wrote and told me that he would marry me and accept him when his time was up. And now there's the problem.

His time is up and he has come clear across the continent to get me and I simply can't feel as if I wanted to marry him. He is such a good man, too, that I just can't bear to hurt his feelings. But I don't love him. And I just can't make up my mind what to do. He doesn't know the way I feel, but I've told my folks and they think I should marry him anyway, because he has been so true and has no bad habits or anything and he's come all the way here to get me.

Sorry for Him

"Others tell me I should wait. I guess I feel differently than I used to about marriage. I'm 23 now and I guess I'm a lot more serious than I used to be. And I don't know what to do. It's all such a mess.

Shall I betray my feelings or shall I wait and let him find out for himself? I'm not asking advice as to love, of course, but whether I deserve it or not. That's not the question. I can keep on working and taking care of my baby by myself. The trouble is I just can't decide what to do. Joe has befriended me so much that I feel as if I had no right to let him down now.

"Please advise me. Tell me what you think is right. You'll be lifting an awful load off my shoulders if you will. Shall I go and marry him in spite of the way I feel? Or shouldn't I? I'm so sorry for him, when I think about it all." IONE.

Should you marry a man you don't love because you're sorry for him?

No, no, dear. Never marry any man through pity. It won't work. You may think that you'd be being kind. You may think that you'd be repaying his kindness to you. But you're mistaken. You wouldn't. You'd be two-timing him as well as yourself if you let your pity run away with you.

For a while you might conceal your real feelings and make him believe that you actually did love him. But not for long, because love is something that can't be faked. In spite of all you could do, you'd betray your real feelings in a thousand unsuspected ways. And down underneath, you'd soon begin to secretly resent the fact that you'd married him against your will.

Inevitable Resentment

"Why did he make me feel that I had to marry him" you'd whisper bitterly to yourself. Why did he make me feel that I owed him a debt I had to pay?

And inevitably, that resentment and that blame would seep into the system to poison your marriage and make you come to hate each other. Because he'd resent your resentment. And then you'd both feel cheated.

If you want to be really kind and fair to Joe, you'll not sail under any false colors, no matter how sorry you may feel at having for a while to hurt him. You'll tell him, kindly and gently as you can, the exact truth and you'll not allow pity to trap you and him into a marriage you'd both regret.

So buck up, honey. Put it up to him straight. He'll be hurt at first, of course. But in the end, he'll thank you for your honesty.

New Beauty in Old Settings

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Life these days is a mixed party for some of us—the romantic souls. Those of us who want to eat our cake and have it too, that is to say, who want many things that go with 1931 but pine for them in an old setting.

We love our lovely 1931 model of femininity—but we wish we could see her in some of the picturesque backgrounds and accessories of a less mechanical day. We like to get places in a hurry over roads like ballroom floors—but we wish we could arrive for Christmas Day with the folks at home in a coach and four!

We fairly ache for the spectacle and the ease of a Dickensesque inn—but we would not like the year of eighteen-two when the roads were so bad that it took two months to get from Berlin to Rome, while one's roving baggage took a year to do it! Glorietta's and Suzette's and Mimi's and Mamie's gowns would be out of fashion by the time they opened their trunks to dress.

We loathe our noise and riotous hurry—but we do dote upon our comfort. We love our modern young thing who doesn't faint in sympathy at the theater—but we'd love to see her in a sleigh with bells, plumes and bear skins. She does skirt the fringes of the picturesque in her skiing costume, far from the railways, the shopping avenues, the tea room, the movies, the office—but how few of us see her that way.

The modern pretty-one is doing the best she can in a hard, bright, noisy age; she has reached for a bit of the garments of Atmosphere and Romance—she has gotten herself a long skirt! In the evening she blossoms out like a moon-flower beside the water in California, unexpectedly, radiantly. She is growing her manners again, too—along with her hair. But alas, there are no enchanting traveling fixtures for her to carry her beauty about in—making it more beautiful.

It's only SOME of us who hark back to beautiful settings for beauty—old-fashioned frames for new beauty. And that SOME seem to have worked ourselves out compromises. We've gone back into the ancient world, and chosen just where we liked, for the interiors of our houses. If we can't have sedan chairs, coach and fours, and gilded sleighs and horses in leopard skins, we can set our beauty in a picture of early American, Colonial and English or French of any period. If the out-doors baffles us in its strict modernity, we've succeeded a bit indoors in regaining some of the look and feeling of quieter and more sentimental days.

And, thanks to the indulgence even the most practical man shows to this eccentric Madame Art, you can make ANYTHING in a picture, provided it makes a good picture.

If romantic ME can't see the beautiful girl of 1931 jingling down the avenue in the really regal equipage of sleigh and glossy horse, bundled in furs, when Winter comes—I can make a picture of it! There is nothing really swank or aristocratic in the swankiest automobile that was ever made, so I can leave it out when the urge for the picturesque overwhelms.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

"After 35, Lean Live Longer Than the Fat"

During recent years we have heard a great deal about dieting and other methods to reduce weight. Unfortunately, however, too many persons have approached the subject only from the standpoint of beauty.

Dr. Copeland

As a consequence, we have on one hand men and women who have sacrificed health in ill-advised efforts to achieve a fashionable figure. On the other hand, there are still more who have resigned themselves to being fat. After more or less spasmodic attempts to change, they have decided that the result would not be worth the struggle necessary to attain it.

If appearance were the only consideration, perhaps this would be a sensible decision. But what are the facts?

What are the relative advantages of fatness and leanness? Does health suffer when excess weight is acquired?

I am naturally interested in this health aspect of the question, but, as a matter of fact, the question of beauty depends on it. Without the glow of health, perfection of form amounts to very little.

An interesting statement has recently been issued by the Illinois State Department of Public Health. It begins by saying: "After the age of 35 the lean live longer than the fat." It quotes certain figures compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, showing the difference in death rates among the overweight and the underweight.

In heart disease the mortality in the overweight is 51 per cent greater than among people of normal weight, while among the underweight it is 19 per cent less. Diseases of the blood vessels, brain hemorrhage, Bright's disease and diabetes, all show as great, or even greater, differences between the two classes. In cancer, too, surprising as it may seem, there is a decided difference in favor of the thin.

These figures leave little doubt that heart, kidneys and blood vessels suffer from the strain put upon them by excess weight. Under this burden they are likely to break down prematurely. Without it, longer life and better health may be expected. With these facts before us, who can doubt that it is worth while to avoid or to overcome overweight?

There is one point, however, that I wish to emphasize. Let me call your attention to the first words of the statement from which I have quoted the words, "After age 35."

During the period of growth it is not so clear that the advantage is with the thin. The growing body needs an abundance of all the food elements. There is not only tissue to be repaired, but, in youth, new tissue must be formed. There must be reserve supplies to be drawn on in the case of emergency. Serious consequences may follow if the supply of the important food elements is cut down, and on this account any drastic system of dieting is dangerous.

Answers to Health Queries

A. B. Q.—What do you advise me to use for falling hair?

Veritzen Requests Return of Letters

Mr. Verizen returned the steady look I gave him as I uttered my ultimatum concerning Noel and Mary, with equally steady regard. For a long second or two he did not speak then he said with emphasis:

"Both my son and Miss Mary may consider themselves fortunate in having such stanch friends. I wonder if you, for instance, would be an equally stanch friend of mine, your employer, if I should ask you a favor?"

"I think you know Mr. Verizen, that I am always anxious to serve you in any way I can conscientiously."

"Ah," he said, smiling, "that Puritan conscience of yours. You could not consider stretching it even by the slightest strand for me?"

"If I stretched it for anyone, I surely would stretch it for you," I said decisively and softly. "But tell me what is it you want me to do?"

"Do you know anything of a letter my son received from me just after I left the city?" he asked abruptly.

"I am not sure. I know to which letter you refer," I said slowly. "I know that both he and Mary received letters from someone at that time which upset them both. But Noel was far more agitated than Mary. However, neither of them revealed the contents of the letters."

"Do you think the letters have been destroyed?" he asked after a pause.

"How should I know?" I parried. "But my experience with young people leads me to surmise that they were not destroyed, especially if they were unpleasant. I do not believe Noel would was such that you were anxious affectionate epistles at that time."

No, he agreed grimly. I waited. The letters were unpleasant.

He paused looking at me steadily. I looked back at him with as clear a regard.

"Can you get those letters back for me?" he asked. "Rather will you get them back?"

"Your first question was the proper one," I said. "I am very sure I could not get any such letters from either Mary or Noel."

"Why?"

"Because," I said steadily, "Mary, especially is a very shrewd youngster and she has much influence over Noel. If Mary were to know that you wished the letters back, she immediately would begin to query mentally as to your reasons. Then she would deduce that if you were anxious to have them returned there must be equally potent reasons why it would be to her advantage and Noel's to keep them."

Are you guessing from knowledge of how?

Logic returned promptly and mercilessly. "You already have told me the letters were unpleasant. It does not require a very keen intellect to surmise that they may have—mind you I do not say they did, I say may have—contained rash statements perhaps—even—threats."

"Well," go on," he said.

"Suppose," I said, "I am only supposing, remember, that some unscrupulous person" and I smiled to myself at this characterization of the Underwoods and myself "became cognizant of such threats or accusations, and persuaded the youngsters that they were actionable. I don't think either of them would use them unless forced to do so but they would not really relinquish possession of such weapons. But won't you please forgive me for talking such nonsense? I will ask both Noel and Mary if you like, to give you back the letters."

"No, no!" he almost shouted. But" I said wide-eyed, "surely you did not expect me to—"

"I expected nothing," he said heavily rising. "I must wait to see Noel, I suppose."

I pressed the button beneath the table and frantically racked my mind for something to detain him until Dicky should appear.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, January 22

Particularly propitious conditions in business affairs may be looked for on this day under the dominance of the Jupiter position, assisted by the friendly influence of other superior planets. Old congestions swept away make way for a decisive move toward the goal of the ambitions, with advancement, stabilized fortunes and possible important changes in the offing.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of excellent prospects, with old congestions removed, stabilized fortunes.

A child born on this day should be versatile, ingenious and also practical and ambitious.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Soap and water oftimes won't budge dandruff. The night before the shampoo rub in hot olive oil. Shampoo once a week. In no time at all the scalp will be free of scaly rubbish.

Healthy gums are coral pink. They are firm and do not recede. When they show pallor, circulation is impaired. Proper treatment consists of applying a mixture of equal parts of salt and baking soda and massaging the gums gently. When gums lack tone, be careful when using dental floss; it is likely to cut into the tissues and to produce abrasions. Unless tartar is removed from the base of the teeth only the dentist's little pick-ax will do that—gums will become impaired.

Only the goofy-gal draws attention to her beauty defects. Plenty of times they pass unnoticed unless attention is drawn to them. The eye of the beholder doesn't dwell particularly on details—the abbreviated nose, faintly marked freckles, hair that refuses to thicken—but, instead, takes in the girl as a composition. It sees her as a complete picture. The picture is enhanced by amiability, graciousness, sweetness. Endearing qualities of mind and character create a beauty aura for plain Janes.

Stretch for beauty's sake. Also for the sake of muscles and digestive organs. Babies and animals stretch upon awakening. They follow nature's laws; they know what they are about, even if they don't know why. When awakening in the morning, extend the arms upward, send the legs to their limit of length, stretch the toes. During sleep circulation is sluggish, breathing is light, the entire physical system is getting as much rest as it can. Stretching rings all the little bells in the human frame-house, wakes everybody up, helps to start the day right.

Household Hints

A wooden spoon is a splendid utensil for cake mixing, as it is so much less tiring for the arm than a metal spoon.

If you boil your water for drinking and cooking purposes, pour it from one pitcher to another three or four times before using. It will lose that flat taste.

Ground cinnamon sprinkled top of the stove will remove disagreeable odors.

Don't hang a picture where it must be artificially lighted if you can possibly have it in the light of day. To have a spot light of electricity on it takes away from its artistic sense.

Correct Manners

An Invitation to be Acknowledged

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. A very distant friend of mine invited me to attend a bridge and supper party, some of her coming marriage subscriptions $2.50. Is it necessary that I answer if I cannot attend?

2. If so, kindly write me and how to word such an answer.

E.

1. Yes, you should answer the invitation. But not, of course, necessary for you to accept or far from necessary, in this case, but it is necessary for you to acknowledge the invitation.

2. In order to tell you how to write an acknowledgment of an invitation, one must know in what form the invitation was written, whether formal or informal. For one write an acknowledgment in the kind in which the invitation is. If the invitation was in the form of a note, your note would read something like this:

My Dear Mrs. Lee:

Thank you so much for your kind invitation to the bridge and supper on ... I am so sorry that I cannot come but I have an engagement for that evening. I am sure that you will all have a very happy time and do know that my best wishes are with you for all happiness then and in the future.

Most sincerely yours,

Serving the Birthday Cake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please advise whether or not it is customary and proper to cut and serve the birthday cake at the time of the birthday party. I was one of 25 attending a birthday party and although other cake was served, the hostess did not offer the guests any part of the birthday cake. I considered it to be poor taste. Please advise me if she was correct. C. K.

How strange not to have the birthday cake at the birthday party. Do you suppose that it could have been real?

It is the custom, and a charming one, to have the birthday cake lighted with gay candles and party spirit, but as the dessert is being served. Then it becomes a part of the dessert and what's a birthday party without ice cream accompanied by the birthday cake?

Logician Tells Where College Men Go

GLASGOW, Jan. 21. (INS)—It has been left to a professor of logic to explain where the college men go when they seek a career.

Prof. H. J. Paton, professor at Glasgow University, told an audience here that:

"The clever and cautious ones go into the civil service or college teaching;

"The clever and queer ones find their way into a museum or write poetry;

"And the most stupid (and, incidentally, often the most charming) into the army and business."

SPEAKER URGES PUBLICITY

Newspaper advertising used by concerns recognizing 1931 is a fighting year when self-satisfied leaders will lose and new leaders will rise was the forecast T. K. Kelly, Minneapolis banker and internationally known sales authority, brought to Pittsburgh Advertising Club members meeting at luncheon in the William Penn hotel yesterday.

Predicting business men will know they have been in a fight, Mr. Kelly asserted:

"My travels have shown that while during 1930 many businesses took big bruisings, those firms that advertised extensively—capitalizing upon newspaper advertising which is the greatest single business force existent today—came out winners. You will find tomorrow that men who today appear mediocre—men with slight capital—will forge ahead. These new business princes will capitalize upon the value of newspaper advertising, realizing that newspaper advertising is one of the most vital organs of our entire economic and social system."

Science Blames Heart Trouble On Fleas

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—Science is now blaming fleas for the spread of heart disease.

That was the message brought to the Chicago Heart Association last night by Dr. Hugh McCulloch, of St. Louis, associate editor of the Heart Association Journal.

Certain kinds of fleas, he said, are believed to carry the germs of rheumatic fever, from which heart trouble develops.

IN the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County, Pa. In re estate of Rubin Yatkofsky, deceased. No. 397 December Term, 1930.

NOTICE OF PRIVATE SALE OF REAL ESTATE FOR PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

Notice is hereby given you that the petition of Bessie Yatkofsky, administratrix is filed in the office of the clerk of the court praying for an order of sale of the real estate of the decedent situate on Monroeville avenue, Turtle Creek, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, described as follows:

All that certain lot or piece of ground situate in the Borough of Turtle Creek, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, being part of lots Nos. 657, 658 and 659 in the Electric Plan of the Turtle Creek Land and Improvement Company, recorded in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County, in Plan Book, volume 20, pages 120 and 121, more particularly bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a point on the southeast corner of Monroeville avenue and Oak avenue; thence along the southerly line of Oak avenue, south 74 degrees, 26 minutes east a distance of ninety-nine and thirty-seven hundredths (99.37) feet to a point on the line dividing lots Nos. 656 and 657 in said plan, a distance of twenty-five and four hundredths (25.04) feet to a point; thence north 74 degrees, 26 minutes west, by line through lots Nos. 657, 658 and 659, a distance of ninety-three and thirty-four hundredths (93.34) feet to a point on the easterly side of Monroeville avenue; thence along the easterly side of Monroeville avenue, north 4 degrees, 42 minutes east a distance of twenty-five and forty-six hundredths (25.46) feet to the corner of Oak avenue and Monroeville avenue, the place of beginning.

Having thereon erected a two-story brick veneer dwelling house known as 306 Monroeville avenue and a brick veneer garage.

At private sale to Michael Lucas and Mary Lucas, his wife, for the sum of $8,150.00 to be applied on account of the payment of decedent's debts.

The terms of sale to be by assuming a first mortgage of $5,500.00 against the said premises, and the balance of $2,650.00 in cash on delivery of deed, out of which sum of $2,650.00 there is first to be paid the sum of one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars and interest to Samuel Zidman for satisfaction of a mortgage which he holds against the premises being sold and other payments and charges, etc., as more fully appears in the petition of the administratrix filed.

The court will be asked to make a decree of sale on the 31st day of January, 1931 at 10:00 o'clock a. m., when higher offers will be considered and exceptions or objections to the proposed sale will be heard.

FIVE FILE SUITS FOR DIVORCE

Two of five suits for divorce on file today in Common Pleas Court reveal that some folks are not the only ones charged with cruelty.

Jesse W. Wilson, 5209 Broad street, after being married more than 30 years, has filed suit against Mrs. Frances Wilson, now of 173 Devilbiss street, charging her with cruelty. They were married December 12, 1900.

Mrs. Marion F. Hahn, 866 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, sued Walter C. Hahn, 704 Somerset street, Johnstown, on the same grounds. They were married November 12, 1908.

Albert P. Cotton, of Elizabeth, Pa., sued Mrs. Mary Cotton, Dravosburg, also charging cruelty. They were married June 18, 1922.

Mrs. Gladys B. Williams, 1200 Illinois avenue, Dormont, charged cruelty against Robert T. Williams, 1944 East Ninth street, Cleveland, O. They were married October 1.

Mrs. Mildred H. Murray, 718 Montclair street, charged desertion in her suit against William H. Murray, 408 Fifth street, Rankin. They were married January 11, 1927, and separated May 15 of the same year.

Mr. Pfarr

The newest author at Carnegie Museum is Dr. Stanley T. Brooks, assistant curator of invertebrates, who has turned out two stirring pamphlets entitled "Oysters" and "The Crayfish" . . . They're all about oysters and crayfish . . . Steve Madden, the polo player, who has no big toe on one foot, blames Gen. Pershing . . . Madden, a sergeant with military police in France, was escorting Pershing on a tour when the Madden motorcycle threw him and nipped off the digit . . . Old maids won't take the last bit of food from a plate because it's a superstitution that they'll stay old maids if they do . . . Ellery Walter, who went around the world on one leg and wrote a book about it, told the Twentieth Century Club he had 19 operations performed on the leg during the trip . . . Tony Block, the North Side police captain, who will probably be the inspector of the new district, is still taking treatment for that gunshot wound in the leg which a brother officer accidentally inflicted . . .

Errett Smith, who writes hundreds of words for the papers each day, hasn't had his own name in for more than 10 years . . . The original Yacht Club had its annual reunion recently, presided over by Pat Joyce, and adopted a resolution indorsing Prohibition . . . An excellent book: "Imperial Palace" . . . And the best movie shot of 1930: Marie Dressler kicking a tin can along an alley in "Min and Bill . . . Tommy Morgan, Walter Monaghan and Joe Leith, the sleuths, once saved a family whose home was burning, and said nothing about it . . . Owen Murphy, the Pittsburgh lawyer who quit the law business to write songs, has written the tunes for the new Broadway musical, "The Gang's All Here" . . . Jack Sheehan, the movie magnate in "America's Sweetheart," peaking: "Business is colossal, but it'll pick up."

A modest, shy, reserved young lady, who lives in Sewickley, wrote a letter to her fiance the other day and we presume she said things which any young lady writes to any young man to whom she had recently become engaged.

She didn't seal the letter immediately because she wanted to enclose something. Then she lost it. The man who found it was a Sewickley policeman and, with rare judgment, he read the letter, presumably to identify the writer.

Then he turned it over to the local paper, the Sewickley Herald. The paper returned the letter to the young lady and now she walks blocks out of her way to avoid the paper's office.

Thurston, a good showman and a good businessman, finds theater business so poor that he is considering going into the picture houses with a unit. While he was in Pittsburgh the magician reduced his overhead 25 per cent by eliminating a few assistants and a few tricks (the vanishing auto and some cage tricks). He didn't have to eliminate the vanishing elephant trick, because just before he came to Pittsburgh the darned elephant died.

What we started out to tell about was a young man who had quarreled with his girl. He was strolling alone downtown and happened to pass the theater in which Thurston was playing. To forget all, as they say, he went in and when Mr. Thurston asked for volunteers to climb to the stage and watch a lady being cut in half, the young man jumped.

Mr. Thurston assigned him to hold the hands of the lady which protruded from her daily coffin. As Thurston cut through the coffin with a saw, after ceremonious preparation, the young man leaned over and whispered: "A penny for your thoughts, milady."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I try to write my little jokes without getting riled up over anything, but now I am on the war path. For the first time in our lifetime our country is in need.

Will Rogers

Our most respected men are pleading for aid. Our great organization, Congress, is at last awakened. Our President's mind is naturally taken up with important problems of immediate aid for his people. Seven million people's minds are on their next cup of coffee, and what happens? The prohibition report is turned in. The only possible thing you could think of that we don't need right now, outside the Einstein theory, is the prohibition theory. Prohibition! Our grand children will be arguing over that, and here we are taking it serious at a time like this. If we could butter that report and put it between two loaves of bread it would be welcome now. What an aid to Arkansaw that report will be in this crisis? Poor Hoover, when somebody does do something for him, they do it at the wrong time. Yours, WILL.

Burned about the body when her brother poured gasoline into a grate to hasten a fire in her home last night, Tankala Busto, 6, of 313 Linden avenue, Clairton, was in a critical condition in McKeesport Hospital today.

The girl's dress was ignited by a flame that shot from the grate. The flames were extinguished by other members of the family.

DEPUTY NAMED CONSTABLE

Deputy Sheriff William McLaughlin was appointed constable of the Twenty-first Ward by Judge George V. Moore yesterday to succeed David E. Aiken, resigned.

At the hearing January 5, when applications were made by McLaughlin, who lives at 1515 Liverpool street; F. C. Palzraf, 1400 Adams street and Harry Hobbs, of 1705 Laurel street, McLaughlin told the court that he would resign as deputy sheriff if there proved to be enough work in the constable's office to support him.

Aiken told the court he resigned because the job did not support him. The other two applicants told the court that they were without employment.

Russian Count Tells Of Famous General

Count John Kuropatkin Chapel, grand-nephew of Gen. Kuropatkin, Russian commander in the Russo-Japanese War and in the early part of the World War, gave excerpts from the memoirs of the famous soldier before American Legion members at a luncheon today in the Nixon cafe. He revealed the German influence which helped demoralize the Russian command on the Western front.

Conduit and gravel for the surfacing of the county airport will be among the items for which bids will be opened tomorrow morning before County Commissioners. Estimates will also be accepted on improvement of Elwyn road; Center street, West View; treasurer's books, tax statements and school reports.

Police Get Radio Permit, Clark to Rush Work

Pittsburgh's short wave radio station to broadcast crime reports to cruising police cars and other police stations equipped with receiving sets, probably will be in operating within a month. Granting of a permit by the Federal Radio Commission yesterday paved the way for the start of installation of the plant.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, notified by Congressman Harry A. Estep, of the approval of the permit, said he would begin work immediately. The first step he said would be a survey, which would take a week or 10 days. Then bids would be asked, which would consume probably another week, with 10 days or more for the actual construction. He said he hoped to have the plant ready within a month.

The new station will operate on 1,712 kilocycles with 400 watts power.

Submarine Gains Failed to Shake Pershing's Faith

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING,

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces.

CHAPTER X.

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

About this time (July, 1917), disturbing reports were submitted to me confidentially by one of our naval officers sent by Admiral Sims from London. Calculations based upon tonnage losses for May, June and July seemed to confirm the conclusions of a month previous that there would soon be insufficient Allied shipping left to bring over an American army of required strength, and that the Allies would find it difficult to keep up their food supply from overseas.

The data presented by the naval officer proved that if this rate of destruction could not be reduced the war would be lost before we could fire a shot.

This report was certainly most pessimistic, but it did not dispel my confidence in the success of the plan that had been tested and was about to be inaugurated of sending ships over in convoys under the protection of naval vessels. Additional destroyers requested by Admiral Sims by this time largely increased such craft in European waters, and as a result the activities of submarines had been somewhat diminished for July as compared with April.

Gen. Pershing

Yet for the time being ship construction in British yards continued below losses, and our Shipping Board at home had scarcely stopped wrangling over materials and types. All these facts caused everybody to realize the extreme urgency of speed, and that in turn gave some hope that the prospects might soon become brighter.

It was my belief, even in the face of the heavy losses, that with complete co-operation under expert management and distribution the shipping would be ample for all purposes. This would require, of course, that it be placed under some central authority, but the governments, especially the British, that controlled most of it, while apparently desirous of helping, did not seem inclined to think they could make any concessions. They had entered into arrangements to assist each other with shipping for foodstuffs, but there was no such thing as pooling of Allied tonnage for general purposes.

Transportation Problem

The Allied authorities at this stage were deeply concerned over the question of ocean tonnage, on which the success of Allied military effort really hinged, yet their doubt of the possibility of any considerable numbers of our troops being ready to operate as a distinctive American force at an early date no doubt made them less active in trying to find shipping for our purposes. In fact, one could not help thinking that with our consent to feed men into the various armies, the government concerned would find it possible to send over vessels to bring their respective allotments across.

However, the discouraging re-

LEAGUE TO SIFT TAX-FREE LIST

The Thirty-second Ward Taxpayers' League meeting last night in Central High School, Overbrook, to protest increased assessments, decided to investigate how much property in Pittsburgh is exempt from city taxes. The chief city assessor will be asked to furnish a list of properties which do not contribute to city revenue.

The fight against increased assessments in the Overbrook district will be taken to court in a number of instances unless assessors grant some relief, according to Attorney John J. McGrath.

Valuations along the new Sawmill Run boulevard are in some cases four times the market value, Mr. McGrath declared.

The tax exempt properties which the taxpayers would scan are the large holdings of churches, public utilities, schools and charitable and public institutions. Former Councilman P. J. McArdle spoke at the meeting. William Ward presided.

Return of Alleged Bail Jumper Sought

County Detective Michael McDermott was in Gary, Ind., today, arranging for the return of Fred Presizio, wanted here for highway robbery and malicious mischief. Presizio was arrested yesterday by Chicago police.

According to county detectives, Presizio jumped bail last April after he had been indicted on the two charges.

Today's Bluebird

("Bluebirds" were the rumors about this and that circulated in the A. E. F. The Sun-Telegraph will print one each day contributed by a reader, in connection with the publication of Gen. Pershing's memoirs. The best one submitted each day will receive a prize of one dollar.)

By O. S. Williams, Toronto, O.

When the 15th Engineers, Pittsburgh's Pioneers, first armed troops to land in England since William the Conqueror, were awaiting their transport at Southampton in July, 1917, a regiment of British troops was at the dock ready to embark for Mesopotamia. Every "Tommie" there passed out the word that we were going along to fight the "Turks," and we all believed it.

St. Peter's Tomb Slab Placed in Church Here

A marble slab from the floor in front of St. Peter's tomb, St. Peter's Church, Rome, will be placed in front of the high altar of the sanctuary of the Catholic Church of the Assumption, Bellevue, nearing completion.

Mrs. John T. Comes, wife of the senior member of Comes & McMullen, architects of the new church, now sojourning in Rome with her daughter, Marcella, an art student, obtained the marble piece when workmen, repairing the floor of St. Peter's, broke some of the slabs. It has just been received.

False Burglar Alarm Calls Police to Bank

A clerk's mistake caused a police squad from Mt. Washington Station to speed over slippery streets today in answer to a burglar alarm sounded at the South Hills Savings and Trust Company, at Shiloh and Sycamore streets. The squad under Lieut. John Castelle found a clerk unknowingly had sounded the alarm.

Man Hurt in Fall On Icy Sidewalk

Carl Ulmann, 55, of 919 Spring Garden avenue, suffered a probable fracture of the skull when he slipped on the icy sidewalk in Constance street, near Spring Garden avenue, last night.

Police took the victim to Allegheny General Hospital, where his condition was regarded as serious.

ELECTRIC MEN MEET HERE

Electrical engineers of the tri-state district were attending an electrical heating and welding conference today under auspices of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers and Pennsylvania State College at the William Penn Hotel.

Technical discussions were being lead by A. N. Otis, of Schenectady, Charles McKnight, New York; Grover A. Hughes, Youngstown; H. H. Walther, Dayton; Dr. E. F. Northrup, Trenton; Charles H. Jennings, Pittsburgh; George S. Rose, New York, and I. T. Hook, Waterbury. A luncheon was the noon feature.

Frank Cramer, of Youngstown, presided at the two sessions. The program was arranged by William R. Young, of State College; J. F. Kelly and Thomas F. Little, of the engineers' association.

$15,450 Suit Filed For Crash Damages

Edward Finif, of Baldwin Township, has filed suit for $15,450 damages in Common Pleas Court against Joseph K. Aikins, owner of the South Side Coal Company, whose truck is alleged to have crashed into his automobile December 30, 1929, at Carson and Twenty-third streets, injuring his head and back.

Schwab, Optimistic, Sees New Era in Steel

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 21.—(AP.)—

The most significant fact about the business depression, in the opinion of Charles M. Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, is the "common sense which industry has shown in protecting the purchasing power of the consumer."

Schwab avoided making 1931 predictions, but was optimistic during his address before 600 Toledo business men last night. He foresaw a new era of steel development when the industry will find hundreds of new uses for its products.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The opinion that business revivals invariably start when "the howlings of professional mourners" are loudest was expressed last night by Julius Klein, assistant secretary of the United States Department of Commerce, before the National Food Brokers' convention.

The belief of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, expressed here Monday, that business recovery has been under way for two months, "May have some point in this connection," the speaker said.

WOMAN CALLS PROHIBITION FAILURE

Prohibition Collapse Makes Law Futile, Mrs. Sabin Says at Meeting Here

Prohibition provided by the Eighteenth Amendment has failed to bring temperance and the women and children who needed relief from the sufferings caused by liquor are no better off today, according to Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York, national president of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Otherwise respectable citizens won't lift a finger in aiding enforcement, Mrs. Sabine declared before a luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh chapter yesterday in the William Penn Hotel.

Speaking on the same program was Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley, national chairman legislative and speakers' committee. They were accompanied here by Mrs. Edward S. Moore, national publicity chairman.

Pointing out that the organization is both non-partisan and non-sectarian, and not the ladies auxiliary of any church or any political party, Mrs. Sabin asserted:

"Throughout the ages, women have been the real victims of intemperance and they had been helpless under it. They welcomed legislation which they thought would insure them happier and more wholesome communities in which to bring up their children.

INTEMPERANCE GROWS

"They now realize that under prohibition, intemperance is increasing; that children, far from growing up in surroundings cleaner, more spiritual, happier and more wholesome than before, are growing up in conditions worse than ever before in our history—in communities where they see lawlessness rampant, hypocrisy enthroned and contempt for our Constitution encouraged.

"We all know that the American people are scarcely lifting a finger to help in the enforcement. Our situation will remain the same until we purge our Congress and State Legislatures of the type of man who votes dry and drinks wet."

Quoting Dr. James M. Doran that prohibition has become the source of income for thousands that totals three billion dollars annually, Mrs. Kelley said:

REPEAL NECESSARY

"The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform believes that we must first repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and then restore to the states their sovereign right of legislation upon this vital question of control of liquor. There must be something basically wrong with a law such as the Eighteenth Amendment about which social workers, clergymen, statesmen, physicians and the rank and file of good citizens entertain an honest difference of opinion."

DELAY CAUSED BY OFFICIALS' ABSENCE

Mayor, Other City Heads Sponsor Meet Tomorrow; Citizens Asked to Attend

With the inauguration of Gov. Pinchot at Harrisburg yesterday a matter of history, city officials today planned to take up the unemployment problem.

A conference of city officials and invited citizens on relief measures, which was set for today, was postponed and probably will be held tomorrow—this because John S. Herron, president of Council, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang and Councilman W. Y. English had not returned from Harrisburg early this afternoon.

These officials, with Mayor Kline and the citizens, will try to devise a method of providing jobs for the unemployed. Herron has said that Council purposes to contribute $25,000 to an employment fund.

Jobless men would be hired on public works projects in the city, according to the plans, and would be paid off daily.

Meanwhile the Department of Welfare was still compelled to inform many applicants for relief that there are no funds to assist them. Since the second $100,000 councilmanic appropriation for aid ran out last Saturday, funds have been lacking to give food, clothing and coal to the scores who have applied for help. Department officials estimate that since Saturday an average of 50 daily have applied.

Council has given no indication of planning another relief appropriation, although it is conceded something must be done to help the nearly 10,000 families cut off from resources when the fund stopped.

Council President Herron said:

"The good people and the Council of the city of Pittsburgh will see to it that the destitute are not left in want."

Should another fund be made available it will be administered as a city project and not with the assistance of outside welfare agencies, according to Herron.

MRS. LAURA COSTAS

HUNTS MOTHER GONE 34 YEARS

Mrs. Laura Costas, 34, of 1309 Sixth avenue, Ford City, who, in her infancy was given away by her poverty stricken mother, is trying to learn the identity of her parents.

A telegram, dated September, 1897, signed by Mrs. Josephine Dewey, is the only clue by which Mrs. Costas may be able to trace her parent.

Shortly after her adoption by Mrs. Josephine Mohimont, of Ford City, the telegram was received by the latter asking for the return of the child. She refused. Since then Mrs. Mohimont says she has not heard of Mrs. Costas' parents.

FIRE DESTROYS RANKIN HOME

Dewey Joseph, 27, a hoseman of the Rankin Fire Department, suffered burns when fire destroyed the home of Dominic Patracca, 126 Ohio street, Rankin, early today. The blaze started in the rear of the house, a five-room frame structure, according to Fire Chief McKay, who estimated the loss at $4,000. Firemen saved adjoining dwellings from the flames, Chief McKay said.

Flames which were confined to the living room of the home of John B. Love, at 432 Edith street, resulted in damage estimated at $350 last night. The cause was undetermined.

Fire in a garage in the rear of the home of C. Karl, at 328 Kambach street, resulted in damage estimated at $350 early today, police at the Mt. Washington station reported. The garage was damaged $50. An automobile owned by H. B. Walker, of 326 Kambach street, which was stored in the garage, was damaged $300, police reported.

JUDGE QUASHES ROONEY CHARGE

A charge of carrying concealed weapons, placed against Miles Rooney, 45, former city policeman, killed during an argument in a Boyle street rooming house, Monday, was quashed in an order signed late yesterday by Judge George V. Moore, because of his death.

James V. Soldam, 44, of 609 Emlin street, together with seven others were arrested in connection with the shooting and are being held until the investigation by detectives is completed.

Rooney was arrested by county detectives several weeks ago as a suspicious person and was held for carrying concealed weapons after a revolver was found in his pocket.

MURDER JURIES HEAR ACCUSED

Two defendants in murder trials now in their third day in Criminal Court, today told their stories, hoping to convince their juries they are not guilty.

Otto Parsons, 51, of McKees Rocks, accused of shooting Patrolman Grover Wolf, 38, also of McKees Rocks, because the officer ordered him to "go home," said the fatal shooting was accidental.

Tony Antinori, being tried for the murder of Ellen Rice, 44, Negro, of 1838 Runnette street, offered as his defense a lapse of memory.

Antinori testified that in a fight with William Van Scriver, of Homestead, in a store at 6231 Kirkwood street, Van Scriver struck him on the head with a whisky bottle, and he remembers nothing after that.

BROTHER SHOT, YOUTH SOUGHT

George Jopschak, 18, of 47 Acorn street, was being sought by police today for the alleged shooting of his brother, Michael, 21, during an argument over $2 in a pool room at 3806 Acorn street, last night, police said.

The younger brother, according to police, accused Michael of stealing $2. Enraged when the theft was denied, George was alleged to have gone to his home, procured a .22 caliber rifle and returned to the pool room. Michael was standing near a table when George aimed, police said, and shot him in the left leg. The victim is in Homeopathic Hospital.

FIRM OFFICIALS PROMOTED

Election of J. Roy Tanner as president and George J. Stewart as vice president and director was announced today by the Pittsburgh Valve, Foundry and Construction Company.

Tanner, who is a national figure in valve, piping and foundry industries, attended the University of Pittsburgh, and entered the employ of the company in 1901. He served as chief engineer until 1911, when he was made vice president and general manager. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania.

Stewart, a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, entered the employ of the company in 1901, serving as a draftsman and assistant chief engineer until 1911, when he was made chief engineer, which position he held until four years ago, when he was made manager of production. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania and the Engineers' Society for Testing Materials.

Martin Gets Post As Donahoe Quits

P. J. Donahoe, of Stanton Heights, serving his second term as Republican chairman of the Tenth Ward, resigned his post at a meeting in the Morningside School last night. Charles Martin, city assessor, was elected to succeed him.

In presenting his resignation, Mr. Donahoe, president of Donahoe's, Inc., said that press of business forced him to relinquish the duties of chairman.

Brother's Term Held Illegal, Seeks Writ

Claiming it was illegal for Burgess George A. Donladson, of Turtle Creek to sentence Eli Moncilovich to jail for 60 days for disorderly conduct because he says an Act of Assembly specifies that 30 days shall be the maximum for the offense, George Moncilovich, his brother, has applied to Common Pleas Court for his release on a writ of habeas corpus. Judge James H. Gray set tomorrow for a hearing.

INCLINE ROBBER BEGINS TERM

Charles Sherman, 35, who pleaded guilty to robbery yesterday in Criminal Court, today began a sentence of from 10 to 20 years in Western Penitentiary.

Sherman pleaded to attempting to rob the store of Frank Bush, 2320 Salisbury street, and to robbing David Hill, 2318 Eckles street, conductor on the St. Clair Incline, of $25, and Max Wolf, of 2200 Arlington avenue, a passenger on the incline, of $5.

Tortured with Acid Indigestion for Months. Not a Sign Now

Amazing Prescription ACIDINE, Ends Gas, Pain, After All Else Failed

"I suffered for months with acid indigestion and gas on the stomach," writes Mr. C. Redford of Detroit, Michigan. "Couldn't eat a meal without being troubled with gas and pain, also dizzy feeling. I tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing really helped until I took ACIDINE. Got relief from the very start. Now I am entirely well, no pains at all."

Thousands are astonished how this new scientific prescription, ACIDINE, succeeds where other known remedies fail. The reason is that it is entirely different. Contains the marvelous digestant, Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods, which cause so much distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes! Five other ingredients in ACIDINE stop burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach. Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE, and thousands of people have found it the only real relief from acid indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, gas and headache from acidity. Pain goes like a flash.

Don't take chances with acidity and gas that often lead to serious and more painful troubles. Get ACIDINE from your druggist today. Watch how quick pain and gas end. Smoke, eat and drink what you want. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

A fact you should not overlook

MORE red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results.

S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is strengthened, invigorated! Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Blood is Life! You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

You can recognize a lowered count by the way you look and feel—such as body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, boils and pimples. They may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. If your vitality and clear skin are slipping away from you, try S.S.S.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

PAIR ACCUSED IN SERIES OF HOLDUPS

Victim Captures Accused Bandit After Being Robbed In East End; Both Held

Identified by four drivers as the bandits who held up and robbed them in a series of holdups in the East End district, James Lewis, 21, and John Dudley, Negro, 21, of 7557 Manilla avenue, Penn Township, were held for further investigation after a hearing at the East End Police Station today.

John P. Allerton, 37, a taxicab driver, of 128 East Montgomery avenue, captured one of the pair after being robbed of $4.55 at the point of a revolver last night. Charles Elk, 8103 Ferndale street, identified Dudley as the man who called a cab at the Columbia Hospital, Wilkinsburg, yesterday morning, held him up at Sprague street, and escaped with $9.

ACCUSES THREE MEN

John Morgan, 1920 Tustin street, said Dudley, Lewis and a third man hired his cab downtown the day before Christmas and held him up at Spencer street. Lewis held the gun, he testified, while the others took $11.85, leaving him carfare to East Liberty.

Francis Shear, 5326 Rosetta street, identified Dudley as the bandit who robbed him at the point of a gun at Lincoln avenue extension January 18. He testified Dudley said he felt like killing him because he had only 95 cents.

Allerton informed police the man engaged his cab at the East Liberty Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad and directed him to drive to Runette street. After robbing the driver, the man stepped back into the cab and, still menacing him with the gun, told Allerton to take him to the downtown Pennsylvania Station.

KNOCKS FARE DOWN

Allerton stopped in Liberty avenue at Eleventh street and when the passenger alighted the driver leaped out and knocked him down. With the aid of a pedestrian, Allerton loaded the suspect into his cab and took him to the East End Police Station, where the prisoner was docketed as John Dudley, a Negro, 21, of 7557 Manilla avenue, Penn Township.

Three hours later police arrested James Lewis, 21, in Center avenue. He was taken to the East End station. Police declared Dudley, facing Lewis, named him as his companion in two holdups.

A man, who, in his flight under a hail of bullets, wrecked an automobile laden with stolen tires, was being sought by North Side police today.

Cornelius Blatt, 25, of 1300 Madison avenue, employed in the Skender Tire Shop, at 1628 East Ohio street, routed the man, who fled and later abandoned the wrecked car.

Two bandits last night entered the tailor shop of Michael Bisciglia, at 406 North Sheridan avenue. After rifling the register of $10, one of the thugs selected 20 suits and both escaped.

DE SOTO

A NEW SIX . . A NEW EIGHT

Value in a motor car has come to mean smooth, efficient performance, beauty of line and appointments, economy of operation and maintenance, and a high factor of safety—all combined at a moderate price. ¶ The new De Soto Six achieves better performance because of a larger and more powerful engine. Fuel economy is more pronounced than ever. Beauty is enhanced by a narrow-profile radiator, a longer hood and a completely re-designed Steelweld body. Safety is increased by the new double-drop frame construction, which lowers the center of gravity. ¶ Best of all, these marked improvements are offered at the lowest price ever asked for a De Soto Six. ¶ The De Soto Straight Eight also has been improved in appearance and performance. The larger engine, developing 77 horsepower, assures smooth, vibrationless operation and increased speed. ¶ A slender-profile radiator and longer hood give the new Eight an appearance of rakish lowness. Improved spring design together with four hydraulic shock absorbers, provide exceptionally easy riding. The many other fine mechanical features of this car have been retained, and the Unisteel safety body is unchanged in structure, with improvements in appearance and fittings.

"A COUGH WOULD KILL MY PROGRAM"

Harriet Lee

"I GET colds, of course," says Miss Lee, popular radio contralto, "but I have to go on the air just the same. A cough would kill my program."

That's why, like many other radio artists, she has learned to rely on Pertussin. It's quick—and it's safe and pleasant to take. For Pertussin is made from a medicinal herb called thyme and is entirely free from narcotics and injurious, habit-forming drugs.

Broadcasting studios use Pertussin because it relieves coughs and eases the throat almost instantly. Doctors have prescribed it for over twenty-five years—especially for children.

Winter weather brings coughs. Watch out! Get Pertussin for quick relief. Stop in at the nearest druggist's for a bottle.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Active in Southland

Rollicking snowflakes may delight some of us, but others, shivering, flee from winter to Florida to enjoy a round of sunlit days.

St. Petersburg is attracting many Pittsburgh folks. The social season there is becoming very gay already. One of the notable coming events is the annual charity ball, to be held a week from Friday. Among those attending will be Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Conner, Mrs. George L. Craig, the James R. Sweeneys, Miss Romaine Clark, Mrs. Joseph W. McGinness, Miss Lillie McGinness, and others, all of Pittsburgh.

On Friday Mrs. McGinness will give a tea in the Hotel Soreno for other members of the Pittsburgh colony.

Hostess At Tea

Mrs. George L. Craig and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Albert Craig, and her small son, Albert Craig, Jr., have taken a home in St. Petersburg for the winter.

Some time ago I mentioned that Mrs. Norman F. Brown and her daughter, Nancy, are at St. Petersburg for the winter. Recently Mr. Brown spent a few days with his family. Other Pittsburgh folks at the resort are Mrs. J. M. Shields, who motored South with her son, Harold Shields, and Mrs. William Bell, who is the guest of the Norman F. Browns.

The J. L. Autenreiths, Mrs. A. E. Crockett and Miss A. V. Davis are recent arrivals, as is A. E. Sloan.

Mrs. Henry Lawrence Jones, of Wilkes-Barre, is the guest of her parents, Col. and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, of Wallingford street.

Visiting Parents

The Van Lear Perry Shrivers, of Sewickley, are at the St. Regis Hotel, New York, and the Clarence P. Byrnes, also of Sewickley, are at the Weylin.

The races at Miami continue to attract folks wintering in the South. Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie Phipps, former Pittsburghers, are there.

At Miami Beach is Nan Page, daughter of the Dewitt Pages, whose engagement to E. Sargent Hoope, of Beaver Falls, has been announced. Nan attended Dana Hall and the Finch School, and Mr. Hoope is a Harvard man.

Everyone in the social world will be at the ball the Twentieth Century Club is giving tonight. Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., is general chairman, assisted by a list of social registerites.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Dolores Briggs, of San Bernardino, Cal., to Henry W. Riegger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Riegger, of Park avenue, West View, which took place January 2 in California. Mr. and Mrs. Riegger are living in California.

Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Specter, of Hastings street, East End, gave a birthday party in honor of their daughter, Miss Shirley Rae Specter, in their home Sunday afternoon. There were 31 guests, and a motion picture provided entertainment during the afternoon.

Pittsburgher Speaks At Warehouse Meet

James F. Keenan, of Pittsburgh, president of the National Furniture Warehouse Men's Association, delivered the principal address yesterday at the annual winter convention of the association in session in San Antonio, Tex. He appealed to members to retain as many employes as possible in view of the definite improvement in conditions evident in the trade.

Brotherhood Holds Annual Election

The Brotherhood of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, at its annual business meeting this week, elected these officers for 1931: President, R. A. Ramming; vice president, E. L. Schauffauer; treasurer, Alb. Burkhardt; secretary, Albert Hacke, Jr. Plans were discussed for the annual banquet of the organization February 16.

Eastern Star Holds Dinner Tonight

A cafeteria dinner followed by a card party will be held by Alpha Chapter, No. 93, Order of the Eastern Star, in Eastern Star Temple, South Highland avenue, from 5:30 to 7 p. m. this evening. The event will be under direction of past matrons of the chapter.

'Tour' Abroad Enjoyed by Town Club

The Town Club changed its plans around a bit yesterday and gave its members an unscheduled but especially interesting program. Mrs. Samuel E. Diescher, chairman for the day, introduced Mrs. John S. Sloan, who talked of her last summer's European trip, and John Howard Phillips, who took motion pictures of the same trip, on which he and his wife accompanied Mrs. Sloan.

The pictures showed the scenery and the party from the time its members left New York, sailing to Africa and thence to Europe. Pictures of the Passion Play were probably the most interesting of the several reels shown.

Mrs. Sloan said she had been told in Oberammergau that the play is given regardless of weather conditions and that once it was performed in a heavy snow.

The Ben Avon Chapter of the Young Women's Christian Association is concentrating all its energies at present on making its motion picture benefit the biggest event of the current season. The benefit is to be held at the Bellevue Theater, Friday, February 13, with H. B. Warner in "The Princess and the Plumber" as the feature attraction. There will also be a comedy. Since both comedy and feature are of the type that will appeal to children, a special children's matinee is being arranged for 4:15 and a street car will meet the boys and girls at the school entrance.

The Housekeepers' Club, in accordance with the custom established this year of making a trip once a month to a local institution, has accepted an invitation to visit Luther's bakery and candy shop, North Side, tomorrow. Mrs. J. C. Heckman is chairman for the day.

The women of the various organizations of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church will hold a special meeting on Tuesday to discuss the enlarged program for Presbyterian women. Miss Mary Amelia Steer, of Philadelphia, educational secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, will give the principal address, and the Rev. Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, pastor of the church and moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, will take charge of the discussion.

Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini, Chicago grand opera stars, are making their only Pittsburgh appearance of the season tonight in Syria Mosque as a benefit for Pittsburgh Chapter of Hadassah. The proceeds will go towards Hadassah's work in Palestine.

Members of the John Burroughs Parent-Teacher Association, accompanied by sixth grade pupils, will visit the H. J. Heinz plant tomorrow afternoon.

The directors of the Queen Esther Home for Children will sponsor a card party next Wednesday afternoon in the Murphy store, Fifth avenue.

Nu Tau Gamma sorority will have a dance in Webster Hall Saturday evening, February 7.

The board of managers of the Christian Home for Women, North Side, will entertain the New Era Club next Wednesday afternoon at the home, Mrs. John Howard Phillips, a member of both organizations, is chairman of the day's program. Mrs. Phillips, who witnessed the Passion Play last summer, will speak of it and will show exclusive motion and still pictures in illustration.

Hostesses At Home

The Syria Ladies Choral will sing. Mrs. Herman J. Apel, assistant chairman of the day, is president of the choral, and Mrs. Bertha Gross King the director. The day's aides include Miss Margaret Carson, Mrs. Elizabeth Knoblach, Mrs. Jo Vogel, Mrs. V. A. Sandles, Mrs. Lida Staving, Mrs. H. C. Reller, Mrs. Clifford C. Taylor, Mrs. Jesse G. Roberts.

A meeting of interest to club women and housewives will be addressed by Charles S. Chapman tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at a "radio party" to be held in Utility Hall.

Mr. Chapman, a former representative in the Massachusetts Legislature, will speak on "Safety at Home and Abroad." Miss Karen Fladoes, home service director of the Philadelphia Company, will preside. Illustrated slides supplied by the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council will be shown.

Next Wednesday and Thursday evenings, January 28 and 29, the evening and music departments of the Woman's Club of Aspinwall will present the comedy, "The College Flapper," in the high school auditorium with a cast of more than 150 and will precede it with a baby pageant.

Mrs. Leonard Harrison is general chairman and Miss Katherine MacKenzie and Mrs. J. Edward Beachler head the committees from the two departments.

Tickets are in charge of Mrs. Carl Roemer, assisted by Mrs. Lewis Baird. Mrs. John L. Palmer will take care of the publicity and Mrs. C. E. Vogeley the advertising. Costumes and stage properties will be in charge of Mrs. L. E. Howe. The pageant is in charge of Mrs. T. H. Swartzlander.

Before an audience of almost 400 persons, members of the Tuesday Musical Club presented one of the most artistic and well-balanced programs of the season yesterday in upper Memorial Hall. Henrietta Bodycombe and Marion Bollinger appeared first, playing two pianos; next, Helen Bell Rush in her beautiful soprano sang, with the string ensemble of the club accompanying. Then a trio, composed of Janet Turner, violin; Jean Wessner, 'cello, and Helen Roessing, pianist, played several numbers, one of which was by Miss Roessing.

Members of the string ensemble, Mrs. J. S. Lanahan, Miss Janet Turner, Mrs. C. S. Metzger, Mrs. Robert Wickersham, Mrs. William Knox, Mrs. Christine Jones, Mrs. Ethel Jones and Miss Mary Redmond, presided at the tea tables.

The Rev. Dr. John E. Simpson, of the North United Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the Thursday Noon Club for Business Women at the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow. Music will be furnished by Vincent Kroen and Mrs. Adalaine Merrill Biddle.

Jury Menu May Drop Costly Strawberries

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—It looks now as though Criminal Court jurymen will have to worry along without strawberries when they dine at the county's expense. An economy idea along this line was passed along to the county board's finance committee by James C. Russell, superintendent of public service. He said portions served judges in the dining room of the Criminal Courts Building are too large. They are supposed to pay for their checks, he added, but sometimes they forget.

BLACK REMAINS A POPULAR COLOR IN SARTORIAL WORLD

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Things continue to look black in the sartorial world—a most welcome piece of news to most women. For nothing can dislodge the black frock from its most important niche in the mode. And whatever shade or color happens to be supreme at the moment, one knows that black still reigns and will continue to wield its sceptre of superiority. Black with a happily chosen bit of color is delightful for daytime wear, but all black or black combined cleverly with white is constantly seen at the smartest places. Most women know that they look their best in black, and for this reason that hue holds its leading place on the color card. Blue, green or flesh pink are three shades that are often combined with black for the afternoon frock. Black with white lingerie touches continues, too, as a fashion of vast importance. And black is good in all materials, be it the ethereal lace or tulle or the opulent velvet, another most important quality.

BLACK IS THE COLOR of both of the frocks shown in today's sketches. Each frock is a most distinguished example of the day and evening mode as it is offered here. The afternoon frock, which is by Martial et Armande, is of black chiffon velvet with a deep collar and sleeve flounces of flesh colored georgette worked in eyelet embroidery. The skirt is formed of circular godet of uneven length and very flaring. Shirring at the front and at the sides of the bodice cause a close-fitting, clinging silhouette that is most flattering and becoming.

THE EVENING FROCK by Patou is made entirely of heavy black tulle. Over the softly bloused bodice is a square bolero. At the front of the skirt two narrow pleats fall loose from the belt and two circular peplums start from beneath the pleats and pass around to the back. The narrow belt is of the same fabric and fastens with a handsome strass clasp.

POLICE CHIEF CALLED IN QUIZ

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock was involved in the special grand jury's investigation of his department with the announcement by assistants to the state's attorney that Alcock would be subpenaed today.

Charles J. Mueller and Charles J. Lounsbury, directing the collection of evidence against the alleged triple entente of police, politics and crime, said Alcock's summons was caused by the disappearance of Mrs. Shirley Kub, his undercover investigator and chief witness on police methods. Several police captains also would be called, they added.

Mrs. Kub, employed for months to check the activities of Alcock's captains, made "startling revelations" of graft and corruption before the jury Monday, officials said, but yesterday she failed to appear. Her arrest was ordered, without effect.

Investigators said they would ask Alcock what Mrs. Kub would have disclosed if she had continued her testimony and would demand a look at her written reports.

NOVELIST HERE FOR MEETING

Ida M. Tarbell, author, paid a visit to Pittsburgh yesterday. She attended the semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees of Allegheny College, from which she was graduated in 1880. She said:

Miss Tarbell

"Of all the subjects that I have ever attempted, Lincoln interests me most. Several books on his life are the ones I like most of all I have written."

Asked about her interest in Pittsburgh, she said:

"I have spent a great deal of time in the city both before and since I began writing. Several years ago I visited the industrial vicinities of Pittsburgh in search of material for one of my articles."

The meeting of the Allegheny College board in the William Penn Hotel was the annual mid-winter meeting. Thirty-six members attended.

The board received the names of several candidates to succeed President James Beebe, who retired last June due to ill health. Names of the candidates were withheld until a decision is reached. It was revealed the trustees had voted a $5,000 yearly life pension to the retired president.

Kiawanians to Hold Anniversary Fete

Observance of the sixteenth anniversary of the Kiwanis International will be held tomorrow by the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh at its weekly luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Harry R. Hickox, member of the local club, third oldest Kiwanis group, will speak. As guest speaker John A. Oartel, safety bureau chief of the Carnegie Steel Company, will speak.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Ambassador and Mrs. Edge, together with other Americans and Frenchmen, today attended memorial services in the American Cathedral for the late Hugh Campbell Wallace, former United States Ambassador to France.

Killed at Play

PAUL LAWRENCE

Paul, 4½, 110 West Seventh avenue, Homestead, almost instantly killed when he ran for a rubber ball and was struck by an auto driven by I. Fisher, 2842 Sherman avenue, Chicago.

MOTORIST HELD IN BOY'S DEATH

I. Fishel, of Chicago, today furnished $1,000 bond for his appearance at an inquest in February in connection with the fatal injury of Paul Lawrence, Jr., 5, of 116 West Seventh avenue, West Homestead.

The boy died yesterday in Homestead Hospital after being hit by an automobile driven by Fishel, police said, while chasing a ball in Eighth avenue and West street, Homestead.

Injured when a city-bound bus of the Colonial Stages crashed into a pole at California avenue and Division street, Avalon, last night, Harry Gordon, 62, of Woodbridge, N. J., was in Suburban General Hospital today.

The bus, driven by Sherman Williams, skidded while rounding a curve. The rear of the bus crashed against the pole, injuring Williams. A dozen other passengers escaped unhurt.

WHAT ABOUT THE SERVICE?

With high-type apartments, the premises generally are acceptable, but the wise apartment seeker will look further—he will expect satisfactory answers to such questions as these:

"In addition to a lease of premises, what service does my rental money purchase?

"How many economies are made possible by the completeness of this service?

"To what extent does this service relieve me of former household responsibilities, drudgeries and worries?

"How much time is saved for me by this service, enabling me to do what I WANT to do, not what I HAVE to do?

When these and innumerable other questions are applied to Schenley Apartments, they are answered with a few words, into which a truly marvelous story of service has been condensed:

"The specialized service of Schenley Apartments is provided by a staff of 125 attendants!

"In addition, the service facilities of the excellent Hotel Schenley, and of all the diversified Schenley Shoppes, afford a completeness which could not be duplicated without reproduction of the physical plant."

In fact, Schenley residents enjoy an apartment service exceeding in scope and detail that which would be expected in the highest type hotel.

BOGGS & BUHL

REMNANT DAY

FRIDAY

DAY AFTER TOMORROW

The Greatest Thing of Its Kind in America

The day of days—Pittsburgh's one outstanding Sale day—known far and wide as the clearance event that stands unique and supreme.

A Boggs & Buhl institution—twice each year for more than 50 years this sensational sale greets this community with Goods and Prices that are found at no other time.

Red Ink Prices hold sway—Red Ink Prices that three generations have come to know as rock bottom prices—prices that cover great lots of merchandise that includes the needs of everyone. Cost is given scant consideration in the relentless clearance that sweeps hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of goods from every section of the store.

Thousands of thrifty, foresighted buyers—from hundreds of miles around—keen to profit by values that are real sensations, will crowd into the store Friday.

Ready-to-Wear, Underwear, Accessories, Homefurnishings—surplus goods, overstocks, broken lines, odd pieces and lengths—useful and desirable goods in the sacrifice.

Plan your day to spend Friday at this sale.

SPLENDID PARKING FACILITIES

Come in your car, of course, to this great event. There will be no charge for parking. Simply drive to the Parkway entrance and turn your car over to the doorman who will park it for you—and get it when you are ready to leave. If you prefer to park your own car, there is plenty of parking space next to the store and on side streets just a short walk from the store.

RIVAL SMITHS MEET IN FLOOR TILT

TWO IMPORTANT FACTORS in the success of the Carnegie Tech and Pitt basketball teams, which clash tonight in the first event of their annual two-game series, are the Smith boys—Bob, of the Skibos, and Don, of the Panthers. The two are not related, nor are they even neighbors, the Carnegie Smith hailing from Cleveland while the Pitt Smith resides in Bellevue. Both are big chaps and rate above the ordinary run of college basketballers.

Don Smith

Bob Smith has been the big point getter for Coach Buzz Hogan's Plaid quintet. Carnegie has been enjoying a basketball rejuvenation, winning six out of seven games played, and the rangy Smith, cavorting as a forward, has been dumping four or five goals to a game, having 72 points to his credit up to date, as well as putting up a fine exhibition of passing and defensive play. Many of his baskets have been made under great stress and strain, some of 'em tossed one handed while a defensive opponent was draped about his neck.

THE OTHER SMITTY starred for the crack Bellevue High School team of 1928 and was one of the outstanding performers in the W. P. I. A. L. that year. Last season he performed brilliantly on the undefeated Pitt freshman five. This season he has fitted himself into the workings of Dr. Cliff Carlson's machine as a guard, and a good one.

A foot injury forced him to the bench and kept him out of the Indiana and New York U. games, but he came back to play fine ball against Fordham and West Virginia. Smith's continued splendid work may keep co-Captain Eddie Baker on the bench for a greater period of time than was generally expected after Baker received permission to rejoin the squad.

BAKER MISSED THE early floor games of the Panthers by going to California to play in the East-West charity football game on December 27, and since his return he has found it difficult to break into the lineup as a starting player.

The first appearance of the Smiths as opponents tonight will be doubly interesting for the reason that they will be playing directly against each other, their positions in the rival lineups being such that the Pitt Smith's job will be to guard the Carnegie Smith and try to keep him from scoring.

THE NAME WILTSE has a persistent habit of bobbing up on the pitching rosters of the major baseball leagues. The Pittsburgh club had the first hurler of that name in Louis, who was tried way back in 1901 but couldn't win a place on a staff that included Jesse Tannehill, Jack Chesbro, Rube Waddell, Deacon Phillippe, Sam Leever, Eddie Doheny and Eddie Poole. A brother, George, was a serviceable left-hander for the Giants from 1904 to 1913.

NOW A THIRD flinger of that name not related to the first two comes up again in the signing of Southpaw Harold Wiltse with the Phillies. Hal failed before with the Red Sox and Browns, but is said to be a much improved pitcher now.

Chuck Gardiner

In the last two years he won 38 games for Wichita Falls in the Texas League. Wiltse's first tutor was none other than the once famous Three-Finger Brown, who was manager of the semi-pro club of Lawrenceville, Ill., with which the youngster started in 1922.

WHEN THE GOAL-KEEPING feats of the present season in any of the professional hockey leagues are being discussed, a record made by Chuck Gardiner, of the Chicago Blackhawks in the National loop, challenges comparison.

In the last five games only a single goal has been scored against Gardiner, and before that lone tally was registered by the New York Rangers the other night Gardiner played through four consecutive contests without allowing a solitary counter to be shot into his net. A performance without a parallel in this forward-passing and high-scoring era.

KNUTE ROCKNE continues to assert that the over-emphasis cry in football is nothing but the wail of losers. "If these college professors had the courage of their convictions football coaches wouldn't be fired in mid-season," said the Notre Dame coach. "Pat Page, Nibs Price and many others were fine fellows and character builders, a splendid influence on young undergraduates, but they didn't win and they were fired for that reason. Football is a highly competitive game, and coaching football is a competitive job.

"WHEN YOU ARE a college professor you are in there for life. If the students don't learn from you, the students are dumb. But if the student's don't learn football from the coaches the coaches are dumb. And if I am dumb, I am fired.

"Understand, there are many fine college professors, but there is also a lot of dead timber among them. There is no dead timber among football coaches, because when a coach doesn't succeed he is no longer coach. Instead of squawking about the salaries the coaches get, they ought to raise the salaries of the professors. I get a salary of $10,000 a year, and at the risk of appearing an egotist I'll say I am worth it."

THE UNCONDITIONAL release given to Joe Sewell, 32, by Cleveland will, if no other club in the big show offers the veteran infielder a new berth, take out of the majors one of the ablest players and most popular figures of recent years.

Sewell broke into the fast set under most unusual circumstances, being called upon to fill the hole in the Cleveland lineup at shortstop caused by the tragic end of the brilliant Ray Chapman, who died on August 17, 1920, after one of Carl Mays' pitches had fractured his skull in a game at New York the preceding day.

Hank DeBerry

JOE NOT ONLY plugged the gap well enough to enable the Indians to win Cleveland's first major league pennant, but he helped them to victory also in the world series against Brooklyn and then developed into one of the greatest shortstops in the game. In addition to having rare playing skill he was an iron man in durability. He did not miss a game from the latter part of 1922 until May 2, last year, when illness forced him to leave the lineup after he had played 1,102 consecutive games, the closest approach ever made to Everett Scott's world record of 1,307 straight contests.

ONE OF BASEBALL'S most famous batteries in a long line stretching from Keefe and Ewing to Alexander and Killefer and Johnson and Street, has been broken up in the release of Catcher Hank DeBerry by Brooklyn to Oakland in the deal for Ernest Lombardi. Battery mates in New Orleans in 1921, Dazzy Vance and DeBerry went to the Robins together in 1922 and became one of baseball's outstanding pairs.

One day in 1929, when Vance's salary was known to be $25,000, Pie Traynor greeted DeBerry's appearance on the field with "Here comes the other end of that $26,000 battery." Joining in the general laugh, DeBerry walked to the Pirate bench and seated himself beside the Buccaneer captain. "Maybe Dazz gets most of the money, Pie," he said, "and maybe my salary isn't very heavy, but you've got to admit that this is a whole lot easier than I'd have it down on that farm getting up at 3 o'clock in the morning to wrestle with the cows."

REFEREE'S VOTE TO BE EQUAL OF JUDGE'S

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The M. H. A. boxing commission is considering the installation in Pittsburgh of a rule that would be of great benefit to spectators and referees alike. The change, the inclusion of which is under consideration at a meeting of the commission, is the suggestion of Chairman Frank Wiener, Military Affairs, under which the commission operates. It calls for an equalization of the voting power of the judges and the referee, whereby a majority vote would rule in the awarding of all decisions. Under the present system, the referee's vote does not count if the two judges agree on a decision, and, if they disagree, their votes are automatically thrown out and the referee's decision is final. Thus, out of three votes, the issue never is decided by more than two and sometimes by only one.

Frank Wiener

MATTER OF DRAWS

With all three officials' decisions counting the referee's vote would not be final in the event of a disagreement by the judges, but would go to make up a majority by augmenting that of one of the judges. In the event of a disagreement all the way 'round, the result automatically would be a draw. This method has been used in Maryland and a few other states for years.

If the commission really wants to do the job properly, it will go whole hog while it is making changes and eliminate all draw decisions, as is the rule in Massachusetts. The draw is the ace in the hole of a weak-kneed or flustered official, or one who is not qualified to serve in his position. It is the easy way out, and seldom proves satisfactory. There is no reason why any set of men familiar with boxing should be unable to pick a winner at the end of six or 10 or more rounds of boxing if they pay close attention to their work and score the bout properly as they go along. Even the amateurs do not permit draws. If, after three rounds, there is a disagreement an extra round is ordered, at the end of which a decision must be given in their case.

WHY NOT THREE JUDGES?

Another manner in which better decisions might be attained is to appoint three, instead of two, judges to do the scoring, thus insuring a majority vote, and requiring the referee to merely handle the mechanics of the bout. The referee is in the poorest possible position to judge a winner in a close bout. He is constantly on the move and viewing the battle from an always-shifting angle. Anyone who doubts this assertion can satisfy himself of its truth by trying it. The judge, sitting on the outside of the ring, close enough to note the effect of the blows, is at a distinct advantage, and, since most of the referee's power and prestige were taken away when judges came into being, why not put the complete job of making the decision up to the judges and relieve the referee of the burden? The referee then could do better work in handling the bout and the decision on the whole would be more apt to be in line with the fans' viewpoint.

Between Rounds

Two good shows await the district fans tomorrow and Friday nights, at McKeesport and the Motor Temple, with Billy Jones, Negro lightheavyweight star of Philadelphia, heading the former show and Jack McLernan, Swissvale middleweight favorite, on for at the Moose. Tough, rugged foes will face each, Harold Scatori, of Youngstown, being Jones' opponent, while Bill Brent, Negro, of the Hill, will be sent against McTiernan.

Frank (Mary Ann) Moran, former local heavyweight star, is reported heading East with Jess Kennedy, Coast ace, who holds a win over Max Baer. Moran until recently was a boxing commission deputy in California.

The card was completed yesterday for Motor Square Garden, Uhora next Tuesday night with the pairing of Muscle Schales, 118 Side lightweight, and Harry Fine, of the Hill, in the six-round opener. Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill, and Ollie Bartlett, of Oklahoma, are in the eight-round semi-final, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Jimmy Medina, of Wheeling, in the second bout. Harry Fierro, of Chicago, and Johnny Datto, of Cleveland, who clash in the windup, both will arrive here Sunday morning and complete their preparations in the Garden gym.

An amateur boxing show will be held at the Pittsburgh Lyceum Thursday night of next week.

Arrangements have been completed for the annual A. M. A. junior boxing tournament, which gets under way tomorrow night at the Keystone A. C. More than 100 contestants are entered and it may be necessary to stretch the affair into Saturday night to dispose of all of the finals.

CITNEY KNOCKED OUT

Earl Mayhugh, of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., knocked out Charles Citney, of the Hogan A. C., in the third round of their bout at the smoker of St. Athanasius Lyceum, West End, last night. Other bouts resulted as follows: Herbie Chickas defeated Walter Stein, Al Sunsen defeated Max Elling, and Sam Dovich defeated George Schlee.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: "CICERI"—On Easter morning, March 30, 1282, the inhabitants of Palermo, Sicily, rose in rebellion against the oppressive rule of Charles of Anjou and his French cohorts. Every person of French extraction on the island was massacred that day. Armed bands circulated in the streets of Palermo and every passer-by was required to pronounce the word "Ciceri" (an Italian word meaning "dried peas"). The correct Italian pronunciation of the word is "cheecharee," but a Frenchman would invariably pronounce it "seesaree." Eight thousand Frenchmen, who could not pass this test of pronunciation, were slain that day. This massacre is remembered in history as the "Sicilian vespers," as the first stroke of the vesper bell in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Palermo was the signal for the uprising. ICE WILL BURN—During extremely cold weather a pipe line of the Lone Star Gas Company, Dallas, Tex., froze solid, and the ice taken from it was found to be inflammable. This was due to the high pressure in the pipe, which caused the moisture and natural gasoline in the gas to emulsify and freeze solid. The lighter liquid hydrocarbons, such as butane, pentane and hexane, can be frozen in the laboratory into solid ice, which will ignite and burn freely. THE EAST WIND IS HEAVIER THAN A WEST WIND—A given mass of air in a west wind of 50 miles per hour weighs less than an equal volume of air in an east wind of the same velocity. That is why an east wind always will under-run an adjacent west wind. The difference in weight is due to the centrifugal force of the earth's diurnal motion on its axis, known as the earth's rotation, causing a corresponding variation in the intensity of gravitation. PIRATES SIGN CONTRACTS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Signed contracts of Pittsburgh players are reaching Pirate headquarters with much frequency. The latest to be received is that of Pitcher Ervin Brame, news of whose signing was printed exclusively yesterday in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Ervin Brame

The tall Kentuckian signed the document at his Hopkinsville home. In forwarding the contract he stated everything was O. K. so the bridegroom of a few weeks ago may be expected to have another big season. Ervin is now one of the high-salaried members of baseball.

Brame was sick for two months of the 1930 race, yet he was able to win 17 games. His pitching was one of the high spots of the progress of the local club, and his pinch-hitting is something hugely enjoyed by Pitt. ourgh fans.

Lloyd Waner is another star of the club who recently forwarded his contract to the local club. Lloyd, too, expressed pleasure over his signed document.

So far no holdouts have appeared on the local horizon and it is likely there will be no serious dissenters.

It has been stated, however, that Larry French, clever left-hander, may balk considerably before he takes his pen in hand.

SPORT SHORTS

PINEHURST, N. C.—(AP.)—J. F. Hiestand, Hillsboro, O., routed a field of 40 to win the doubles championship of the mid-winter target tournament here. He had a score of 170 in the 200 bird event.

CLEVELAND.—(AP.)—Joe Sewell, who came up from the University of Alabama to help the Cleveland Indians win a world baseball championship in 1920, has been given his unconditional release after 15 other major league clubs has waived on his services.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—The Boston hockey Club will be able to act as America's representative in world amateur ice hockey championships at Krynica, Poland, in February, Harold A. Kerrigan, secretary-treasurer of the American Athletic Union, has announced.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—The men's national A. A. U. indoor swimming championships are to be held at Chicago under the auspices of the Lake Shore Athletic Club on April 1, 2, 3 and 4. The women's championships will be held in New York, April 16, 17, 18 and 19.

BOB LEGENDRE DIES AT 33

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Robert Lucien LeGendre, famous Georgetown and Olympic athlete who won the American pentathlon championship in 1919, 1921 and 1922, died of bronchial pneumonia today in Brooklyn Naval Hospital. He was 33 years old.

Robert Le Gendre

LeGendre was one of the United States' star performers in the Olympic games of 1920 and 1924. He had not competed for all-around laurels in track and field championships in recent years.

Carnegie Tech and Pitt meet in the first of their two-game basketball series in the Tartan gym tonight, and woe unto he (or him) who fiddles around getting there. They'll be hanging from the rafters for this one.

Buzz Hogan

The main reason for the interest surrounding tonight's tussle between those famous rivals is that for the first time in years and years, the Tartans are conceded an equal chance of whipping the Panthers. Eleven games along (you reckon basketball time by games, not years), Tech beat Pitt. That was back in 1927. Since then, the Gold and Blue ever has fluttered triumphant over the Plaid of old Tech.

Of course, Tech has compiled a right snooty record for the campaign to date. Western Reserve has been taken over twice. Other victories have been scored at the expense of Lehigh, Thiel and Wash-Jeff. The lone blot on the Tartan shield was put there by the University of Buffalo, but after the way the Tech football team treated the Buffalo gridders, the latter school had a win of some sort comin'.

BEAT RESERVE TWICE

It is Tech's double triumph over Western Reserve, the team that set down the Panthers in the opening tussle of the year, that has boosted the Skibo stock the highest. Tech beat Reserve in Cleveland after a stiff argument, and then brought the Red Cats here and tore 'em limb from limb, or whisker from whisker.

Pitt, in an even dozen games, twice as many as have been played by the Techites, has whipped Fordham, Purdue, Ohio State, West Virginia, Marquette, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Nebraska and New York University and lost to Reserve, Creighton and Indiana.

The smooth working machine which Coach Buzz Hogan has developed at Carnegie consists of Capt. George Nease and Bob Smith as forwards, Ed Stentz at center and little Jimmy Leonard and Red Fergus as guards. For reserves, Hogan has Marvin Fox, Spike Merten, Joe Bronson, Jimmy Traa, Red Seigal and Knouse. Logan Webster was being counted on for a pack of service at a forward, but injured a knee during practice and has been riding the bench attired in a neat blue serge suit with a salmon pink tie since.

PITT STRONG

Pitt, minus the services of the famous Charley Hyatt, hasn't fared so poorly. In Docky Kowallis, Milt Cohen and Timmy Lawry, the w. k. Dr. Cliff Carlson has three capable forwards, and can call on Al Wrobleski for duty either as a forward or a guard. At center, Pitt is well off with big Bus Albright for a starter and Brown for a reservist. Co-captains Willie Arture and Eddie Baker, Steve Kowallis, Don Smith and Leech generally are used as guards and only last week, Rocco Cutri, the big Erie boy, reported.

The likely starting Pitt lineup tonight will consist of Cohen and Doc Kowallis at the forwards, Albright at center and Arture and Smith at the guards.

Bob Smith and Red Fergus, a pair of sophomores, have been playing fine ball for Carnegie, ably abetting George Nease and Jim Leonard in both offensive and defensive play.

Jim Leonard, peppery little guard, has announced his intention of playing tonight despite the sudden death of his father last night. Leonard's father was an avid basketball fan. Jimmy told Coach Hogan that it was his own family's wish that he play tonight.

The freshmen quintets of the rival institutions will tie up in a appetite whetter beginning at 7 o'clock. Beggs-Snyder and Yans-Wallace have been assigned to officiate.

Waynesburg and Geneva clash tonight in a Tri-State Conference game at Waynesburg.

Hennessey Spurns Pro Tennis Offer

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—(INS.)—Johnny Hennessey, former Davis Cup star, has turned down an offer of a two-year contract at $1,000 a month and expenses to go on a world-wide barnstorming tour with a troupe of players headed by William T. Tilden II.

Hennessey was approached by Tilden in Pittsburgh last Sunday and "propositioned" about forsaking amateur tennis, the local star admitted today.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

While a violent snowstorm swirled and eddied around Duquesne Garden last night another storm was breaking inside the ancient arena, and although the blizzard was one of no mean proportions, storm No. 2 was the fiercer.

Storm No. 2 was the determined attack of the Yellow Jacket hockey team swirling and eddying around the goal of the Detroit Olympics, and there is no question about its eddying, for it was Eddie Rodden who slammed home two spectacular goals to set the stage for the local skaters' 3-to-2 triumph over their Michigan foemen.

The Olympics can offer expert testimony regarding the damage wrought by the storm within the enclosure. It blew them down into sixth place in the International League hockey race, and boosted Pittsburgh from the fifth to the fourth notch in the championship dash.

LOCALS SHOW WELL

An enthusiastic crowd of almost capacity proportions saw the Jackets annex their fifth straight triumph of the season over the Detroiters, and saw them work like trojans to bag the decision.

Although they have enjoyed remarkable success against the Olympics, the local puckmen never have found the Michiganders an easy mark, and last night the Detroit representatives, strengthened through two sagacious deals, were tougher than ever before. Roy Goldsworthy, speedy right wing obtained from London last Sunday, dented the Pittsburgh mesh for both Olympic goals, and Jean Puse, giant defense man recently obtained from Les Canadiens, of Montreal, did such great work in the backfield that the Goldsworthy goals proved almost enough to ruin the evening for local fans.

M'CURRY STARS

In fortifying themselves for the battle here the Olympics obtained a Goldsworthy to match Pittsburgh's Rodden and a Puse to match Pittsburgh's Fraser, but they failed to obtain a cool battler to match the Jackets' Duke McCurry. It was this oversight that cost them the decision, for it was Duke who rammed in the locals' third goal—the one that proved to be the deciding tally.

Both of Rodden's goals climaxed brilliant solo efforts, and both were fitting rewards for the great workmanship of a master hockey craftsman. Wresting the puck from an attacker in mid-ice after seven minutes of play in the first period, the local center swirled down the left lane, cut in and split the defense as he crossed the last blue line, and slapped the disc past Goalie Venne as he reached the goal mouth. Speed and tricky stick handling were the factors that made Rodden's effort click.

Seven minutes later Goldsworthy knotted the count. He swept down the right lane, circled the defense and beat Albie Cox by catching a corner of the cage from a difficult angle.

The second period was scoreless, but the third and final stanza was only four minutes old when Rodden broke loose again. His second goal duplicated his first except in that he circled rather than split the defense in sweeping in on top of Goalie Venne, who feared the worst, and rightly so, as Eddie's successful shot proved.

DUKE COOL PLAYER

Because of a badly infected arm, McCurry did not appear on the ice until late in the fight, but at mid-period he made his presence felt by converting a pass from Art Berlott into the victory marker. Duke appeared to be cool as it was outdoors when the scoring chance came his way. He drew Venne out of position by faking a shot at one side of the net, and then deftly backhanded the puck into the unguarded portion of the citadel.

Duke's goal appeared to be excess baggage until six minutes before the final gong, when Goldsworthy converted a pass from Daley into Detroit's second tally. Tory Gregg, local captain, was languishing in the penalty box at the time.

Goalie Albie Cox, playing his first game at the Garden since he sustained a broken hand about three weeks ago, performed with his customary brilliancy in the nets. Albie and Eddie Ouellette were stunned by blows to the head, but were able to continue play after being revived. Roger Smith, reserve defense man, remained out of uniform to nurse a charley horse.

PLAY HERE SATURDAY

The victory extended Pittsburgh's success string to three wins and a tie. London enabled the Jackets to tie Cleveland for fourth place in the race by downing the Indians at London.

The locals will not have another chance to add to their string of triumphs until Saturday night, when the Windsor Bulldogs will appear here. Windsor's once big lead over Pittsburgh now has been cut to two games, so some torrid and determined battling safely can be anticipated. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—3.		Detroit—2.

Miss Harrold is the Pittsburgh woman who ranked second in the national trapshooting averages for women for 1930, just announced. Her mark was .8735 for 4,460 targets. Marie Kautsky, of Fort Dodge, Ia., was first, with .9165 for 1,150 targets. Miss Harrold led the women who shot at 4,000 or more targets.

LEADERS CLASH IN COUNTY LEAGUE

By JULIUS LEVIN

First place in the second half of the County League race will be at stake tonight when Ed Minnick takes his rejuvenated Duquesne Lafayette, four times winners of the league championship, go to Ellwood City to engage the Manhattans.

The contest, the only one scheduled for the followers of the County League, brings together two powerful clubs, and promises a duel that should keep the fans on their toes throughout.

The Lafayette and Manhattans both have shown a decided improvement in their form since the first round of play was completed, and tonight's tussle will find the teams in the pink of physical condition.

The West Penn League offers its supporters two sterling attractions. The South Side Falcons play the W. U. Hoyles, while Penn Five, of Sharpsburg, is the attraction of St. Michael's.

In the Wagner Tri-County League, Swissvale is at Wellsburg, W. Va.

Coraopolis plays at North Boroughs in a Wagner Institutional League game, Westinghouse is at Kingsley House and Downtown Y at Wilmerding in the County Amateur circuit, while the North Side Buicks play at the Butler Paulists and the W. L. Overlys, of Greensburg, plays at the Trinity Royals in independent tussles.

The Lafayettes tripped Charleroi, 37-22, and the Mieles won from Fintex, 39-31, in the County League last night, the Knickers beating North Side Community, 32-31, in the West Penn Circuit.

Puss Ferraro, captain and star of the Penn Five, whose name was included among those signed to represent the Mieles in the County League, has had a change of heart and will finish the season in the West Penn League. Differences that existed within the ranks of the Penn Five have been ironed out to the satisfaction of all.

INTERNATIONAL CAPITULATES TO DEMANDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Baseball's battle over the universal draft is ended and the spoils of war belong to the major leagues.

The minor leagues' defenses, slowly crumbling for several weeks, collapsed yesterday when the last Class A A stronghold, the International League, voted to accept the majors' demands.

The International League, where some of the most violent anti-draft sentiment was manifested, was forced to yield to a superior force. Its four allies, the Class A A American Association and Pacific Coast League, the Class A Western League and the Class B Three-Eye League, previously had capitulated to the majors and left the International to fight the good fight alone.

Allegheny and Fifth Avenue did just exactly what they set out to do in yesterday's City League basketball features. Allegheny retained its firm grasp on the leadership of Section II by whipping Oliver 38 to 27, and Fifth Avenue moved up into a tie for second place in Section I by defeating Allderdice, 20 to 14. All even with South, the Uptowners are now within striking distance of the leading Westinghouse quintet.

WESTINGHOUSE VICTOR

Westinghouse maintained its hold on first place in Section I by defeating Peabody, 25-15, in a closer contest than had been anticipated. Schenley High easily beat Connellev Trade 34-29 in the other game in that group.

Perry bowed to South Hills, 32-26, and Carrick whipped Allegheny Vocational, 33-28, in other Section II embroglios.

In the City Junior League Peabody, Overbrook, Herron Hill and Latimer won.

Referee Dosey handled a tough situation in a very laudable fashion in officiating in the Fifth-Allderdice game. Both teams were keyed to a high pitch and the boys went to it hammer and tongs from the very start. Dosey called 'em as he saw 'em, and he didn't miss many.

Fifth led by 4 to 2 at the end of the first period and was ahead, 8 to 7, at the half. Allderdice relied too much on long shots, and in the third quarter, its defense went very much awry, with the result that Fifth stepped out to a 14-to-8 advantage.

RALLY FALLS SHORT

A fine rally by Allderdice in the early moments of the final quarter slashed this advantage to a single point, and with four minutes of play remaining Fifth led by 15 to 14, but field goals by Garcia, Chet Briggs' fine Spanish center, and Little Pugliano enabled the defending champs to again pull away from the hard fighting Shady Avenue entry.

Both centers, Garcia of Fifth and Rosenthal, of Allderdice played fine ball. Allderdice erred in taking the ball down the floor too slowly, and not far enough, wasting too much time while behind in the score.

Pugliano with four field goals led the scoring with eight points. Allderdice missed out adding to its score at the foul line sinking only four out of a possible 13. Fifth made 6 out of 9.

SCOTT VICTOR

Outstanding among yesterday's W. P. I. A. L. contests were the victories of Scott High of North Braddock over Trafford, 92-18; Wilkinsburg over Etna, 16-13; Uniontown over Latrobe, 16-13; Homestead over McKeesport, 20-18; Mt. Lebanon over Carnegie, 23-20; Dormont over Crafton, 27-26; New Castle over Ellwood City, 35-14; Braddock over Pitcairn, 61-6, and Bellevue over Sewickley, 38-15.

Tarentum topped Freeport, 31-17; Rankin tripped Turtle Creek, 34-22; Leetsdale bowed to Ambridge, 32-14; Swissvale won from Oakmont, 26-17; Avalon beat Ben Avon, 27-17; New Kensington copped from Har-Brack, 32-22, and Beaver dumped Freedom, 19-18.

Butler set down Mars, 30-15; California lost to Monessen, 11-10; Duquesne walloped Elizabeth, 28-7, and Charleroi whipped West Newton, 51-20.

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN,
The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER IX.

Bill Mizner, always keenly interested in the drama of the frozen golden North, saw a tragedy in the making as little McCloud, his gun gripped in his right hand, watched Mizner enter Rickard's place.

Ike Dorgan.

The miners, the hangers-on, the rabble and the scum had sensed trouble, too. They knew of McCloud's killing propensities and of Rickard's cold nerve. He never had taken a bluff and hadn't he licked Frank Gotch, the world wrestling champion, in a barroom fight? Jack Kearns often tells of that fight because he saw it.

McCloud stood alone in the street. He glued his eyes to the big doors of the home of chance.

As Mizner entered, he saw Rickard standing near the roulette wheel. Business was humming and Tex was getting a great play. He was so intent on the action of the play that he scarcely noticed the six foot-four Mizner enter the room.

Mizner walked up to Rickard and spoke. Well, let Mizner tell it in his own words:

"Tex, McCloud's in town."

"What of it?" asked Rickard.

"Only this. He asked me to come in and tell you that he had dropped into town. He's out there in the middle of the street, in front of your place. He's waiting for you. He asked me to tell you to come out and to come out in the smoke."

"Come out in the smoke! Ain't that rich! What's that fellow to me? I've got $200,000 and he hasn't got a quarter. A fine chump I'd be to go out there in the smoke. What's that bum to me? You tell him that, since you're his messenger. If he comes in here, tell HIM to come in, in the smoke."

TEX BLUFFS IT OUT

McCloud didn't come in. Rickard didn't go out. There was no smoke much as the strange crowd had expected it.

In the minds of the onlookers, it was a standoff, a little in Rickard's favor and more so when you read Tex's version of that little drama. McCloud might have been looking for Tex, but it so happens that Tex had had his session with McCloud. He was challenged to come out in the smoke, but didn't.

That was the story that Mizner told on Tex out in Hollywood, and it was the one story about him, in all the years I was associated with him, that made Tex boil over.

Tex buttonholed Hype the day it appeared in a New York paper and said:

"Why didn't you come to me about that ditty before you printed it? There's another angle to that story. Mizner never seed the start of it. And I'll tell you about it," said Rickard.

"McCloud only thought he was a bad man. He wasn't so bad. I tamed him a little one night. He was looking for me because he was sore about that taming. I never seed a man so sore, but he didn't git anywhere with it.

RICKARD'S VERSION

"I had come out of the gold country some time before the incident Mizner speaks of. I was in Hot Springs, burning up a little of the dough I had made. I was on a sort of vacation. I chanced to run across McCloud. We had known each other in the Klondike. We got to talking about gambling and he told me of a place where I could play the wheel. That was always my hobby. So I went along with my brother and McCloud to this gambling place.

"I had blown about a thousand dollars before I began to suspect that the wheel was queer. I kept on playing, seeing it through. Then I knew that McCloud had steered me and was going to get his cut.

"I suppose I tossed in $5,000. I folded up finally and went out. But I wasn't through for the night. My brother and I watched the place and we saw McCloud leave. He was heading for the railroad station. I knew then that he had helped to trim me. My brother and I walked around another way so that we could catch him at the depot without his seeing us.

GETS BACK MONEY

"I found him, standing there in the dark. Before he realized who we were, my brother and I had our guns on him.

"Hand over my dough, McCloud," I told him.

"What dough. I don't know what you're talking about."

"Yes, you do. You cut with those thieves, and you fork it over or I'll blow it out of your clothes."

He reached into his pocket and pulled out a roll of $1,500.

"I thought so. My own money. It's talking to me. You're a thief, the lowest kind of a thief, McCloud. Don't ever let you and me cross paths again."

"That's the side of the story Mizner didn't tell you because Mizner didn't know. McCloud wasn't bad, or tough or a killer. He only thought he was. I seed many tougher men than McCloud in my time and none of them would have steered me to a crooked wheel.

THE TRIMMER TRIMMED

"McCloud never bothered me after that bluff in the Klondike. My brother is dead and you have only my word for what happened at Hot Springs. It is the truth. I don't know whatever became of McCloud and I don't care. He trimmed me and I took it off him. I went looking for the other fellow, but he moved out on me and I never ran across him. Some day, maybe, I will. If we ever do meet, I'll git that other $2,500. That debt hasn't been paid yet. Usually I don't chalk those kind of things up, but that was one time I was mad clean through. That's what burned me up when I read Mizner's side of the yarn. He doesn't know what he is talking about. I'm still looking for that other half of my dough and I'll git it if I ever meet the guy who ran that place."

If ever they meet, it will be in the Great Beyond, and I guess Tex will call all bets off.

FORMER CHAMP SETS DOWN SCOVILLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, former titleholder, checked the advance of Frank S. Scoville in the world three-cushion billiard tournament last night by crushing the Buffalo star, 50 to 25, in 25 innings.

Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, Northern sectional champion, upset the veteran Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, former titleholder, 50 to 40, in 67 innings, while Allen Hall, of Chicago, one of the ranking favorites and seeded stars, crushed D. J. Jacobs, of St. Louis, 50 to 22, in 44 innings.

COMISH ORDERS WIDER RINGS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday discussed the battle of the short count in which Max Baer, of California, received a technical knockout decision over Tom Heeney after a mixup in counting at Madison Square Garden, but took no action.

The commission explained that the referee has supreme power in the ring and Jack Dempsey, the third man in the ring, could have waived the two fighters back together. In an effort to avoid future trouble over a fighter falling out of the ring, the commission ordered that all rings be extended two and one-half feet from the ropes.

Fight Results

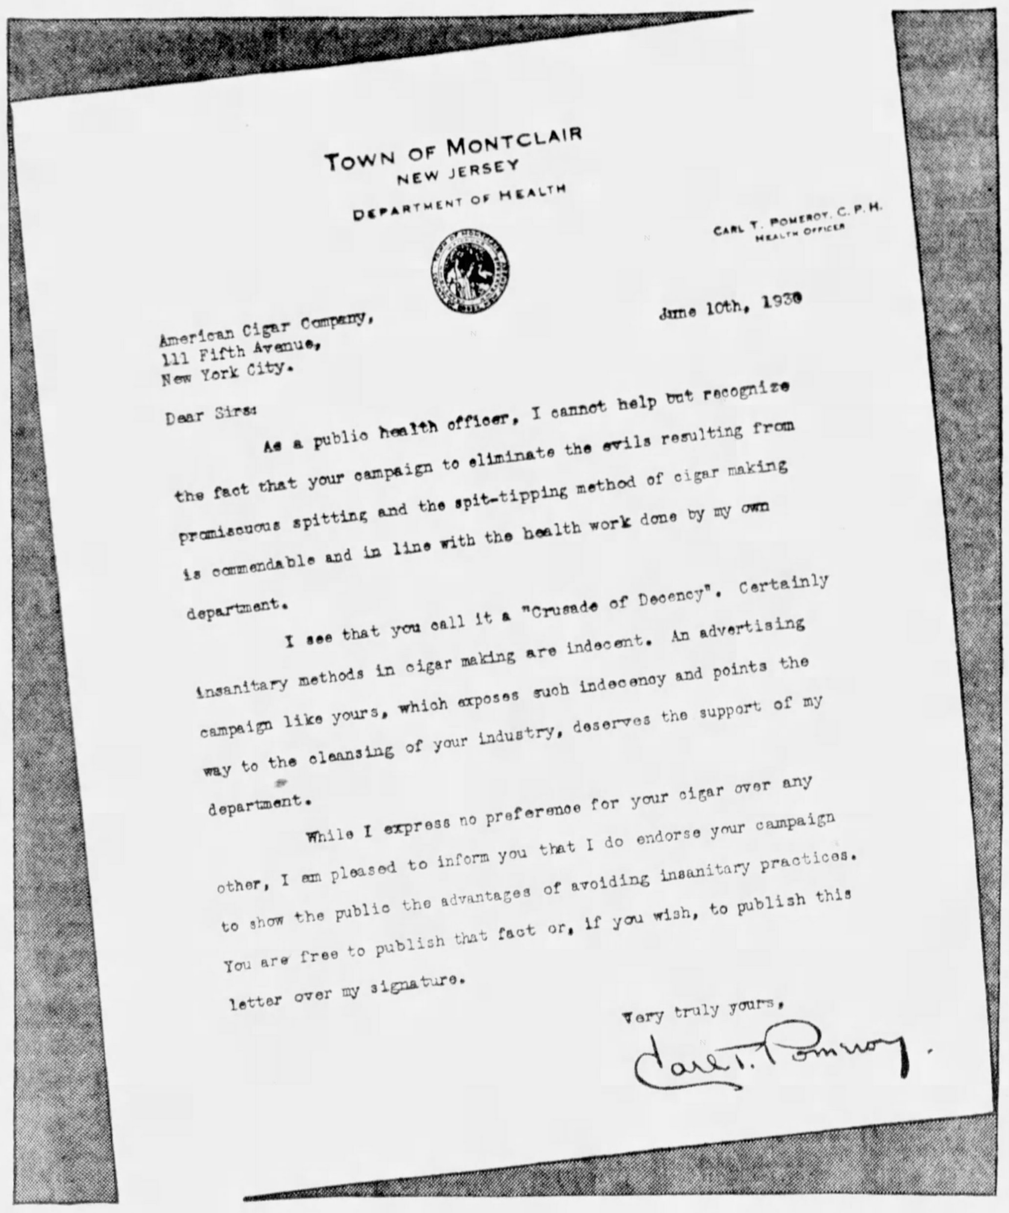
"INSANITARY METHODS In Cigar Making Are Indecent"

Says

CARL T. POMEROY C. P. H.

Health Officer, Montclair, New Jersey



TOWN OF MONTCLAIR
NEW JERSEY

CARL T. POMEROY, C. P. H.
HEALTH OFFICER

June 10th, 1930

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Sirs:

As a public health officer, I cannot help but recognize the fact that your campaign to eliminate the evils resulting from promiscuous spitting and the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable and in line with the health work done by my own department.

I see that you call it a "Crusade of Decency". Certainly insanitary methods in cigar making are indecent. An advertising campaign like yours, which exposes such indecency and points the way to the cleansing of your industry, deserves the support of my department.

While I express no preference for your cigar over any other, I am pleased to inform you that I do endorse your campaign to show the public the advantages of avoiding insanitary practices. You are free to publish that fact or, if you wish, to publish this letter over my signature.

Very truly yours,
Carl T. Pomeroy.

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Health Officer Pomeroy's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Health Officer Pomeroy writes: "...your campaign to eliminate... the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

ONLY MINORITY WANT LOWER STANDARDS

Defeatist Group Mistaken, Assert Catchings, Foster; See 'Luxuries' Increase

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—President Hoover's effort in his Cleveland address to bankers failed to stop the defeatist propaganda in favor of a voluntary lowering of the American standard of living.

Financiers and others, who have been unable to think through the American economic problem, have come out not only in favor of a five-cent cigar but also a five-cent standard of living. Fortunately, only a minority of the money-eyed interests have espoused this fallacy.

Mr. Rukeyser.

Inasmuch as America is overequipped industrially for any except a high and rising standard of living, it is difficult to see how reducing mass consumption further will solve the tangled riddles of trade. In discussing this subject with me, Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank, strongly asserted his belief that the American people would fight to maintain living standards.

STANDARDS RAISED

Historically, the American people have gradually, through the years, raised their living standard to a higher level than prevailins in other countries. All through this process there have been temporary interruptions during panicky interludes of public fright and liquidation. Each depression has involved taking a step backward before the country took two or three additional steps forward. The present readjustment calls for no permanent, long-term tightening of the belt. Temporarily, of course, the standard of living of the unemployed has been terribly impaired.

After citing Eugene R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, John W. Barton, former president of the national bank division of the American Bankers Association; Rome C. Stephanson, president of the American Bankers Association, and Thomas F. Wallace, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, as advocates of a stepdown in living standards, Waddill Catchings, Wall street banker, and his literary partner, William Trufant Foster, economist and head of the Pollak Foundation, attack the reactionary viewpoint. They assert in the Forum:

"BANKERS MISTAKEN"

"Fortunately, these bankers are mistaken. The way out of our troubles is not to render existing capital useless, but to create still more capital. The automobile, radio and electric refrigerator industries are not horrible examples. They are inspiring examples.

"In the future, as in the past, we shall make real progress by increasing our equipment for producing 'luxuries.' And buying more of these 'luxuries.' And bringing forth more inventions. And developing more new industries. And, in the process, creating more bank credit and paying more wages. Thus we shall use our savings instead of wasting them. In short, the way to go ahead is to plan to go ahead, and not to plan to go backward. 'The emblem of the United States is still an eagle, not a crab.'"

Forbes

Expects Rail Mergers, But Not Till 1932

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT REMAINS to be done before the four great Eastern railway consolidations can be completed? How long will it take? Will railway securities be benefited?

These and other similar questions are answered here.

Mr. Forbes

IN YESTERDAY'S column F. J. Lisman, noted investment banker and railway authority, analyzed various phases of the planned mergers. His conclusions, prepared for you, follow.

"From the point of view of New York City particularly, the proposed development of the greater B. & O. system is of much interest and importance because it will form a new direct line from New York to Chicago through northern Pennsylvania, about as short as any of the lines, with a fairly low summit over the Alleghenies. It will take a considerable amount of money to co-ordinate this line, which consists in part of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Reading, some leased lines in northern Pennsylvania, possibly a short piece of new line, and then into the present B. & O. main line near the Pennsylvania-Ohio state line. This line will afford very effective competition with the Pennsylvania between New York and Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland, etc., as well as to Chicago.

"THE NEW ENGLAND railroad situation is largely disregarded in this four trunk line plan and left just where it is now, which means practically in the hands of the Pennsylvania Railroad and affiliated companies, which own directly and indirectly a dominating interest in both the New Haven and Boston and Maine systems.

"ACCORDING TO reports published in the newspapers, the four trunk lines are supposed to acquire the Delaware and Hudson jointly. As far as is known, Mr. Loree, the stormy petrel of the railroad world, has not given his consent to such a transaction and the market price of D. & H. stock does not seem to indicate that there is anything doing.

"TO SUM UP, the petition of all the railroads in the territory bounded on the South by the Mason and Dixon line, Chicago and St. Louis on the West, Great Lakes on the North and the Hudson River and Lake Champlain on the East, into four systems, has not yet been filed with the commission.

"It will take the lawyers some weeks to do this. After that, will come hearings before examiners; then in due time the examiners will file their reports. A date will then be set to give an opportunity to the parties affected to object to the examiner's report, and then the commission will have a hearing on these applications. Thereafter they will discuss the situation among themselves 'in conference,' and after they have conciliated the natural differences of opinion they will render a decision, possibly by a narrow majority, together with a dissenting minority report.

"It is quite possible—in fact, probable—that the plans as outlined in the newspapers will more or less meet finally with the approval of a majority of the commissioners, but it will certainly be surprising if such an opinion can be handed down before sometime in 1932.

"If this situation should become a political football, as the opposition to President Hoover wants to make it, then the matter may be still further delayed.

"AFTER THE approval of the I. C. C. has been given, undoubtedly considerable amounts of money will be spent in co-ordinating the railroads which are to be welded into systems. This means construction of new yards, terminals, shops and additional running tracks here and there, and a considerable number of new locomotives, etc. These aggregate expenditures will probably be substantially in excess of $100,000,000.

"The value of railroad stocks throughout the East should become more stabilized thereafter and the waste of unnecessary competition should be substantially reduced because there is less waste with four systems competing than there is with seven or eight.

"For example, New York will have four fewer separate competing lines. Chicago will have six fewer railroad companies because the Erie, Chesapeake, Nickel Plate and Chicago and Eastern Illinois are to be unified; likewise the Alton and the Baltimore and Ohio and the Wabash with the Pennsylvania. Similar reductions would occur in Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit, also St. Louis and many other cities.

RAIL ADVANCE FAILS TO LIFT MARKET

Early Gains in General List Cut or Turned Into Losses by Afternoon

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP.)—The rail shares again moved forward in today's stock market, but with insufficient steam to drag the rest of the list after them.

Cheering to the financial community was one of the best buying movements of the year in the bond market, in response to this week's further ease in money rates. The midweek business statistics were somewhat disappointing, however, and bearish official estimates of the fourth quarter steel earnings to be published next week were an oppressive influence in the equity share market.

There were numerous advances of a point or two during the morning, but by early afternoon some shares showed losses of about a point.

The weekly steel reviews agreed that the seasonal improvement in the steel industry was tapering off at subnormal levels. "Iron Age" placed ingot output at 46 per cent, up 2, while American Metal Market said there had been little change. Steel placed output between 46 and 47 per cent, but said that this improvement is tempered by a more uneven distribution of demand, and that there are indications that sentiment has over-run actual progress. It added that the moderating of demand, however, had not disturbed the belief that the worst is past, nor appreciably affected prices.

More disappointing to speculative sentiment, perhaps, was a financial news ticker estimate that U. S. Steel's fourth quarter earnings may have been as low as 30 or 40 cents a share. Final quarter estimates, nevertheless, are difficult because of year-end adjustments. Previous estimates have been around $1 a share for the quarter.

A few annual earnings statements appeared which were mildly encouraging. National Biscuit reported $3.40 a share for 1930, against $8.21 a share in 1929, which was before the 2½-for-1 splitup. The stock, however, sagged. The december net operating income report of Chesapeake and Ohio, earnings of which have held up better than those of carriers generally, indicated 1930 net of $4.43 a share, as against $4.74 in 1929, computed on the same number of shares.

The report of freight car loadings for the week ended January 10 showed a gain of 98,869 cars over the preceding week, but the gain was less than the normal seasonal upturn, and the total was the lowest for that week since 1921. The week's petroleum statistics were somewhat unfavorable, showing a gain of about 800,000 barrels in gasoline stocks, and 9,100 in daily crude output. Electric power output in the week ended January 17 showed a fair gain from the preceding week, and was only one-fifth of 1 per cent under 1929, but 5.4 per cent under 1930.

PERSHING'S 'HOME' DURING WAR

CAL DES ECOUERS ... NEAR CHAUMONT, FRANCE, WHERE PERSHING LIVED DURING WAR

...

"My observation of British and French armies and most exacting arduous service conditions at the front fully convinces me that only officers in full mental and physical vigor should be sent here. Contrary course means certain inefficiences in our service and possible later humiliation of officers concerned. General officers must undergo extreme effort in personal supervision of operations in trenches. Very few British or French division commanders over 45 or brigadiers over 50.

"We have too much at stake to risk inefficiency through mental or physical defects. Strongly recommend conditions be fully considered in making high appointments and suggest that no officer of whatever rank be sent here for active service who is not strong and robust in every particular. Officers selected for appointment general officer of line should be those with experience in actively commanding troops. Officers not fulfilling above conditions can be usefully employed at home training troops.

... very little effort seems to have been made at selection ... so that some officers without ambition or initiative, whose inefficiences should have been well known and others whose age and physical condition were such as to disqualify them for strenuous service were given important assignments.

Seniority Policy

(Tomorrow Pershing visits the French headquarters and bares important decrease to a superstition.)

DECLARATIONS of INDEPENDENCE

More Life Insurance Means A Greater Measure Of Future Independence For Your Loved Ones Who Survive You

Do not make the mistake of thinking of your Life Insurance in terms of its gross amount.

The fair way to determine the adequacy of your Life Insurance is to compute its annual earning power on a 5% basis.

You are under-insured if the result of your computation is not in fair relation to your present earning power and Life Insurance is to furnish the major part of your estate.

The Life Insurance representatives in this community are salesmen of future safety.

They carry a vital message for the average man.

This is Life Insurance Day—National Thrift Week

Finger of Suspicion Is Pointed at Kitty

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Connie Calvert shares her home and fortune with her half-sister, Kitty, whom she found destitute in New York's underworld. Kitty falls in love with Jim Tracy, Connie's former fiance. Believing Jim to be a fortune-hunter, Connie, to save Kitty, enlists the aid of Duke Garson, Kitty's friend and underworld intelligence man. He warns Connie that her butler is a crook and that her mother should guard her pearls. Later, Duke is about to declare his love for Connie when Jim appears. He claims he was held up and is afraid to go home. Connie invites him to stay. Duke doubts Jim's story. That night, Mrs. Calvert's pearls are stolen. Duke questions the maid about them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIX

Connie, her mother and Duke Garson all looked at the maid with quickening interest.

"So you suspect some certain person, do you?" Garson asked her, sharply.

"Yes, I do, since you asked me," Mary Smith retorted. "You needn't put any suspicion on me, either, just because I'm a working girl. I've got a record for honesty, I have, and my folks before me, too."

The pair eyes were lit with emotion. "You needn't question me though, I don't know anything. All I know is that I didn't take the pearls and I'm not afraid of policemen or constables so you can call them if you want to."

"Look here, nobody is accusing you," Garson told her quickly, firmly. "We want your help. You say you suspect someone. Who is it?"

"I won't say."

Suspects Kitty

"Oh yes you will say," he informed her. "You'll either tell us or you'll be taken into the Stamford police and they'll make you talk quick enough. You're among friends here, Mary, and there's no use being sulky. You're only hurting yourself. Isn't that right, Mrs. Calvert?"

"Indeed it is," Miss Calvert told the girl. "I'm astounded at your attitude, Mary."

Mary Smith bent her head for a moment in a characteristic movement as though she was collecting her thoughts, then decisively she raised up and looked at Mrs. Calvert, her yellow cheeks showing for the first time a little color.

"You've been nice to me, Mrs. Calvert, as long as I've worked for you, and I don't want to be disagreeable to you," she said, her voice flat and slightly twanged. "Maybe my suspicions don't mean anything, leastwise I got no proof, but if you want to know—I don't think much of that new young lady, Miss Kitty, that's staying here."

"Mary! You shouldn't talk that way!" Connie exclaimed warningly.

"You asked for it and you got it," the girl returned stubbornly. "All of you got me in here and tried to pump my ideas out."

"You're right, Mary," Garson said soothingly. "We asked you to express your opinion even if we can't agree with you. Come now, tell us, is it true that Miss Kitty, like Miss Kitty, or has there any reason to suspect her?"

After all, we're only trying to get at the truth."

"I don't want to get myself out of my job here, but I'm not to be browbeaten either. I said I don't like Miss Kitty, and I stand to it."

"Why don't you like her?" Garson asked her.

"Well, for one thing, I think it's pretty disgusting the way she's throwing herself at Mr. Tracy. Oh, I can see what's going on. She doesn't care a rap for him, but if she can get him she will, and then she'll have all the money she wants. That's why I say I suspect her."

Garson shrugged. "Tell them by all means, and after that, if they have no suggestions, the only thing that remains, I suppose, is to notify your insurance company and they will send a private detective up. Of course, the advantage is wholly on the side of a thief in this case. If you get your necklace back it will be by the rarest good fortune."

The door opened and Jim Tracy with Kitty came into the room.

"What's all this conference in here, folks?" Tracy demanded. "We just saw Smith come bursting out and she gave Kitty and me a positively murderous look."

Connie looked at him and her eyes widened.

"Jim, I can always tell it on you!" she said surprised. "You've been drinking and this early in the morning. What's the matter with you?"

"That's what I want to know!" Kitty said, looking at him. He had been drinking, but not to the point where his breath and his actions betrayed the fact. He stood there, a professional air to him. "If you have taken it upon yourself to suggest anything further to suspect Mr. Garson—"

"Nothing, unless you care to suspect Kitty and Mr. Tracy," Garson interrupted, "in which case I might tell them to search their baggage, but I suggest, by questioning the servants

I WOULDN'T WORRY ABOUT A COLD FOR FIVE MINUTES. SIMPLY USE SODIUM BICARBONATE AND A POLYVALENT VACCINE.
AND SINUS TROUBLE WOULDN'T ANNOY ME. SIMPLY USE A GOOD SILVER NITRATE SOLUTION.
DIGESTIVE TROUBLE IS EASILY RELIEVED TOO. IF, OF COURSE, IT ISN'T ORGANIC. ANTHEMIS INFUSAM A HALF TO TWO OUNCES HELPS ME.
OH GEORGE BUNGLE, WHY DO YOU TRAMP BACK AND FORTH BEFORE THAT DOOR TRYING TO HEAR WHAT THOSE DOCTORS ARE SAYING? BE PATIENT.
I HEARD ONE OF THEM SAY SINUS TROUBLE, THEN THE OTHER ONE SAID APPENDIX. WELL BEFORE THOSE BABIES DO ANY SCIENTIFIC KNIFE THROWING ON ME THEY'LL HAVE TO AGREE 100% ON WHAT THEY'RE LOOKING FOR, ABSOLUTELY.

The Inaugural Address

Gov. Pinchot Rights Emphasizes Public Utilities' Rapacity as One of Ones Evils to Be Attacked

Gov. Gifford Pinchot's inaugural address was admirable—clear, lucid and to the point.

The Governor has not forgotten his campaign pledges. On the contrary, he is very much engaged in carrying them out. Thus, keeping the faith [illegible]

He has rightly emphasized the importance of the public welfare as the paramount issue [illegible] by his administration.

Pittsburgh has experienced, not recently, as much, perhaps, as any community [illegible] of which was aired before the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg only this week in the arguments against Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's 25-cent bus fare.

Through the subservience of the Public Service Commission the Motor Coach Company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, has been given a monopoly of bus operation in the city and permitted to charge a quarter for a ride that costs only 10 cents to ride.

Our experience in this and other matters bears out Gov. Pinchot's assertion that the Public Service Commission is "the catspaw of the corporations established to the people."

There were many things to applaud in the new executive's address—his demand for clean elections, his decision to avoid new taxes, his pledge to use the full power of his administration to promote the prosperity of honest business.

But most praiseworthy was his recognition of the duty to keep the government of Pennsylvania free from public utility domination.

Cleaning Up the Wharf

Two City Departments Show Commendable Desire to Improve Appearance of the Water Front

Two departments of the city government showed a commendable desire yesterday to improve the appearance of the Monongahela wharf.

Director Edward G. Lang of the Department of Public Works requested Council not to renew a 10-year lease of wharf property because, he said, the lessee had used the land as a storage place for junk and made it unsightly. Complainants had called the site a disgrace to the city.

Police broke up a community of squatters who had built shacks on another part of the wharf.

The water front should be one of Pittsburgh's most attractive features. Instead, it is one of the most unattractive.

Some day the river banks downtown will be parkways with walks and trees and benches. In the meantime they should be kept clean and tidy.

Improving the Allegheny

Army Engineers' Recommendation Gives Assurance That Extension of Nine-Foot Stage Will Be Profitable.

The Army engineers are notoriously cautious about recommending waterway improvements that will cost much money, as Pittsburgh knows, to its sorrow, through the engineers' report some years ago that the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio River canal would be "economically inadvisable."

Their recommendation, therefore, that the nine-foot stage in the Allegheny be extended to East Brady means they believe the expenditure of $3,860,000 that they estimate the undertaking would cost would be a profitable venture for Uncle Sam.

It is suggested, indeed, that the extension of the navigable channel to East Brady would double the amount of traffic carried on the Allegheny.

It would also lead to the development of the valley's coal and other resources and probably bring it manufacturing plants such as line the shores of the Monongahela.

Pittsburgh will rejoice in confirmation of the plan by Congress.

Veterans Need Help

Payment of Bonus Would Benefit Every Section of Country as Well as Deserving Ex-Soldiers.

Every state in the Union, every county, city and township, would benefit by the payment of the veterans' bonus now.

To date 3,478,956 veterans of the great war hold adjusted service certificates for amounts from $51 to $1,585, the average amount exceeding $1,000.

Payment of the certificates now would mean the release of some three and one-half thousands of millions of dollars to the veterans to meet the necessities of life, including the education of their children.

This vast sum would be dispersed north, east, south and west, because the veterans came from and have returned to every section of the United States.

Massachusetts veterans would be paid $148,280,000 and California veterans $126,170,000.

Nebraska veterans would be paid $42,516,000 and then Maryland comrades $46,381,000.

Pennsylvania veterans would get $268,388,000. Illinois veterans $240,340,000 and Texas veterans $142,306,000.

Take, for example, the poverty-stricken state of Arkansas. Thousands of its citizens are in the most dire distress, due to flood damage in 1927 and 1928, the ravages of the boll weevil in 1929 and bank failures, drought and general depression in 1930.

Red Cross workers in that state estimate that they will have to help more than 50,000 families before the winter is over—which means more than 250,000 persons.

Think what it would mean to the government and people of this afflicted state if the federal government would pay now the $52,354,000 which it owes to the veterans of Arkansas.

It would not only be a great help to the veterans of Arkansas, as Representative Glover said in the House of Representatives the other day, "but it would be a great help to the state as a whole. And what is true of that state is true of all the other states."

Like "choosin' up" in boyhood games

Take Your Choice.

JOAN OF ARC | NINON DE L'ENCLOS

You know one of these ladies, if not both. Both were worth knowing.

Their pictures are published here to show you two types of women. All women belong to one of these types or the other.

There is the Joan of Arc type, efficient, earnest, and devoted to causes, not men. And there is the Ninon de L'Enclos type, devoted to men, not causes.

Joan of Arc led armies around France and saved her country. Ninon de L'Enclos led men around by the nose, and saved nobody to speak of.

Joan was a good woman. Ninon was an interesting woman. That was the chief difference between them.

We have, probably, more Joan of Arcs in this country than Ninons.

Maurice De Kobra, brilliant French novelist, tells us that is what is the matter with us. Fewer Joans and more Ninons are what America needs, says Mr. De Kobra.

"French women," he declares, "are like champagne. American women are like mineral water, healthy, good, necessary, but not much kick. America has great women, brave, wise, good women, but no sparkling, silken women. It won't have any until the women of America are wise enough to give up the futile attempt to compete with men on their own level in sports, business, professions and study, and to learn instead the psychology of love.

"They should study how to make their way into a man's heart, not how to make their way into a man's world."

You may disagree with Mr. De Kobra, especially if you happen to be a Joan of Arc.

However, he gives you something to think about. It is also sad but true that men, given their choice of these two ladies, would take Ninon.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

What's the Matter With Marriage?

Half of the people in the world seem to be trying to pep up marriage and put new life into it, and the other half appear to be trying to kill it. Everybody is busy putting "modern improvements" on the dear old institution.

But marriage doesn't need any MORE modern improvements. It has as many already as canned goods and kitchenettes. It comes in almost as many varieties and brands as pickles do, and has as many safety-devices as the latest motor car or the newest gas range. It is almost fool proof.

There is the sweet, old-fashioned domestic brand that Mother used to make. The solid, settled suburban variety, with bungalows and babies and embroidered guest-towels and regular meals and nothing to worry about but the Christmas bills and the installments on the mortgage.

And there is the fifty-fifty brand, with your own jobs and separate latch-keys and two pay-envelopes, and a studio apartment where you can play at housekeeping with sketchy breakfasts and delicatessen dinners and gay parties, and all that. The love-nest marriage!

And there is the fashionable marriage in which one of you goes to Paris or Palm Beach for the Winter, and the other spends the Summer in the Maine woods or the Swiss Alps, and you are considered happily married as long as you exchange postcards and meet between seasons, occasionally.

Marriage is no longer the hard and fast mold into which you must pour yourself like filling into a pie-crust. There's nothing SET about it. It has been trimmed down and softened and cut over like a pair of elastic as a felt hat.

[illegible]

[illegible] marriage [illegible] title "Divorce" [illegible] attention from you [illegible] idea and send you skidding before you are fairly started.

Marriage already has enough escape valves, safety-devices, shock-absorbers and emergency exits. It is already too EASY to get into and out of and around.

If modern marriage needs anything, it needs a little adhesive—tape not more flexibility. A little more cement, not more back-gates!

THE FATHER OF EUGENICS

By Archibald Henderson

Francis Galton, Darwin's cousin, was an ingenious inventor and industrious scientist. He had an extraordinarily acquisitive mind, filled with speculations of various sorts. He enjoyed striking out along untried and untrodden paths, and applying scientific principles to subjects which hitherto had not been subjected to scientific discipline. He was actuated by humanitarian principles in much of his scientific work, aiming directly at the improvement of the quality of the human race.

Galton was one of the great pioneers in tracing the inheritance of physical and mental qualities in mankind. He is the founder of the important new science, Eugenics, giving that name to the study of the inborn transmissible qualities of mankind and the application of the knowledge so obtained to the welfare of the human race.

This science, in which Galton was, in a measure anticipated by the Belgian astronomer, Quetelet, has made great advances in recent years, being particularly advanced by the biometrician, Karl Pearson, and his colleagues in London. Following Quetelet and Galton, Pearson and his associates have ingeniously and widely applied the theory of probability with its statistical law of error to human variation.

Francis Galton, came of Quaker ancestry, being born near Birmingham, England, February 16, 1822. Although he was a student at the Birmingham General Hospital, he never settled down to medical practice, being endowed with ample means to gratify his desires for travel and studies in general science.

He studied at King's College, London; was graduated at Trinity College, Cambridge in 1844, and afterwards explored the White Nile and Damaraland. The exploration won for him the gold medal of the Royal Geographical Society, and his book, "The Art of Travel," was widely popular.

Shortly after becoming connected with the British Association for the Advancement of Science, he threw himself wholeheartedly into scientific work. He became absorbed in the study of meteorology, and decisively left his mark upon that science.

In addition to charting the weather on a substantial scale, he standardized the sextant, invented an apparatus for testing clinical thermometers, still widely used, and suggested and established the rating of watches and chronometers.

Galton's great studies were made in connection with the inheritance of talent, which he demonstrated as early as 1865. His "Hereditary Genius," published in 1869, was a notable contribution to the study of the inheritance of mental qualities in mankind.

These studies found expression in other well-known works of his: "English Men of Science," "Human Faculty" and "Natural Inheritance." He initiated the public interest in eugenics, which is now wide-spread. As Dampier-Whetham says, the broad results of Galton's nevertheless are certain and unmistakable.

Since Galton's time it has become recognized that the influence of environment on man has been greatly overestimated, that education can but bring into prominence characters already in the being, and that the biological qualities of a race can only be improved by favoring the better strains.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

It's just another one of those letters. Hundreds of them a week. He isn't interested in her any more. How can he treat her so when she's been a good wife for eight years? Never had a thought outside her home and husband. Always been there when he wanted her. Never argued or nagged. Lived only for him. Hasn't even tried to have a life of her own.

And there, if she but knew it, is the secret of his indifference. She was an adventure when he courted her. She was new and mysterious and unexpected. He wasn't sure of her. He didn't know what she'd do next. She had a life of her own, then—a personality of her own. And so, because she was outside him, because she had strange qualities, she tantalized and stimulated him.

She really enlarged his life and he coveted her because she did.

Of course he didn't realize that that was why he coveted her. He just called it "love." Like most of us, he knew nothing of the real nature of love. But that was the real secret of her allure and power. She was different. Herself was she.

Then she married him and stopped being herself. She stopped trying to think differently, act differently. She bent all her energies to being a part of him—to doing things the way he liked them, to becoming his shadow, his echo. What happened? You know what happened. It always happens.

Little by little the mystery dropped from her and the charm faded. She became familiar, common—tiresome. He was bored and showed it. She couldn't understand. Wasn't she doing everything possible to please him? Then why wasn't he satisfied? Why was he so cold? When she cried and reproached him, his indifference turned to dislike. He had a queer, bitter feeling of resentment, as though she'd failed him—cheated him.

She had!

He married here because she was one thing. She turned out to be quite another. He married her because she was Herself—a different self with strange, alluring qualities. Being another, different self, she brought new interests and conflicts and adventures into his life and enlarged it.

And now she is no longer herself. She is only a tiresome repetition of himself. He doesn't want an echo or a shadow.

He wants an adventure. But she has deserted herself. She is no longer an adventure for herself. And so she is no longer an adventure for him.

That's why many marriages fail. That's also why many individual lives fail.

Why are some people popular and powerful? That's why. They are different. And they treasure and develop that differentness. They keep themselves an adventure. And they stimulate and enlarge other lives because they are an adventure.

Why are some of the most conscientious, hard working people ignored? That's also why. They give nothing new to life because they do not try to be anything new. They are nothing in themselves and so they mean nothing to the other fellow. Be yourself. That's your most important duty to yourself . . . and the race.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Moose Head Lodge

Does the sun shine on Moose
Head Lodge today
As brightly as in morning that we know,
When light in mellow benediction lay
On purple hills and valleys far below?
And does the smoke in swirling spirals rise
From other campfires as from ours then?
Ah, I have but to close my weary eyes
To see that misty-wreathed violet world again!
So clearly linger in my memory
The crisp, bright air, the fragrant cedar fire,
The world an Eden made for you and me,
Who were as one in dream and in desire—
It seems some part of us must dwell there still
At Moose Head Lodge, atop a hyacinth hill.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—So far this has been the toughest of all winters since gold digging became one of the grand arts. Ladies with a letch for Patou frocks, bracelets from Cartier, homes on the Sound and apartments on the Gold Coast have found the track muddy, the going rough.

Tabloids are popping with all sorts of suits, the gold digger's final despairing gesture when other shake-downs fail. In more opulent days, philandering gentlemen would pass out chunks of "heart balm" at intervals to head off love nest headlines. But not any more.

Good time Charlies haven't the dough. Most of them depended upon stock transactions for loose expenditures, but that source temporarily dried up. So they have turned in their hide-away flat keys, accepted the figurative sock on the chin and await fairer weather. Kale and farewell!

More than 1,000 satin spun apartments on the West Side were emptied after the mid-summer market crash. Innumerable jewels, white ermine coats and other trappings of the furred fauna went to hock-shops. The second hand auto market was suddenly flooded with imported limousines.

Declasse damsels have scattered. Many have gone back to their little home towns where they were believed "to hold responsible positions in the city." Others are sheltered in rooming houses and a few have returned to the promiscuity of the pavements.

The type had 10 magnificent years, neither toiling nor spinning. They luxuriated most of the day in dressmaking parlors and beauty salons and then waited in highly polished splendor at their apartments for the initialed gentlemen known to elevator runners as "Mr. X."

They composed an orchidaceous guild only prosperity fosters. As one tipsy lily expressed it in a hush parlor back-room: "All the important money guys are family firesiders. And here we are sitting around speakeasies crying into our gin."

The four magicians with the greatest box office sway are Howard Thurston, Nate Leipzig, Fred Keating and John Mulholland. Each is a deft purveyor of bright patter which has become the biggest asset of the prestidigitator.

The psychology of dress is applied to radio announcers. There is a voice in the darkness but they "dress for the part." Many broadcasting stations require dinner clothes after 6, discovering meticulous habilments improve the mood.

Several radio stars are unable successfully to broadcast without an audience. When they step to the microphone a crowd faces them. In this way they get "the feel" of audience reaction. Otherwise they lack usual spontaneity.

During a call from a back home visitor today an airplane zoomed overhead with a squawking radio ballyhooing a Broadway show. It announced this chronicler as one of many who enjoyed the performance. I tried to let on it was nothing unusual—you know, indulging a wry little smile of recognition and talking casually of other things. Never before have I reached such heights of blaseosity. And it would not take heavy argument to convince me I may yet become quite a card.

Yet it strikes me Life is always offering a handicap to those trying to put on the lug. There are frequently occasions when I want to express myself in a grandiose manner to impress some outlander. The other evening over the coffee cups there was such an opportunity. In replying to a query about a certain author I tried to say: "He is the direct antithesis!" But it was such a struggle against the upper plate that "antithesis" came out the shrill clear whistle of a peanut stand.

Text for Today

Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?—Matthew, vi:25.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. Ray Ewers, pastor, East End Christian Church.)

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

So you nurse grievances, do you?

Proud of the fact that you never forget or forgive an injury.

You still carry in your mind many memories of things that angered you and all these years you have retained ill-feeling for those responsible.

What have you gained by keeping these unpleasant thoughts?

They must have ruined your state of mind many a time.

Much unhappiness may be traced to thinking about sore spots of the past.

Tragic experiences, when they happened, perhaps, but not vital.

You seem to have treasured the unpleasant phases of certain periods of your life and ever so often revive the happenings in detail.

What do you get out of it?

Is it merely a good story to you now or are you bitterly conscious of the unhappy things that robbed you of much joy that might have been yours?

If keeping distributing things in mind helps you to avoid foolish experiences in the present you may think of this reason as an excuse.

But thinking of old grievances harms you and you alone more than it can help you.

There is enough to think about to keep your affairs in good running order at present.
